

The Bloomfield Times

NEW BLOOMFIELD, PENNA.

Tuesday, May 19, 1874.

The President has recognized Baxter as legal Governor of Arkansas, and if Brooks does not vacate the State House, United States troops will be ordered to dispossess him.

The effects of the action of the Court on the liquor bills was plainly seen in town on Wednesday night last. Liquor must have been plentifully furnished by some one.

Now, what had the Court to do with the young men drinking on the evening indicated? It is well known that the liquor came from Duncan's Island.

When we stated, that a general justification was had over the quashing of the indictments found by the last grand jury, for selling liquor in this borough, we had no intention of reflecting on the Court, but merely gave the fact as an item of news.

CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

The chief examiner connected with the Civil Service Commission has made a report to that body concerning the working of the system and the practical results of last winter's examinations.

A Libellant with two Husbands.

A divorce suit of a somewhat singular character has been instituted in the Pittsburgh Court of Common Pleas. The name of the libellant is Mary Ann Young.

A crusader's picket in Tiffin, Ohio, recently did some active service. Two young men in a saloon had progressed from angry words to blows, and had just drawn their revolvers.

Harrisburg Correspondence.

HARRISBURG, May 16th, 1874.

We have had two sensations here this week, one being the gathering of the soldiers and the other, the adjournment of the Legislature. These gentlemen have placed on record their doings, for which they modestly voted themselves $1,500.00 each, and now the people will scan their acts and pass upon the merits.

Among the closing scenes of the Legislature was the going through with the "You tickle me and I will tickle you," performance of presenting testimonials to the officers of the House.

Both Houses have agreed to the report of the Conference Committee and have passed the apportionment bill. Under this bill Franklin and Huntingdon counties form the 33rd Senatorial District.

The Senate closed its session by electing George H. Cutler, of Erie, as speaker. The doings in the House were not quite so boyish in the closing hours, as they were at the last session.

Fall of a Building in Buffalo.

Buffalo, N. Y., May 12th, 1874. - At about half-past five yesterday afternoon, without previous warning, McArthur's four story brick block on Main street, about Eagle street, fell with a terrible crash.

A daughter of the janitor, Frank Nagle, five years old, was instantly killed; also a son of Professor Buckham, the principal of the State Normal School, fourteen years of age.

Terrible Rat Fight in a Hogshead.

A lot of rats were found the other day in a hogshead that had been left open in a store at Exeter, N. H. The store cat, having been notified, climbed to the edge of the hogshead, but after surveying the situation jumped down and ran out at the door, shortly reappearing with another cat.

The Mississippi Overflow.

Memphis, Tenn., May 13.—About daylight yesterday morning the levee broke at Apperson's plantation, opposite Friar's Point. At the last account the crevasse was 150 yards wide, and the water spreading over the plantation—one of the finest in that section.

Novel Cure for Toothache.

A Marion, Ia., woman attempted to cure her husband's toothache by pouring several quarts of boiling hot water down his back. The jury, not wishing to encourage the practice of that school of dentistry, sent her to jail.

Foul Outrage on a British Consul.

Panama, May 2.—Mr. John Magee, British vice consul at San Jose de Guatemala, had incurred the enmity of Colonel Gonzales, the commandant at that port.

On the 24th of April the steamship Arizona arrived at San Jose, and providentially this was the day that Colonel Gonzales had fixed upon for venting his wrath on Mr. Magee.

Accordingly the sufferer was brought in on a cart, insulted, struck in the face with the butt of a pistol, imprisoned, and ordered to receive 400 lashes at 4 P. M.

Mr. Magee was brought out from his dungeon, thrown upon the ground, and a soldier sat upon his head while four others sat on his hands and feet.

Mr. Platt Evans, Jr., is a noted Cincinnati fisherman, but rarely goes out nowadays. His last exploit was on Mill Creek, near Cumminsville, when a stranger came along and found him shooting into the foliage of a tree with his slot-gun.

Fishing for Tree Bass.

Mr. Platt Evans, Jr., is a noted Cincinnati fisherman, but rarely goes out nowadays. His last exploit was on Mill Creek, near Cumminsville, when a stranger came along and found him shooting into the foliage of a tree with his slot-gun.

"What are you after there, my friend?" inquired the stranger.

"F-f-fish," was the laconic reply.

"What sort of fish?"

"T-t-tree bass," was the simple response accompanied by another double discharge of the gun up among the branches of the tree.

"But, great heaven! you don't catch fish on trees in this Western country, do you?" and the wondering stranger continued to stare and stare until Mr. Evans explained to him that in throwing a fish out of the creek he had jerked it too high and accidentally lodged it in the tree beyond his reach.

A Crusader Cowhided.

A shameful proceeding was witnessed yesterday morning, about ten o'clock, on Magee street, in the Sixth ward. It was none other than a public cowhiding of a wife by her husband, a driver of a sewing machine wagon.

A Clergyman Starving in Iowa.

The Eldora, Iowa, Ledger tells of a sad case of destitution in that locality. A Methodist clergyman, of fair attainments but excessively modest, was so sorely pressed with poverty last winter as to be almost in a starving condition.

Another Factory Girl Scalped.

A girl at work in the Kankakee, Ill., button factory, while picking up the buttons that fell from the lathe, got her scalp entangled in the machinery, and had the scalp on the left side of her head torn completely off.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is very strongly recommended by the Medical Faculty and is largely prescribed among their female patients. It is worthy of all confidence, as may be seen from the following testimonial:

Atlanta, Ill., July 14, 1873.

Dear Sir—I have no words to express my gratitude to you for your advice and assistance in my case. There is not one who has used your medicines since they have been brought here, but that can say with me they have been greatly benefited.

Miscellaneous News Items.

An Illinois man, while land hustling in Cass county, Iowa, recently, came across a den of wolves in which were five pups. He scolded them and received bounty money enough to pay his fare home.

A Phœnix undertook to give his dog a bath the other day, and seized him by the collar to throw him from the deck of the river steamer. The collar broke, and it was the man who had the bath.

The Pittsburg Leader says "McCormick is two red-headed for speaker. It requires a patient man."

It seems to us that a man with two heads has a right to be impatient, particularly if both are red.

Recently a five year old daughter of Mrs. Wm. Beasley, residing at Lewistown, accidentally fell into a tub of boiling water, and before she could be rescued was so terribly scalded that she died from the effects the following evening.

Two skeletons, one that of a man about 40 years of age, and the other of a young man, about 18, were unearthed near Sunbury, a few days ago. They are believed to be the remains of peddlers, murdered some 35 years ago.

One day last week a book-keeper in the employ of a lumber firm in Detroit, Mich., became suddenly ill, and, the Free Press says, the several physicians who were called decided that one of his lungs was affected with an abscess, caused by rubbing his side against the edge of the table.

A Difficulty between a Bill-poster and a Hackman.

A difficulty between a bill-poster and a hackman recently occurred before Koober's Theatre, Chicago. While the poster was endeavoring to cover the show board the hackman badgered him until he lost his temper and applied opprobrious epithets to his persecutor.

Don't Dodge!

The following story comes from Ireland: Two men had a quarrel in a liquor shop. They adjourned outside to settle the dispute. The first man being from Connaught, immediately seized a lump of stone and let fly at the head of his opponent, who dipped his head and missed the stone.

Thirty Years' Experience of an old Nurse.
