WE ARE INVESTING FOR EASTERN parties many thousands of dollars per month in first mortgages on improved property in Illinois, and such has been the demand for these desirable securities, that we have, during the last fifteen months, placed in them nearly One Million of Dollars, the semi-annual interest on which has in each and every case, been promptly paid. We invest any sum, be it large or small, and collect and remit interest and principal as it matures, all without expense to the lender. Can refer to parties for whom we have loaned large amounts, and who have never lost a dollar either of principal or interest in this class of securities during the last fifteen years. HUMOROUS ITEMS.

What looks most like a man?—A great big boy.

An Iowa justice of the peace refused to fine a man for kissing a girl against her will, on the ground that Hannah could have bitten him but did not.

One person having asked another if he believed in the appearance of spirits, "No," was the reply, "But I believe in their disappearance, for I've missed a bottle of gin since last night."

"Who was the first woman?" "Eve, of course." "No, you're wrong." "How so?" "Why, don't the Good Book say that Adam was the first made? And isn't a maid a woman?"

Two Irishmen traveling on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad track came to a mile post, when one of them exclaimed: "Tread aisy, Pat; here lies a man who was 108 years old—his name is Miles from Baltimore."

"Salts of demoniac" were recently called for at a country store in Western Massachusetts. The apothecary filled the bill with a pint of New England rum. Anything more demoniac than that, he said, wasn't down in his materia medica.

As a fop was riding a very fine horse in the park, a young and pretty lady was very evidently admiring the animal, when he stopped and impudently asked: "Are you admiring me, miss?" "No," was the ready reply; "I was admiring the horse, not the donkey."

"Professor," said a student in pursuit of knowledge concerning the habits of animals, "why does a cat, while eating, turn her head first one way and then another?" "For the reason," replied the Professor "that she cannot turn it both ways at once."

On the consummation of a wedding in an uptown family a visitor unwisely observed to the youngest, "You're a brother-in-law, now, Tommy." "Yes," said Tommy, puffing out his cheeks offensively, "but Ma says I'll be an uncle, by and by."

A skeptic who was trying to confuse a Christian colored man by the contradictory passage in the Bible, asked him how it could be true that we were in the the Spirit and the Spirit in us. "Oh," replied he, "dar's no puzzle bout dat.—It's like dat poker; I put it in de fire till it gets red hot—now de poker's in de fire, and de fire's in de poker."

An Indianapolis woman recently gave birth to a child during her husband's absence, and just before his return the neighbors borrowed two other babies and placed them in bed with the little stranger. When the father asked to see his child the coverlid was turned down, and although he must have been immensely surprised, he coolly turned to his wife and asked, "Did any get away?"

In a village sabbath school in a neighboring village a few Sabbaths ago, the superintendent was endeavoring to convey to the minds of the children the spiritual significance of the lamb, the sheep and the shepherd. "Now," says he, "you are the lambs, the teachers are the sheep; what am I?" After some pause, an urchin having more knowledge than discretion, assuringly shouted, "I guess you must be the old buck!"

Jones went to a masquerade ball a short time ago in the character of a fortune teller. A newly-married couple came up to him, and Jones began to tell their fortunes by examining their hands. "You," he said to the young wife, "you will have three children." Then to the husband, he said: "You will never have children." The husband didn't like it, and Jones was very sorry for what he said, when he discovered the couple to be man and wife.

A boy about ten years old, ragged and barefooted, dropped into the Central Station, and one of the men asked him where his father was.

"Dead," replied the lad.

"Where's your mother?"

"Run away," was the answer.

"That's tough," continued the officer; "I should think you'd feel pretty lonesome."

"Not a bit of it," exclaimed the boy brightening up; "there's going to be the biggest circus here next month you ever set your eyes on."

A negro minister who married rather sooner after the death of his wife than some of his sisters thought proper and becoming, excused himself as follows: "My dear brethren and sisters, my grief was greater than I could bear. I turned every way for peace and comfort, but none came. I searched the Scriptures from Ginnisee to Riverlutions, and found plenty of promises to the widder, but nary one to the widderer. And so I took it that the good Lord didn't waste sympathy on a man when it was in his power to comfort himself, and having a first rate chance to marry in the Lord, I did so again. Besides, brethren, I considered that poor Betsy was just as dead as she would ever be."
