An Unpleasant Wedding.

A young man who has very recently opened a business house in. West Kansas City, wooed and won the affection of the daughter of Mr. Chapman Haight, who resides near the city limits on the Independence road. The parents of the young girl bitterly opposed the marriage of the young couple, because of the alleged dissipated habits of the young man. But opposition only added fuel to the flame, and confirmed the daughter in her determination to cling to her lover through thick and thin. On Monday last, during Mr. Haight's absence at Independence, the West Kansas merchant proceeded with a buggy to the residence of his affianced to take her to Wyandotte to be married.

Miss Haight was ready and willing to go with him, but the mother set her foot firmly down, vowing that he should not take the girl from the house, at the same time producing a stout hickory stick, saying that if he attempted to carry off her daughter she would use the stick. Treating these as the idle threats of a woman, the lovers continued their preparations for departure; all things being ready they proceeded to the bungy, the young lady was handed in and the brave young gallant was about to follow, when down came the rod in the hand of the indignant mother, down, down came the blows, thick and fast they fell upon the head, hands and face; the young man dropped the lines in his endeavors to save his face from the blows.

The horse becoming frightened, started towards Kansas City, carrying away the terrified young lady. Fortunately the horse was stopped before doing any damage, and the young lady, with rare courage and presence of mind, turned round and went back for her discomfitted lover, and after picking him up both proceeded on their way rejoicing.

Next day Mrs. Haight was in the city seeking further revenge by the prosecution of the young man for assault and larceny. She states that the young man assaulted her, took away her stick, a pair of spectacles and a revolver. She was advised to go home and allow the young couple to go their chosen way in life. The parents were seen later in the day driving up to their son-in-law's store, so it is presumable that a reconciliation has been or will be effected.

Is he Murdered ?

About a year ago it was reported that John Simpson, of Lancaster, had been murdered at a secluded spot near Hamburg, Berks county. Subsequent developments indicated that instead of Simpson having been killed he had left his coat and other articles where he was said to have been put to death to leave the impression that he had been murdered and his body thrown into the canal. Within the past month the Reading authorities; have received a letter from the south that a man lynched there for the commission of a crime had confessed that he was the murderer of Simpson. This stery soon after was exploded, and following close on its heels a Berks county boatman stated that he could point to the identical spot where Simpson was killed and where his remains were interred. He was arrested and requested to give such information as he possensed, but in the course of investigation it was ascertained that the boatman had been indulging in buncombe. The following, from the Lancaster Intelligencer, will probably do something toward unraveling the Simpson mystery: A reliable gentleman residing in this city assures us that on Wednesday preceding the "local option" election in February last, he met John Simpson at the Buck hotel, in Harrisburg, took a drink with him and had considerable conversation with him. Our friend rallied Simpson about his supposed murder, saying in effect that he was a very healthy looking corpse, to which the ghost of Simpson replied deprecatingly: "Oh! don't say anything about that-let's take a drink." Our friend drank with him and then requested him to go with him to another hotel, kept at that time by Samuel-C. Taylor, an old resident of this city, but Simpson declined to go there for fear he would meet somebody from Lancaster who might know him. These facts we have received from a source perfectly reliable, and they seem to us to be sufficient to explode the oft repeated story of Simpson's murder. -

IT IS SPECIALLY ADAPTED to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weath-er of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impuri-lies from the sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tu-mors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrot-ula, etc., etc.
