Too Much for Him. A Troy (New York) young man saw a colored woman mounted high upon a ladder washing windows. As a good joke he shook, and kicked the ladder. The woman failed to appreciate this mark of attention, and emptying her pail of water over the young man, she dropped the pail square on his head.

A railroad engineer at Boston, having been discharged, applied to be reinstated. 'You were dismissed,' said the superintendent, 'for letting your train come twice into collision.' 'The very reason,' said the other party, 'interrupting him, 'why I asked to be restored.' 'How so?' 'Why, sir, if I had any doubt before as to whether two trains can pass each other on the same track, I am now entirely satisfied; I have tried it twice, sir, and it can't be done, and I am not likely to try it again.'

A visitor was examining a class in a Sunday-school recently, and asked the question, "Why did Joseph detain Simeon in Egypt until his brethren should return with Benjamin?" A teacher endeavored to prompt one of the boys, and whispered to him to answer "that he was detained as a hostage." The boy, not catching the exact sound, started the visitor by popping out, "Please, sir, he was detained for postage!"

Our clergyman are often very inconsistent. There was Rev. Dr. Byng, of Delaware. He preached a sermon the other day on the text, "A soft answer turneth away wrath." As he was going home from church a man asked him if he dyed his hair or wore a wig, and the doctor not only called him an impudent scoundrel, but caressed him with his alpaca umbrella.

Nervous old gent.—Are you sure it is all right? Careful clerk.—Guess so. Prescription was a little indistinct, couldn't exactly tell whether it read two grains of Arsenic or twenty-two—If it don't agree with you send 'round and I will give you an emetic for half price.

A tale of two Norristown husbands: One, upon leaving his office the other night, stopped at a book-store, paid $1.25 for a new novel, and went home, and presented his wife with 'A Pair of Blue Eyes.' The other, after leaving his office stopped at a saloon, paid $1.25 for whiskey, and went home and gave his wife a pair of black eyes.

It is related that an Irishman once visited New Hampshire, and after having inspected the numerous hill and mountain ranges, exclaimed: "Bedad! I niver was in a country before where they had so much land that they had to stack it." A poor drunken loafer was picked up in the streets by a watchman, when the following decision was made: "There is no sense in his head, or cents in his pocket, and a powerful scent in his breath: he was of course sent to the watch-house." "Well, Pat, which is the way to Burlington?" "How did you know my name was Pat?" "Oh, I guessed it." "Thin, be the howly pokers, as ye are so good at guessing, ye'd better guess the way to Burlington." An Irish captain of militia receiving a note from a lady "requesting the pleasure of his company," understood it as a compliment to the men under his command, and marched the whole of them to her house. A public school teacher in Wisconsin has substituted for corporal punishment occasional doses of castor oil, which, he says, makes the pupils much more docile than the old plan. "What do you feed your pig?" asked a neighbor. "Corn," he said. "Do you feed it in the ear?" asked the friend. "Do you think I am a fool?" said the man, sarcastically, "what's his mouth for?" What is most likely to become a fair-haired woman? Why a fair-haired little girl, to be sure. Two horns will last an ox a lifetime, but many a man wants that number every morning before breakfast.
