THE Boston Transcript says "that persons who send poetry to the newspapers should always retain copies." In most cases it would be better to retain the original, and to take no copy.

THE New York election this year comprises an entire State Senate to serve for two years, an entire Assembly to serve for one year, and seven State officers for the term of two years. All but two of the State officers whose terms expire are Re-

AT Schenectady, last week Charles Clackper of West Troy, was run over by the Cincinnati express train on the Central road, and badly mangled. Thomas Roach, was run over and killed, and Thomas Tarpey, of Crescent, Saratoga county, was drowned in the canal, on the same day.

Ir now appears that Vice President Wilson's late attack of paralysis, was of a much more serious character than first reported. The stroke deprived him of the use or control of the muscles of one side of his face, and has considerably disfigured him, besides affecting his speech. His physician says he will be all right before the meeting of Congress, if he only keeps quiet.

ALEXANDER T. STEWART, who has started on a trip to Europe (and who is now getting to be a rather elderly man), made a will before leaving New York. It appears that he is worth $100,000,000! One hundred millions! How many of the eight or ten richest men of Europe surpass that gigantic figure? And yet, here in this 'new world," we have Vanderbilt who equals it, and Astor (probably) also.

THERE has been great complaint during the past two years by the manufacturers of watches in the country that their trade has been seriously injured by foreign firms, who import inferior works with fac similes of the trade marks of our own makers. The facts having been investigated by Colonel F. E. How, special agent of the Treasury Department in New York, his officer has made a raid on several suspected parties and seized over one thousand watches of foreign make with American trade marks engraved on the works. The forging of American trade marks on foreign articles was made a crime by a law of the last Congress.

Important Railroad Decision.

Among the cases argued before the Sureme Court in Ha burg last May, w one asking for the reversal of a judgment entered against the Pennsylvania railroad company in the Common Pleas of Juniata county. The suit was originally instituted for the recovery of damages by the friends of a Mr. Beale, who had been fatally injured while crossing the track of the Pennsylvania Central. The case was ably argued in the Supreme Court, and that tribunal through Judge Sharswood has rendered a decision reversing the court below, on the ground of contributory negligence on the part of the deceased. The crossing at which he met with the injury which resulted in his death was a dangerous one, and as he was well acquainted with it, there was greater reason that he should exercise the utmost care and caution, by stopping at the railroad before undertaking to pass over. It is very clear that if he had done so, but for a few minutes the accident would not have happened. Judge Sharswood, in the course of his opinion, remarked that :

"The fact of collision shows the neces ity there was of stopping, and therefore in every case of collision the result must be an unbending one. If the traveler cannot every case of comments an unbending one. If the traveler cannot are the track by looking out, whether from fog or other cause, he should get out, and if necessary lead his horse and wagon. A prudent and careful man would always do this at such a place." never was a more important princi-settled than that the fact of the failure more important principal settled than that the fact of the failure to stop immediately before crossing a railroad track is not merely evidence of negligence for the jury, but negligence per se and a question for the court. North Pennsylvania Railroad Co. vs. Heilman, 13 Wright, 60. It was important not so much to railroad companies as to the traveling public. Collisions of this character have often resulted in the loss of hundreds of valuable lives-of passengers on trains and they will do so again, if travelers crossing railroads are not taught their simple duty, not to themselves only but to others.

Terrible Riot in Tyrone.

Van Amburgh's menagerie exhibited in Tyrone on Monday, on which occasion a riot of no mean proportions affrighted the souls of peaceable folks. It appears that about a dozen men employed by the Keystone Bridge Company have been engaged at that point for some time past. They took advantage of the coming of Van Amburgh to engage in a holiday, and they further took advantage of the same circumstance to all get drunk. In the course of the day they became noisy, and by the time the afternoon performance of the show had begun they were decidedly quarrelsome. Policeman Cochran undertook to quell a disturbance kicked up by them on the show-ground, and was knocked down and dreadfully beaten by the rowdies.

Mr. John Cramer, a temporary policeman, interfered in behalf of Mr. Cochran, and was also badly used up. Dr. Calderwood, a private citizen, who was standing near by the scene of the conflict, was struck by a stone and a large piece of flesh cut from his face in the neighborhood of the eye. The citizens thereupon rallied and drove the miscreants from the showground capturing one of them, Peter Goodfellow by name, in the charge. He was committed to the borough lock-up. Later in the evening, the rest of the gang returned to the ground, where another onslaught was made on them by the citizens, and Bony Tibbs, who is said to be the ringleader of the gang, and Hays H. Wallace, were taken into custody and sent to keep company with Goodfellow.

The others escaped, but warrants are out for their arrest, and they will probably be captured before many days. Yesterday, four distinct charges were preferred against the three prisoners-assault and battery; assault and battery with intent to kill : riot, and resisting an officer in the discharge of his duty. They were fully committed on all four charges, and were then removed to the Hollidaysburg jail to await trial. Van Amburgh's men were wholly exonerated from participation in the outrage.

A Daring Leap for Liberty.

About two years ago, a warrant was issued in Huntingdon county, for the arrest of a man, whose name we fail to learn, on the charge of fornication and bastardy. He managed to keep out of the way of the officers of the law till last week, when he was captured at some point on the line of the P. & E. railroad by a deputy sheriff of Huntingdon county. He was handcuffed by one wrist to the wrist of the deputy sheriff, and the twain took the train for Huntingdon. After they had proceeded on their journey to within a short distance of the place of destination, the deputy sheriff suddenly remembered that he was thirsty, and unloosed the bracelet binding him to the prisoner in order that he might be allowed to visit the water-cooler. The train was moving at the usual rate of speed.

So soon as the back of the deputy sheriff was turned, the prisoner deliberately jumped feet foremost through the open window of the car. He alighted in a soft morass, and was not hurt, for he immediately picked himself up and broke for the woods at a gait quite rapid. The officer noticed his sudden exit, and without a moment's hesitation jumped after him. He brought up in the same morass, but his efforts to recapture the fugitive were somewhat impeded by the fact that he pitched headlong into the mud and stuck there. He so struck that his arms were imbedded neafly up to the sockets in the tenacious mire, and it was therefore an impossibility for him to bring his pistol into requisition. The prisoner took advantage of this singular combination of circumstances in his favor by making a fresh spurt, and soon disappeared in the distance. The train stopped, and the deputy sheriff was fished out of the mud, but he declined to enter upon further pursuit of the bold prisoner, and continued on his homeward route, the muddlest and maddest man lately seen in this or any other State. - Altoona Telbune

Terrific Explosion at Cleveland.

Cleveland, July 25 .- Early this morning an explosion occurred in V. Fries & Co.'s distillery on James street. One man was blown into the middle of the street, and another was blown from the second story window against another building, but neither of them were badly injured.

Immediately following the explosion an extensive fire broke out, totally destroying the large five story brick block occupied exclusively by Fries & Co. On account of the inflammable material the fire spread with great rapidity. It is said that a large quantity of fine wines and liquors were destroyed.

The Johnstown Democrat says that one day last week, one of the undertakers of that city was applied to by a gentleman for a coffin, and to bury a child. The coffin was selected, but about the time the finishing touches were being applied to the coffin, the gentleman re-appeared and countermanded his order, giving as his reason therefor the fact that the child was as yet

During a flerce thunder storm, at Fort Wayne, Indiana, on the night of the Severe Storm in Laucaster County.

A terrible tornado took place in East Hempfield township, Lancaster county, on Saturday, the 19th inst., about two o'clock. It seemed as though a violent gust was arising in the west, and at the same time a strong southerly wind was blowing; the heavy black clouds from the west were fast approaching, while a very heavy cloud, not so black, and seemingly lower than those from the west, was coming from the south. The clouds coming in contact with each other at a point between Rohrerstown and the buildings on the farm of Andrew Brubaker (where his son, Jacob, resides), caused a terrible tornado, striking the buildings of Mr. Brubaker and tearing off several rows of slate at the edge of the western gable end of the barn and tossing down one of the cupolas and otherwise shattering the roof. A large scale shed, with implement shed attached, and a large wagon shed were all torn from their foundations and demolished and scattered in all directions. The wind then struck a corn house, taking the roof and the whole upper part off and breaking it to pieces, besides tearing down seventeen apple trees. It next struck three grain stacks on farm No. 2 of Mr. Brubaker's, tearing them apart. The next place struck was a hay stack on the farm of Rudolph Herr, tearing it up badly. It then struck the corn house of Mr. Herr, knocking it to one side. The next point of note struck was the scale shed at the toll gate on the Lancaster and Millersville pike. This was torn completely down and scattered in all directions. We may add the dwelling and summer houses of Mr. Brubaker escaped injury. We have heard of no human lives or live stock as being injured by the tornado. After the storm had passed rain fell in torrents for about fifteen minutes. Not a flash of lightning was seen nor any thunder heard during all the storm and rain.

A Balloonist in Peril.

Mr. Frank K. King, who made a balloon ascension from the Lamoile Valley Fair Ground, Morristown, Vt., on the Fourth of July, had a perilous experience. When about two and a half miles up he encountered a snow storm, which covered the balloon nearly an inch thick and sent it down rapidly. The balloon was seen by several farmers when it landed, about forty-five minutes after it went up, and about eight miles from where the ascent was made. Not hearing anything from King, a party was organized and a search made. It was estimated that there were five hundred men in the forest at nine o'clock Sunday morning. The balloon was found at about eleven o'clock, and young King came out about the same time, having been in the wilderness almost forty-eight hours without any food. He was very much exhausted from cold and hunger, but uninjured, although he says a bear came within a few feet of him, snuffed around and left. Intense excitement prevailed all through the valley for the safety of the young man, and at his appearance there was great rejoicing.

A Shower of Pebbles.

The steamer New York, Captain Winchester, when eight miles from land, thirtythree miles east of Portland, on her trip from Boston last Friday night, between seven and eight o'clock p. m., was visited by a shower of pebbles that fell like hailtones. The watch on deck wh ming his light at the time, supposed that some of the crew were pelting him. The whole of them fell abaft the paddle boxes, In the morning he swept them up and threw all but one handful overboard, much to the regret of all on board, as some were very handsome. In the opinion of an eminent geologist the stones were taken up by a whirlwind from some fresh water brook. It will be remembered that the sky presented a very singular appearance that evening. The wind at the time, to use a queer expression, blew from all quar-ters. The stones saved were all about one size, and present the worn appearance of pebbles on the bottom of a fresh water pebbles on the bottom of a fresh water brook, and will weigh about helf an ounce each.—Boston Traveller, July 16.

Terrible Fire in Baltimore.

About 10 o'clock on Friday forenoon a fire broke out in the Planing Mill, belonging to Jos. Thomas & Co., on Clay street near Park, and soon extended so that a general alarm was given. In a short time the fire had increased, so that it seemed as though the city was to be destroyed, and engines were sent from Washington to assist in extinguishing the flames. The fire was got under control by 4 P. M., but by that time about 100 buildings were destroyed, among which were Dr. Smiths Presbyterian, and Dr. Barclays Lutheran Church and the Catholic Cathedral and the St. Johns German Catholic church. Two firemen are known to be killed and many persons were overcome with the The total loss is estimated at heat. $1,000,000.

The body of an unknown woman of about thirty-five years of age, and that of a boy seven years, both wrapped together in a sheet and tied by a shawl, were found last week in the East river near the foot of Twenty-eighth street. No clue to the identity of the woman or child can be obtained. It is supposed they were mother and son. The woman was seen last week on the pier at the foot of Twenty-eighth

Miscellaneous News Items.

Easton, Pa., July 22 .- On the Belvidere and Delaware train leaving Philadelphia at 7:30 this morning, when a few miles above Riegelsville, a youth named Harry Waterbury was struck by a projecting post and almost instantly killed. The body was taken to Phillipsburg. He was a resident of New Haven, and was returning there when killed.

Antwerp, Ohio, July 23 .- Yesterday a short distance from here, two brothers named Vanhue, aged sixteen and twenty, accompanied by a small boy, went bathing. The boy ventured into deep water and sank. The Vanhue brothers went to his rescue, when he clutched them in such a manner as rendered them powerless to save him or themselves. The boy was saved by timely assistance from the neighbors, but the two young men were drown-

Williamsport, Pa., July 23.—Isabella McBride, aged 70, living with her husband on a farm about seven miles from this city, was brutally murdered last night by being shot through the head. Her husband, John McBride, was knocked down with a club, and received seven severe cuts in the head. When found this afternoon he was lying on the floor weltering in his blood but living. The old people lived alone, and were supposed to have a large sum of money. At the Coroner's inquest nearly $3,000 was found in the house. There is no clue to the murderers.

Ton Wednesday afternoon last, R. A. Beck, a barber, was found in his place of business in the Diamond, lying asleep on a lounge, and all efforts to wake him proved futile. Physicians were called, and still he could not be restored to consciousness. He was taken to his home on Washington street, where he remains in a semiconscious condition. The cause of his sudden illness is not positively known; he was seen in his shop and conversed with a gentleman, but an hour previous to being discovered .- Huntingdon Globe.
