Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Pamphlets Free.

Nature's Great Remedy THROAT AND LUNG DISEASES!!

It is the vital principle of the Pine Tree, obtained by a peculiar process in the distillation of the tar, by which its highest medicinal properties are retained. Tar even in its crude state has been recommended by eminent physicians of every school. It is confidently offered to the afflicted for the following simple reasons: 1. It cures, - not by abruptly stopping the cough, - but by dissolving the phlegm and assisting nature to throw off the unhealthy matter causing the irritation. In cases of acute croup it both prolongs and renders less burdensome the life of the afflicted sufferer. 2. Its healing principle acts upon the irritated surface of the lungs, penetrating to each diseased part, relieving pain, and subsiding inflammation.

It purifies and enriches the blood. Positively curing all humors, from the common eruptions of scurvy to the severest cases of Scrofula. Thousands of affidavits could be produced from those who have felt the beneficial effects of PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL in the various diseases arising from IMPURITIES OF THE BLOOD. 3. It invigorates the digestive organs and restores the appetite. 4. It has been known to cure Dr. L. Q. C. ALL KINDS OF JOB PRINTING. Neatly executed at the Bloomfield Times Steam Job Office.

Zedekiah is Frightened.

If you could have seen the pale, terror-wrought face of Zedekiah when the incident happened, you would appreciate the story. Zedekiah Allard lived over in Albany in New Hampshire. His cousin, Peter, had been for several years in business in Boston, and had become quite a gentleman in the way of fashion and knowledge of the world. One summer Peter paid a visit to the home of his youth; but he could not put up with the poor accommodations of the backwoods of Albany, so he sought quarters in the adjoining town of Conaway, with mine host of the Conaway House, said host at that time being Jonathan Dow; and while there he invited his cousin Zedekiah to call and see him.

Zed. came, and was astonished. He had never been in a big hotel before. The gaudy carpets; the spacious halls; the staring mirrors, and the bright pictures bewildered him. He went up into Peter's private room, where he gave vent to his wonder. "Crotch all broomsticks!" he exclaimed. "It is the tarnalest place I ever did see I should think you would be flambuster-fecated in such a tangle of gogawa."

"O, it's nothing when you get used to it, Zed. You ought to travel."

"What—on them pesky steam engines and ships? Not's you knows on. I read enough about 'em in dad's paper."

"Well, well—enjoy yourself as you can, old fellow."

"That's jest what I mean to do."

"You'll take dinner with me?"

"If you say so—yaans."

"Won't you have a little drop of something warming before dinner?"

"Eh? D'ye mean tod?"

"Yes."

"Sartin I will. Where 'I we git it?"

"We'll call for it."

"Who'll ye call?"

"Just you pull that cord that hangs by your elbow."

Zed. reached for the bell-cord and gave it a smart pull, and at that instant the gong sounded for dinner:—Whir-r-rang—crash—bang—bang—bang! The din was frightful, penetrating to every corner of the big house and shaking the very walls. Zedekiah leaped to his feet, pale and quivering.

"What have I done?" he gasped. "What the thunder did you tell me to pull that rope for? O, Pete! Pete!—What is it?"

Just then Mr. Dow opened the door, and looked in, asking rather hurriedly

"What is wanted?"

"Noth'n' blurd Zed."

"You rang the bell, didn't you?"

"Blast your old bell! there haint nobody touched a bell here. I haint seed no bell. If there's been a smash don't come a lookin' for it here, 'cause nobody in this ere room ever did it, I swan?"

Dow, in perplexity, turned to Peter and asked him if his bell had not been rung.

Zed. fearful that his cousin might own up, sprang toward him, and caught him by the collar,

"Look here, Pete of you go to lettin on about that tarnal' rope, I swan to man you'll have to pay the damage, for I'm blamed of I've got a cent."

At this point Peter burst. When he could control himself he explained to Dow the cause of his friend's alarm, and also elucidated to Zed, the nature and the uses of the gong.

"Waal, I declar! But Jewhittaker! wan't I skeered! T'riberlation take yer gongs, I say!"

But later over a mug of steaming punch, Zedekiah so far forgot his tribulation as to be able to smile.

At a Brooklyn wedding, among the presents ostentatiously displayed, was a one hundred-dollar bill, a present from the dotting father to the darling daughter. After the guests had departed, the old man coolly rolled up the bill and put it in his vest pocket, and that was the end of it.

An old negro was complaining to a friend that an idle vagabond had struck him.—"Well, did you hit him back?" asked the friend. "No, sah," said the old man; "I didn't touch him back, but I hit him head wid a bean-pole!"

A Western lawyer, who was defending a man on trial for wife-murder sought for some euphonious and innocent phrase with which to describe his client's crime, and finally said, "he winnowed her into Paradise with a fence rail!"

Some of the Alabama negroes are not unmindful of their equality before the law. It was only the other day that a lady met an old colored woman in Montgomery whom she knew. She met her with "Howdy do, Aunt Marie?" The aged negress raised herself erect, placed her arms akimbo, and remarked loftily, looking sidewise: "I ain't yer aunt, and I ain't yer uncle; I so yer ekal!" and indignantly stalked on.
