The Flight of a Bank Cashier.

Mr. Oliver H. Miller, acting Cashier of the Croton River National Band of Brewsters, N. Y., and editor of the Republican papers at White Plains and Brewsters, has been missing since Monday night last. He took the 7 P. M., train at Brewsters, saying that he was going to White Plains to stay over night, as he had some extra work to do there. He met Harry Fox, foreman of his office, on the depot platform and told him he was going to Peekskill and that he would return to Brewsters in the morning. Then he stepped on the train, saying to Fox, "if anybody inquires about me, tell him where I have gone." Mr. Miller did not go to Peekskill. He was seen on Tuesday in New York, since which time nothing has been heard from him.

Mr. Foster, the cashier, and Mr. James E. Kelly the President, having satisfied themselves that Mr. Miller had absconded, began an investigation of his accounts .-Enough has been ascertained to warrant the belief that Miller is a defaulter to a considerable amount.

Mr. Miller received a salary of $1,000 a year, and since his absence the officers say they have evidence that he has kept fast company, and spent a great deal of money. It is thought by many that he has eloped with a young woman, who mysteriously disappeared on the same day, and on whose account a colored man has been arrested on suspicion of knowing where she is.

The result of the examination of the bank's books will not be known for several days. But the depositors will be secured against loss, as the bank has a capital of over $200,000, with a national circulation of $175,000. The bank was established in 1865. Miller has been the acting cashier since 1867. He was an expert accountant, and enjoyed the entire confidence of the officers and directors, and it was not until unmistakable proof had faced them that they suspected him of dishonesty. Mr. Miller is a native of Broome county N. Y., and went to Brewsters about seven years ago, where, three years later, he married Miss Elizabeth Merrick, a wealthy and respectable young lady, with whom he lived happily until a few months ago when some trouble was bred by jealousy. But the difficulty was settled, and about a month ago Mrs. Miller paid her father a visit in Western New York. She returned home on Tuesday, the next day after her husband's disappearance, and was shocked at the news. Mr. Miller made no provision for the support of his family. He neither collected bills nor sold property belonging to him. But claims against him have been presented for more than the value of property. Both of his newspapers are said to be encumbered for more than they are worth.

Mr. Miller is about 35 years of age, has black eyes, a large brown moustache, and is really a handsome man. In his flight he did not even take a change of clothing.

Congressional Autograph. The Postmaster-General has issued an order allowing members of Congress to place their autograph signatures on printed books, pamphlets, documents, &c., as in the good old days of franking, although they will still have to pay the postage. This order is said to have been made at the earnest solicitation of members of the House. In the days when each Congressman was allowed to send any amount of matter through the mails at the public expense, it was customary for members to employ clerks who were kept busy addressing documents bearing the stamped autograph of the Congressman. Some members went so far as to have a list of the voters of his district prepared, and most of these got a document of some kind during the term, bearing a fac smile of the Hon-. It must not be supposed that this kind of electioneering was without its fruits. Many a man was tickled by receiving some speech or useless document, tickled by the idea that the Congressman of the district had remembered him personally. Few were aware that their names were taken in order from a prepared list by the Congressman's clerk, and that the members name was counterfeited by a metalic stamp. One principal reason why members of Congress ha-ted to give up the franking privilege, was because they set no little value upon it as a cheap means of electioneering. For this reason the Postmaster-General was carnestly solicited to make the order which he has just issued. Citizens generally can not even write their initials on printed matter, but Congressmen and other officials can certify that the packages contain nothing but printed matter and affix their cherished autographic signatures thereto. What is the use of being a Congressman unless you can have privileges which are denied to common people?—Lancaster Intelligencer.

Mysterious Baggage.

A week ago last Sunday a mammoth Saratoga trunk arrived at Indianapolis from New York, which created some suspicion. Again last Monday morning the same train brought a similar trunk into the depot of that city. Both of these had through checks to St. Louis. The contents of this mysterious baggage made the employes of the railroad company deathly sick by their nauseating stench, something arising like that which would come from a corpse in a decaying condition. The trunks were forwarded to St. Louis and the Chief of Police of that city telegraphed to in regard to it. Some infamy will probably be unvailed there.
