LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Notices of Marriages and Deaths not exceeding four lines, will be inserted free, and friends throughout the county are requested to send such notices in.

Crop Prospects.—A friend who has just returned from a ten days trip through this and Franklin county, says the wheat never promised better. Not more than one fourth of the oats are yet sowed, and the general spring work is exceedingly late.

Sheriff's Sale.—On Friday, May 2d, the Sheriff will expose at public sale at the Court House in this borough, the mill property, boat yard &c., situated in the borough of New Buffalo, seized as the property of John Ferry.

The New Pension Act.—The following are among the provisions of the new pension act. As there are a number of persons in this county, who are entitled to pensions, this paragraph may be of interest to them:

All persons who have lost a leg above the knee, and are so disabled thereby that they cannot use an artificial limb, shall be rated in the second class, and receive twenty-four dollars per month. All persons having lost the hearing of both ears, to receive thirteen dollars per month. Section five provides that the rate of eighteen dollars per month may be proportionally divided for any degree of disability established for which the second section makes no provision. The new law also adds two years to the limitations under which claims may be established.

Two Runaways.—On Thursday morning while Ex-Sheriff Rinehart, was driving near this borough, the spindle of his sulky broke, throwing the Sheriff out, but fortunately not doing him any injury. The horse ran into this borough leaving a demoralized sulky a short distance from where the accident occurred.

After running a short distance the animal encountered a horse and buggy driven by Mrs. Singleton Sheaffer, which frightened her horse and caused him to run away. Mrs. S. jumped out and though badly frightened was not hurt. The Sheriff tried to stop her horse, but he shied off and catching the buggy into the fence twisted off the shafts, broke the cross bar, and left for home, leaving a badly wrecked buggy behind him.

Iron Ore.—Many splendid deposits of iron ore are found in this county. Between this borough and Duncannon the D. B. & L. Railroad will pass in close proximity to several valuable tracts of ore land, and the building of this road will speedily bring this ore into market.

Men representing the iron ore interest are now looking after this land, and one good lease has already been made. When the grading of the road has once been commenced more of these contracts will be made, and we think there is no doubt but what the iron business alone would make the road a paying investment. It seems to us that a proper regard to their own interest would prompt every citizen in this portion of the county, to hand in their subscriptions to the stock of the D. B. & L. R. R., and thus hasten the time when the wealth now lying idle will be made productive. The prospects for the success of the enterprise were never so good as at present, and all that is needed to make success a certainty, is the united action of those who will be benefited.

Our Railroad.—The importance of pushing forward the building of the D. B. & L. R. R. cannot be too strongly impressed upon every man in this county. In the Perry County Democrat of last week, we find an excellent article, on the subject, which we copy for the benefit of our readers who own land in this vicinity, and the upper part of the county, and who often ask what benefit will farmers derive from the making of this road:

"A railroad will bring many of them more additional wealth than they now possess. Some who are now comparatively poor would find themselves in comfortable circumstances when the road is made. The causes that operate in one community to advance the value of property will certainly not fail to produce similar results in other neighborhoods. A farm that is worth $2,000 to-day, that can be made worth $5,000 in one year hence by the expenditure of $1,000, is certainly a good financial operation. Like causes must produce like results.

Then why should men stand in the way of their own pecuniary benefit? It is a very short-sighted policy that will not permit the owner of a farm worth $2,000 to invest $1,000 to enhance its value to a higher figure than a life-time of toil and care could bring it. The project has now been pushed to that point which must determine its success or failure.

On the 1st of May a President and a Board of Directors will be chosen. To vote at that election and to show your interest in the enterprise your money must be the evidence. Without liberal subscriptions from all who will be benefited, the road cannot be graded. To hold back now to see what your neighbor will do is a most certain method of killing the project. All must come promptly forward with their means. Our friends in Duncannon should wake up. To them it is a matter of great importance. It would double the trade of that borough before a train would pass over the road.—The work of construction would be no small item to the business men of that borough, for the grading would commence there. Most of the money expended in making the road-bed would be handled by them in supplying the wants of contractors and their hands. And after the road would be constructed, with their free bridge across the mouth of the Juniata, the travel that would be diverted to that place from between the two rivers, en route to the county seat, would largely compensate them for their investment in this road. We are surprised to see the lack of interest they manifest in this enterprise. If we had as practicable route to Newport, the energy of the people of that enterprising borough would show a marked contrast. They would permit no such opportunity to pass unimproved.

But not only the people of Duncannon and Bloomfield will be greatly advantaged by this railroad. Every man who owns an acre of land along the route will be benefited.

And we might with truth, add that every man between Duncannon and the Round Top, would receive more or less advantage from the making of this road.

The Zitzer Trial.—Albert Zitzer, aged about sixteen years, who in Carlisle a few months ago killed his father, Dr. Charles F. Zitzer, has been convicted of manslaughter, with a recommendation to the mercy of the court, by a Cumberland county jury, who were out from Friday evening until late on Monday night, before returning a verdict. The Carlisle Herald gives the following particulars of the homicide as brought out by the testimony submitted at the trial:

About seven o'clock on the evening of January 25, Albert Zitzer, the accused, being slightly intoxicated, went to the brewery of Mr. Krause and called for a quart of beer. Mr. Krause, having received instructions from Albert's parents not to furnish their son any beer, refused to give him any. Albert denied that his parents had given any instructions concerning him, and in order to solve the difficulty Mr. Krause agreed to go with him to his father's office. Dr. and Mrs. Zitzer were in the office when they arrived, and Mrs. Zitzer, when asked whether she had given directions to Mr. Krause not to furnish her son any liquor, immediately replied that she had and that if everybody would act as well as Mr. Krause did Albert would be a different boy. Dr. Zitzer then began cursing his wife and son and pulling off his overcoat rushed on Albert and closed with him in conflict. Mr. Krause, with the assistance of Mr. Bixler, who happened to be in the office, succeeded in separating the combatants and conducted the doctor from the room. A few minutes later they again came together and again were separated. A few minutes after this Albert was in the dining room showing some friends how his father had shoved the chairs around in the office. His father was attracted by the noise and came in with an iron pestle in his hand and cursing Albert drove him through the entry into the office. The boy got behind the counter, and whilst his father was menacing him with an iron pestle he seized a mortar and struck him on the upper left part of the forehead. Two short cuts were made in the skin, but the skull was not fractured. The doctor was not felled by the blow but shortly afterwards became sick and died on Wednesday, February 5, one week after the above recited occurrence. Albert is sixteen years of age and about five feet ten inches in height. It was in evidence that on the afternoon of the day on which the difficulty occurred Dr. Zitzer took Albert to a barrel of cider, mixed with gin, which he had in the house, and disregarding the protests of Mrs. Zitzer gave him five glasses full of it.

The counsel for the prisoner tried to show, firstly, that Dr. Zitzer did not die from the blow he received from his son, but from other and extraneous causes.—Secondly, that the blow which his son gave was given in self-defense; this point, if proved, would make the deed an excusable homicide. Thirdly, that Dr. Zitzer had wilfully given his young son strong drink and in consequence was alone chargeable with the results of his son's conduct.

Four doctors attended Dr. Zitzer during his sickness. Three of these gave their opinion that he died from the effects of the blow he received on the head, but that his constitution had previously been very much shattered; the fourth gave his opinion that the blow was not the cause of death, but that the doctor's health, impaired by hard drink and exposure, had gradually and naturally declined, and that the blow had not appreciably hastened the event.

A. B. Sharpe and W. F. Saddle, Esqs., conducted the prosecution and C. E. Maglauchlin, Esq., defended the prisoner. The court sentenced the defendant to confinement in the county jail for 30 days and to give bonds to keep the peace for 5 years.

Cumberland County.—From the Cumberland County papers of last week, we copy the following:

On Friday night last, Andrew B. Zeigler, of Carlisle, retired in his usual health, but in an hour or so afterwards had a stroke of paralysis from which he never became conscious. The deceased had resided in this town for many years, was a prominent business man, being the proprietor of the mineral water and sarsaparilla manufactory, large quantities of which were sold in this and adjoining counties.

One day last week, Mrs. Germier, an aged widow lady residing on East Louther street, attempted to put an end to her life by swallowing a very large dose of muriatic acid, a poisonous compound, that had been used by her son-in-law in burning out horse's hoofs. She was discovered a short time after swallowing the acid, and medical aid was summoned, but it is hardly probable that she can live.

The steward of the Cumberland County Alms house was tried last week for neglect of duty in reference to the patients sent to the hospital during the prevalence of small pox, last winter and was found guilty.

Times in Juniata county, must be hard, judging from the number of men in the hands of the Sheriff. Last week's papers from that county advertise fourteen different properties to be sold at Sheriff's sale on the 25th inst.

A disease resembling the epizooty killed two horses belonging to William Wolf, of Dauphin county, last week. One of the animals was valued at over $400.

Who is the most use to a community, the man who is wealthy and hoards his money, or the man who has less, but aids and pushes forward public enterprise?

A Very Interesting Work.

We have just received from the National Publishing Co., of Philadelphia, a copy of Prof. O. S. Fowler's great work, on Manhood, Womanhood, and their Mutual Interrelations; Love, his Laws, Power, etc. Forty years experience as a teacher and lecturer on science, and a long life devoted to consultations and advice in connection with subjects concerning which men and women hesitate to confide—even in their physicians—have enabled Professor Fowler to give to the world the most remarkable and useful volume of the day, and one which should find its way into the hands of every conscientious man and woman.

Thousands will thank the author for his disclosures, and we predict that the book will mark the beginning of a clearer understanding of the subjects whereof it treats. Men will be arrested in their heedless course, and made to think of the misery they are entailing upon their families and themselves through ignorance. Wives will find in this volume a sure and safe road to the accomplishment of every true wife's desires. Women who wish to retain their health and beauty in mature life, will be taught in this volume the secret of doing so, and will also learn here the true means of keeping their husbands faithful.

There would be fewer firesides made desolate, if the "Sexual Science," which are laid down and explained in this book were better understood and more generally acted upon. The best guarantee of its excellence is the fact that its suggestions and remedies meet the approval of every intelligent physician in the country. It exposes quacks and patent medicines unmercifully, and by its common-sense-views will save many a dollar for those who follow its instructions, as well as put them on the sure road to health. It will show how mothers can avoid much of their suffering, and how they can raise daughters fit to be wives and mothers. The book appeals to every class, and to people of all ages, tastes, and habits, and we hope it will be read by every man and woman in our broad land.

It is pure and elevated in tone, and abounds in the most useful information concerning the sexes. Its low price brings it within the reach of all, and the information it contains is beyond value. Its circulation will be a benefit to society.

The book is sold by subscription only, and the publishers want agents in every county.

DEATHS.

EVANS.—At Loysville, at 12 o'clock on the night of April 28th, 1873, Mr. David Evans, for many years a resident of this village, aged 59 years and 14 days.

Friend Evans was, in his way, a useful man, and will be missed by many who required favors, which his skill, and obliging disposition, qualified and prompted him so generally to render. To that God, for whose worship, he, as Sten of the Loysville Union Church, so often called his neighbors together, Mr. Evans has gone to render an account of "the deeds done in the body." His hand will toll the bell no more, but—Well; are we ready to answer the call which he has been compelled to obey? A wife and seven children are left to follow the departed. To them we extend our sympathy, and to all we say, "be ye also ready." S.
