Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the Systems. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhoea, Bolls, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass. Pamphlets Free.

Pure Concentrated Potash,

OR LYE,

Of double the strength of any other

Saponifying Substance.

I have recently perfected a new method of packing my Potash, or Lye, and am now packing it only in Balls, the coating of which will saponify, and does not injure the soap. It is packed in boxes containing 24 and 48 one lb. Balls, and in no other way. Directions in English and German for making hard and soft soap with this Potash accompany each package.

Have just been received by

F. MORTIMER

A Slight Misunderstanding.

Max Adeler writes his book experience as follows:

I went into a Philadelphia bookstore, the other day for the purpose of procuring a copy of Christopher North's well known Noctes Ambrosianae. The first person I encountered was a red-haired clerk, to whom I said:

"Have you Noctes Ambrosianae?"

"Wh-wh-wh-what d' you say?" he asked, with his mouth and eyes wide open.

"I called to ascertain if you have Noctes Ambrosianae?"

"I don't exactly—that is, I don't understand—knocked his head d' you say?"

"I say that I understood that you had Noctes Ambrosianae. If you haven't why don't you say so at once?"

"I don't know what you mean. I never did such a thing in my life."

"Perhaps you don't understand me. I wish to see if you have Noctes Ambrosianae. Christopher North's Noctes Ambrosianae."

"O, he has, has he? He's knocked his, what you call it, has he? Well, I don't care a cent if he has. You've come to the wrong shop. You must be crazy. Your mind seems to be unhooked; you haven't—"

(breaking off suddenly and addressing a clerk in the rear of the store). "Say, Bill, here's a feller that's foolin' around here wantin' to knock to somebody. Get a policeman quick." Then I left and hunted up another emporium of learning.

Quick Time.

A gentleman had occasion to call on the Rev. Dominic Thomas Campbell when he was at Glasgow. "Is the dominie in?" he inquired of a portly dame who opened the door. "He's in the yard, superintendent' Sauners, the carpenter. Ye can see him the noo if your business is vera precise."

The gentleman walked into the yard, where he beheld a carpenter briskly planing away to the air of "Maggie Lauder," and the dominie standing by. Unwilling to intrude on their conversation he stepped aside and heard: "Sauners, I say? Can ye no hear me?" "Yes, minister, I herr ye."

"What's your will?" "Can ye no whistle some mair solemn and godly tune while ye're at your work?" "A-weel minister, if it be your will, I'll e'en do it."

Upon which he changed the air to the Dead March in Saul, greatly to the hindrance of the planing. The dominie looked on for some minutes in silence, and then said: "Sauners, I hae another word to say till ye. Did the gudewife hire ye by the day's darg, or by the job?" "The day's darg was our agreeing, maister."

"Then, on the whole, Sauners, I think ye, may just as well gie back to whistling 'Bonnie Maggie Lauder.'"

This comes from a correspondent in Sadana, Missouri. During the late war, while the Federal troops near here were taking a good many prisoners, a prominent Southern divine found himself in a quandy. Calling on the general commanding, he said:

"Sir, I have been ordered by my bishop to pray for the President of the Confederate States. The United States forces now having possession of the place, I don't know what to do, and in my difficulty I come to you."

The general, a kindly man, asked, "how long have you prayed for Mr. Davis?"

"Ever since the war began."

"Well, my dear doctor," continued the general, "I am not much of a theologian—only a poor soldier who obeys orders; and as your prayers don't appear to have done Mr. Davis much good, or us any harm, I see no objection to your obeying your orders, and continuing your supplications for Jeff, who certainly needs all the help, spiritual and material, he can get."

The doctor, as they say in Georgie, "resumed the primeval condition of his former rectitude."

A few days ago a hungry party sat down at the well-spread supper table of a Sound steamer, upon which one of the dishes contained a trout of moderate size. A serious-looking individual drew this toward him, saying, apologetically,

"This is fast day with me."

His next neighbor, an Irish gentleman, immediately inserted his fork into the fish and transferred it to his own plate, remarking,

"Sir, do you supposed nobody has a soul to be saved but yourself?"

A negro philosopher discussing the relations of the race said: "You know de turkey, he roost on de fence, and de goose he roost on de ground. You pull de turkey off de fence and he will git up again. You craps his wings, but somehow or nudder he gwine to get back on de fence. Now you put de goose on de fence an' he will fall off; he don't belong dar. De turkey am de white man. He's down now, but is gwine to get up again. De nigger is de goose. He better stay wha de belongs."
