HUMOROUS.

A Boy's Ideas of Heads. "Heads are of different shapes and sizes. They are full of notions. Large heads do not always hold the most. Some persons can tell just what a man is by the shape of his head. High heads are the best kind. Very knowing people are called long-headed. A fellow that won't stop for anything or anybody is called hot-headed. If he isn't quite so bright they call him soft-headed; if he won't be coaxed nor turned they call him pig-headed. Animals have very small heads. The heads of fools slant back. When your head is cut off you are beheaded. Our heads are all covered with hair except bald heads. There are other kinds of heads besides our heads. There are barrel heads, heads of sermons—and some ministers used to have fifteen heads to one sermon; pin heads; heads of cattle, as the farmer calls his cows and oxen; head winds; drum heads; cabbage heads; at loggerheads, come to a head; heads of chapters; head him off; head of the family, and go ahead—but first be sure you are right." —Young American.

Told the Truth. "I say, fellows," remarked a loafer to some of his companions. "Let us see who can tell the biggest lie."

"All right," said one "I'm the biggest fool in America."

"Oh shaw!" exclaimed the first contemptuously; "We agreed to tell nothing but lies, and you commenced by telling the truth."

On a dispute between two officers aboard a vessel, whose crew were Irish and English sailors, one of them contended that the English could not answer a common question with half the adroitness which was natural to the Irish.

A bet was proposed; it was agreed to try the point immediately, and an Englishman was asked what he would take to go aloft blindfolded in a hard gale.

"I would take a month's pay," was the reply.

"And what would you take, Pat?" said one of the officers to an Irishman.

"By jabsers!" said he, "I would take nothing but fast hold."

At Point Creek, Jackson county, a trader had bought sheep of a resident. Resident had one more to sell, when the following conversation ensued:

Trader—"I'll give you two dollars for that sheep."

Resident—"It's worth five dollars."

T.—"It ain't worth two dollars."

R.—"It's worth five dollars."

T.—"It ain't."

R. (drawing a large navy)—"What's that there sheep worth?"

T.—"Under the circumstances, I think it's worth nigh unto six dollars."

They traded forthwith.

A gentleman whose memory is not quite so good as it used to be, when he has anything particular to remember next morning makes a practice of turning one of the pictures in his bedroom with the face to the wall. He finds it very amusing next day trying to recollect what he turned it for.

Mr. Justice Littleton, of Massachusetts, made the following remark about a certain hotel, after he had been there on circuit. Some one asked him how he found the table. "How?" growled the judge. "Everything cold but the water, and everything sour but the pickles."

It is a standing rule in my church," said one clergyman to another, "for the sexton to wake up any man that he may see asleep." "I think," returned the other, "that it would be much better for the sexton, whenever any man goes to sleep under your preaching, to wake you up."

While a clergyman of the Methodist order was praying at a camp meeting in a most fervent manner for the power of the devil to be curtailed, a zealous old negro man loudly exclaimed: "Amen, yes, bless God, cut the tall smack, smooove off."

A cherubic little fellow told his kindly school teacher recently, that he doesn't want to be an angel so much as he did. He prefers to grow up, go to Congress and receive back pay.

They have a Judge in Kansas who fined a lawyer for saying "sic transit." The official thought it was swearing, and remarked indignantly that nobody should "sick" him in that Court.

What is the difference between a Jew and a lawyer? The one gets his law from the prophets, the other his profits from the law.

One man reprimanding another, said that he talked like a fool. "True," he replied; but it is that you may understand me.
