HUMEROUS.

A nigger has wool, so has a sheep; but a sheep is not a nigger.

An Indiana man has invented a "spark-arrestor." It is to be presumed he has a family of daughters.

Agassiz says that the evening hours are the best for sleep. They are also the best for sitting up with a nice girl.

The best thing in the world is to take things as they come—take them easy—and take a good many of them.

What is the difference between electricity and a fool? One is simply marvelous, and the other is marvelously simple.

A retiring man says nobody ever paid him much attention until he broke out of jail, and then he was much sought after.

An Indiana Sunday-school man writes to a Bible firm in New York:—"Send me on Sunday-school papers and books. Let the books be about pirates and Indians as far as possible."

An exchange says we have a right to take an umbrella or a kiss without permission whenever we can. Well, but if the umbrella isn't returned, the fault is ours, if the kiss isn't it is the lady's.

A New England writer says that it has been found that negroes can be better trusted than white men not to betray secrets. We suppose this is upon the principle that they always "keep dark."

A lady asked her doctor if he did not think the small bonnets the ladies wore had tendency to produce congestion of the brain. "Oh, no," replied the doctor. "Women who have brains don't wear them."

Teacher—John, you young scape-grace, come here and I'll pay you back for your impudence to me yesterday. Pupil—I have conscientious scruples, sir, against taking back pay of that sort.

A Frenchwoman said that she never loved any thing. "You loved your children?" suggested a friend. "When they were little," she replied. "And you love diamonds?" "When they are large."

A man out West who married a widow has invented a device to cure her of "eternally" praising her former husband. Whenever she begins to descant on his noble qualities, this ingenious No. 2 merely says: "Poor dear man! How I wish he hadn't died." And the lady immediately thinks of something else to talk about.

Capping It. Village Dame—"Look ye here, Hodges, that butcher's boy, drat him, 'shin and set his dog at my cat, an' the poor thing'd be skared for a week!"

Hodges (with a grin)—"But I can tell ye summat wuss nor that, Mrs. Brown. Polly Spigott o' the Lamb have' sat her cap at the young miller, an' mark me, he'll have a Tartar for life!"

A minister examined his school boys thus: "What is the meaning of the word 'repentant'?"

"Please, sir, don't know."

"Now, if I had stolen a loaf of bread what would I be?"

"Well, should I feel sorry?"

"Yes."

"Well, why should I feel sorry?"

"Coz you was cotched?"

A countryman, very much marked with the small pox, applied to a justice of the peace for redress in an affair where one of his neighbors had ill-treated him; but not explaining the business so clearly as the justice expected.

"Fellow, said the justice in a rage, 'I don't know whether you were inoculated for the small pox or not; but I am sure you have been for stupidity!'"

"Why, and please your honor," replied the man "perhaps I might, as you say, be inoculated for stupidity, but there was no occasion to perform that upon your worship, for you seem to have had it in the natural way."

An anecdote of Herve, the composer, is given in the Figaro. He was very unsuccessful in a provincial town where he was giving representations. The second night there was scarcely one person present. The next day an announcement was posted that an amateur of the town would make his debut in the piece of that evening. A crowded house was the result. The piece, Don-Quixote, was played amidst general inattention—the audience were thinking of the fativo amateur. About the last scene Sancho made his entrance on his proverbial donkey. The audience, thinking they were to be taken in, shouted loudly for the amateur. Herve came forward with dignity, pointed to the beast and said: "You were promised the debut of an amateur of the town. Behold him!" The curtain fell, and the back door was used by the performers.
