Collar Bone Broken .-- On Saturday evening a young man named Michael Brown, working for Samuel Smith in this borough, had his collar bone broken, by a fall in the Eagle Hotel bar room. The accident happened while Brown and Harry Smith were "sky larking."

Fire .- About noon on Thursday, a fire broke out in the house belonging to the Jones estate, situated near the R. R., about one mile below Millerstown. By the aid of some railroad hands the furniture was all removed, but the building was entirely consumed. The fire probably originated from a passing locomotive. The house we learn was occupied by Hiram Jones.

Who is to Blame I-There is something wrong in the mail arrangements between this place and the upper part of the county. Within two years a number of letters containing notes and checks have been lost in transit between these points, and what is singular every loss that has happened to the bank here in that time, has occurred in that direction. The only loss we have ever had in money letters, with one exception, has also occurred in letters from the upper part of this county.

A Worthy Project .- Mr. Henry Rice, Sr., of this borough, has a paper soliciting subscriptions to raise a fund sufficient to creet a new fence around the old graveyard in this place. The present fence is in a dilapidated condition, and cattle having free access, the graves and stones are trampled down, and in bad condition .--Reader, have you a father, mother, brother or sister, or friend sleeping there ? if you have, contribute your mite to improve the appearance of their resting place.

A Child Found .- A correspondent of the the Hollidaysburg Register writing from Newburg, Blair county says : "On Wednesday last, while Mr. John McCloskey was hauling out manure for Peter Weaver, at Cattish, he had to drive through a swamp close by the garden of Mr. Weaver, and the wagon wheel in passing through the mud, brought to the surface the body of a male child. Mr. McCloskey discovered it but thought it was a dead pig, and on his return with the wagon, he saw that it was a child. He called to Mr. W's family, and they all ran to see it. Mr. W. dug a hole in the same swamp, about ten feet from where it was first buried, not putting it in a box or wrapping the body up in any way, but placed it in and covered it over very lightly. It was talked about until some of the neighbors got to hear of it whereupon Mr. Wike and Mr. Fink took Constable Goodman to the place and he raised the body. An inquest was held when it was shown that the child had been born alive and had been strangled.

Sunday School Convention.-According solutary School Convention.—According toprevious announcement, the members of the several Sabbath Schools of town met in the M. E. church on the 17th inst., at 8 o'clock, P. M., in order to make arrange-ments with regard to the Sabbath School Convention. Mr. Willis, Superintendent of the Presbyterian School, presided. The following Committees were appointed, viz : COM, ON ENTREALISMENT—MER. Sallie Roth.

Singular Scene in Court .- The ladies of Carlisle, have been for sometime past engaged in procuring names to a petition for the enforcement of the Local Option Law. This petition a committee of one hundred ladies presented to the court on Tuesday last, being introduced by Dr. Wing. Judge Junkin after receiving the petition, replied to the petitioners in a speech of some length, of which the following is an abstract :

"Ladies-Your petition implies much more than your innocent hearts have dreamed or intended it means one of two things, if not both, vizeither that this court has failed in its duty in the past, or intends to do so in the future. We are satisfied that you have arrived at this conclusion honestly in the usual womanly way. Some one told you, and your hearts have gone out in a good cause and your zeal has made your present otion seem a duty.

Has any one of you ever taken the pains to examine the records of this court to see how many men and women have been punished within the last one hundred and fifty days for selling liquor without license ? For your information the clerk will read the record."

This reading shows that 20 persons have been convicted and sentenced, all for the Brst offense, and the fines exceed $900, and with costs quite $1,000-in all about $2,000.

"You thus perceive that the fines and costs in-flicted within six months exceed $2,000. The number convicted is twenty, and the number acquitted one only. Now, ladies, what think you of this? Does it occur to you that the court has been idle or indifferent ? Had you heard of this before ? You will remember that these are unimpeachable records. They impart absolute verity. They will remain and speak long after all now present are dust. Have you heard any person speak of this evidence, or have your ad visers been so unjust as to conceal all this ? I -11 they have failed to inform you of these facts they have borne false witness against us-for conceal ment of truth is the equivalent of falsehood. You will be just-let others do as they will. You are far too pure in heart to intentionally wrong by word or deed, a tribunal which its own self-re spect compels to silence, and which is not expect ed to enter the field in self-defence; and we rec ognize our obligations to you for the opportuni ty and occasion your presence gives for pointing to the records of the court as its shield against assault. The duties of the court are often delli-cate and intricate to weigh out the precise measure of punishment.

The local option principle is, as you are aware, an experiment, and its abrupt enforcement is attended with great difficulties. You will remember that it cut up large interests by the roots, and from this has sprung bitter and de-termined opposition, such as never before has manifested itself against any law of this Commonwealth, and there is no question but it en-counters the hostilility of a majority of the voters of the State. But you answer the law is strong Yes, when public sentiment backs it up-then I has great majesty. You will remember that it has no armed force at its 'command ordinarilyit executes its purpose in silence-depending on its own inherent justice for respect. You will readily see some of the difficulties in the way of the perfect enforcement of this particular law.

We say to you, that there have been as many punished for violating this law in Cumberland is in any other county of equal population in the Commonwealth. In Juniata county there have een four-in Perry not one.

But you have been told, and this you cannot deny. that the sentences have been light, the court too lenient. The punishment for the first is a fine from $50 to $200, for a second and subsequent offences a fine of not less than $100, and in the discretion of the court imprisonment not exceeding ninety days, Now, there have been no convictions save for the first offence, so that imprisonment could not hitherto be added to the fine. You understand the legislature fixes the punishment, not the court-the discretion between the minimum and maximum is left to the discretion of the court.

Your ready intelligence will teach you that this discretion is lodged with the court for wise purposes-it could not safely be lodged in a town meeting. You know that the winds must be tempered to the shorn lamb, and it marks the progress of the Great Master's cause, that with the advance of His Kingdom the prison doors are opened, cruel and degrading punish-ments abolished, and the criminal law administered in a spirit of reform, not revenge Allow me to remind you of the punishments inflicted in England within two centuries last Then, had a poor starving, beggar stolen passed. but one of your lewels now flashing before me, even though expended for bread-nay, but a feather from your hat-death would have been his portion, and thousands died upon the scaffold for no greater crime than just that. Many a fair girl's face, as soft and bright, with eyes as mild and loving as any now before me, for stealing but an article of personal adornment, a ring, or a precious stone, has blackened in the sunlight, and her supple form stiffened in the winds. Were such cruel punishments inflicted in our days, we would hear an earnest protest from your warm hearts, but no such spectacle will ever cross your vision, thanks to that feature of human nature, which even the trail of the serpent could not obliterate. In passing sentence it is wise to consider all the circumstances, and there cannot justly be an inflexible measure of punishment. Hanging did not after all prevent theft, nor can we hope to see the day when any punishhowever severe, will prevent crime -the lion and the lamb must lie down together before this comes to pass. You will see that after all the law has wheely committed the measure within certain bounds to the court, and it is likely to remain there. It has been said, too, that juries have failed in their duty in reference to this law. Don't you believe that they have done their full duty ? The records show that in no case has the grand jury failed to find a bill, and but one acquittal by a traverse jury has occurred-and that justly. How long juries will continue to do their duty will depend somewhat on how they are treated by the public. It is very certain that wholesale denunciation, and assaults upon their integrity are not calculated to aid them in the discharge of their duties. It is thus nearly certain that the whole truth has not been told you, in reference to what this court has done in the line of its duty, and we are glad that you have come here in your own proper persons to hear the record read. You are You are now in possession of facts, not assertions, you can wield them as your kind hearts suggests. Again thanking you-and assuring you of our hearty co-operation in your efforts to suppress the evils of intemperance-you will allow us to proceed with the business of the term.

Juniata County .- From the Mifflintown papers of last week we copy the follow-

Between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock last Sunday evening the Patterson House stable was discovered to be on fire. It was ex-tinguished before much damage was doue.

David Harsh, an employee on the wood train, got his foot seriously mashed on Monday afternoon, in Patierson. The accident occurred by getting his foot be-tween the bumpers of two cars which run together. together.

Samuel Clark, of Lack township, was, on the evening of the 7th inst., thrown from a colt, falling upon his head, producing con-siderable concussion of the brain, and was otherwise injured. He was so completely stunned as to cause insensibility for some time afterwards. He is now recovering.

A portion of the bones of five different human beings have been exhumed in the excavation for the new court house. The bodies lay in close proximity to each other. There were no indications of coffins having been used in the burial. The bones crum-bled to dust upon being exposed to the air. The supposition seems to be that the spot was at one time an Indian burial-ground.

Cumberland County. - From the Carlisie Volunteer of last week, we copy the following :

Mrs. Beltzhoover, an aged lady, fell out of bed at her residence, at Bolling Springs, last week and died shortly after from the effects of the fall.

On Sunday last a bold attempt was made to fire a small building in the rear of Mil-ler's store, near the Market House. For-tunately the fire was discovered before it had made much progress, and the design of the incendiary frustrated.

As Mr. and Mrs. George Stone, of Mid-As Mr. and Mrs. George Stone, of Mid-diesex township, were coming to town in a spring wagon on Saturday morning last, with marketing, their horse took fright at seeing a hog in Baker's woods, and fan off at full speed. Mrs. S. was thrown violent-ly to the ground, receiving a severe cut on the head, and dislocating one of her wrists. Mr S. was also thrown out and provised Mr. S. was also thrown out and received several bruises. The spring wagon was broken to pieces, eight dozen eggs convert-ed into omelet, and the harness torn into bits. Mr. S. had bought the herse recent-ly and was not aware that he was tricky.

Suffocated by Coal Gas.—One night last week, the family of Martin, Breechbill, re-siding near Cleversburg, was nearly suffo-cated to death by gas from a coal stove. cated to death by gas from a coal stove. The parents were awakened in the night, by the children, and noticing they were sick, Mr. B. called for Dr. C. A. Howland, who, upon his entering the house, discov-ered the cause, and after opening the win-dows and doors, and administering proper remedies, restored the children. Had it not been discovered as soon as it was it is alto been discovered as soon as it was, it is altogether likely the whole family would have been killed, as the children were almost be-yond recovery. Where coal stoves are used in sleeping rooms, there should be free ventilation .- Shippensburg News.

Brief Items.

"The Grangers" in Spring township are making good headway. When will Cen-tre twp., organize a Grange?

Not half the farmers in this vicinity have yet sowed their oats. (We have no refer-ence to "wild oats)."

The young man who picked up, what he supposed to be a vell, (but it wasn't) the other evening in front of the Court House, wishes to have a law passed to prevent cows from running at large.

A dangerous counterfeit is out. It is the new ten cent note with its vignette of Meredith, and over the large "10" is print-ed "50." The "50" is, of course, excel-lently engraved and looks quite natural, and the counterfield is descent to the second and the counterfeit is dangerous, as these notes at the best resemble the fifties.

A horse driven to Newport, by Jacob Fenstemaker, scrared at the cars while standing near the depot, on Wednesday last, and made good time until brought to a stop, by running the spring wagon against a tree.

One of the boarders at Meredith's Hotel on last Wednesday evening saw a light in the yard after retiring for the night, and on getting up to discover the cause, found that quite a fire was blazing. The fire was caused by the wind igniting the slum-bering embers, left after burning rubbish the afternoon previous. Had it not been discovered about the time it was, it would soon have set fire to surrounding property.

A festival will be held during the week of the May Court, for the benefit of the Bloomfield Cornet Band. The ladies of this place and violatity, are respectfully re-quested to aid in getting up the satables.— Music will be furnished for the occasion. Our friends are cordially invited to assist us in this movement.
