HUMOROUS.

"Do you believe in predestination?" said the captain of a Mississippi steamer to a clergyman who happened to be traveling with him. "Of course I do." "And do you believe what is to be will be?" "Certainly." "Well, I am glad to hear it." "Why?" "Because, I intend to pass that boat ahead in fifteen consecutive minutes, if there be any virtue in pine knots and loaded safetyvalves. So, don't be alarmed, for if the boiler ain't to burst, then it won't." Here the divine began putting on his hat, and looked very much like backing out, which the captain observing, he said: "I thought you said you believed in predestination, and what is to be will be." "So I do, but prefer being a little nearer the stern when it takes place."

Two Irishmen engaged in peddling packages of line, bought an old mule to aid in carrying the bundles. Each would ride a while or "ride and tie" as the saying is. One day the Irishman who was on foot, got close to the heels of his mule-ship, when he received a kick on one of his shins. To be revenged he picked up a stone, and hurled it at the mule, but by accident struck his companion on the back of the head. Seeing what he had done, he stopped and began to groan and rub his shin. "What's the matter?" "The cratur's kicked me." was the reply. "Be jabbers," said the other, "he's did that same to me on the back of me head."

A traveler stopped at a public house in Maine for the purpose of getting dinner, knocked and knocked, but received no answer. Going in, he found a little white headed man in the embrace of his wife, who had his head under her arm, while with the other she was giving her lord a pounding. Wishing to put an end to the fight, our traveler knocked on the table, and cried out in a loud voice, "Hallo, here! who keeps this house?" The husband, though much out of breath, answered: "Stranger, that's what we are trying to decide."

At a ladies' temperance meeting not long since, one of the ladies remarked that the temperance cause had been a blessing to her; "for," added she, "I slept with a barrel of rum for ten years; but now," she continued, her eyes brightening, since my husband signed the pledge, I have a man to sleep with!" Then all the spinsters present laid their hands on their hearts and sang—Amen!

The following is a copy of a will left by a man who chose to be his own lawyer: "This is the last will and testament of me, John Thomas. I give all my things to my relations, to be divided among them the best way they can,—N. B. If anybody kicks up a row, or makes any fuss about it, he ain't to have anything."

The little son of a very prominent minister of this city said to his father. "Pa, St. Paul was a Yankee." "How do you know that, my son?" "Why, sir, in the 18th verse of the 8th chapter of Romans he says: "For I reckon." None but Yankees says reckon."

"I wasn't so very late—only a quarter of twelve." "How dare you sit there and tell me that lie? I was awake when you came in, and looked at my watch and it was three o'clock." "Well, isn't three a quarter of twelve?"

"Jury," said a Western judge, "you kin go out and find a verdict. If you can't find one of your own, get the one the jury last used. The jury returned a verdict of "suicide in the ninth degree."

The following verdict was given and written by the foreman of a coroner's jury: "We are of A Pinion that the Decest met with her death from Violent Infirmation of the Arm, produesed from Unoan Cauz."

A worthy old farmer, who was being worried in his cross-examination by a lawyer in Maine, exclaimed: "Look here, 'Squire, don't you ask a good many foolish questions?"
