A Black Samson.

There is a negro Samson named Nelson de Lisle in New Orleans. He is a horse dealer by profession, and the trick of his trade is to take possession of horses in an unauthorized manner. He was denominated a horse thief before a court in New Orleans in 1869 and sent to the State Prison, where he stayed only six days of the five years awarded him. He broke jail by snapping iron bars as if they had been pine sticks, and carrying the outer gate, and fled and hid. The police have been on a lookout for him, and afraid they would find him. The other day two or three of them got a hold of him, but he broke loose and laid them out on the pavement with one blow each of his mighty arm. De Lisle then ran, and the cry of "Stop thief" was raised, and a gathering crowd surged in pursuit. A policeman fired three shots without any apparent effeet, and he was at length brought to a halt by running as it were in a crowd of a thousand men, that had collected about him, both before and behind in his flight. The friction of such a mass was too much for him, and he saw the living wall close around him. He had no jawbone of an ass or any modern weapon to wield, or he might have waded through that thousand men and been free. It took twelve muscular white Americans to take him to the station house, as he kept up a skirmishing fight all the way. He was put in the stocks, and it was found that a pistol ball had passed through his thigh, and a club had indented his forehead over the eye. His vitals, which were covered with a heavy coating of upper leather, were unharmed. The authorities are thinking of putting De Lisle to performing feats of strength for their amusement, as the Philistines did Samson of old. He is not of exaggerated size, being a little over medium size, but his mould is Herculean and his endurance is equal to that of a steam engine of twenty horse power.

A Romantic Story.

Several years ago, while the Tom Thumb troupe were traveling through New York, the cash box containing several hundred dollars of the funds was stolen. Mr. William P. Miller, who was then treasurer of the troupe, suspected a girl who was employed at the hotel in the place where they then were, and his suspicions were further confirmed by her sudden disappearance.-He managed, however, to get track of her after some time had elapsed, and worked up the case so well that she confessed to him that she had taken the money to purchase a wedding outfit, and that the marriage was soon to take place. She refunded half of the stolen money, and Mr. Miller decided not to prosecute her for the balance. Shortly after she married a wealthy English gentleman, who was engaged in the lumber business in Chicago. Not many years had elapsed when her husband died, leaving her all of his property. A few months ago she also died, and in her will she left to Mr. Miller the sum of $300,000, as an expression of her gratitude for not having prosecuted her when in his power. Mr. Miller, who is now of the firm of Miller, Morrisson & Co., New York, recently received a let-ter from her administrator stating that he could draw on him for $100,000 at any nt nappened to a railroad train near New Haven. The short train which leaves Connecticut river at 6:15 a. m., ran off the track at the bridge at Stoney Creek. Superintendent Wm. M. Wilcox, of the shore line division of the consolidated road, was killed, and a number of passengers injured. One hundred were wounded, and a few fatally, by the railroad accident at Stoney Creek .-Superintendent Wilcox was the only one killed. The cause of the accident was the switchman turning the switch before all the train had crossed the bridge. The last car jumped over the bridge dragging the whole train with it. One lady from Clinton, Conn., will probably die, as both her legs are broken, and she is injured internally. The favorable locality prevented the loss of many lives. The action of replacing the switch too soon was unintentional. The cars fell on Superintendent Wilcox, breaking his neck.

Terrible Fire in Allegheny City.

On the afternoon of July 4th in Alle gheny city, a square and a half of buildings, principally dwellings, on the west side of Federal street, between Sampson street and Marquette alley, extending back to Arch street, and three or four buildings on the east side of Federal street were burned. At one time it was feared that the whole of the upper part of the city would be destroyed, as the water was scarce and a high wind prevailed, but the flames were got under control about 7 p. m. Over one hundred houses in all were destroyed, leaving many families homeless. The loss will probably reach $300,000. The fire originated in a carpenter shop, it is thought from fire crackers.

On the night of the 5th inst., a storm passed over Savannah, Ga., tearing up trees and unroofing houses. The grand stand at the Fair grounds was destroyed. The track of the storm was narrow, but its force was terrific. The display of electrical phenonena was grand.
