LOCAL DEPARTMENT.

Information Wanted .- We would like to know whether Woon's MAGAZINE is published yet, or whether the concern has "busted." Subscribers we took for that periodical, say it don't come any more. Can Messrs. Shute & Co., give the desired information? We would also like to know whether 'The Beverly Company' of Chicago, is a fraud or not. Several persons we know, have sent their money and got no equivalent.

Bloomfield Academy.-Regular term of ten weeks begins August 81st. Those preparing for examinations will form a special class under charge of the Principal, taking double tasks and thus finishing in five weeks the text books now now in hand. For terms, &c., Address Wm. Grier, Proprietor or Rev. John Edgar, A. M.

Leg Broken .- On Monday of last week, Mr. John Evinger had his leg broken by being thrown from his horse. Mr. E., lay in the road, being unable to help himself for nearly an hour, until a passer by came to his relief. The accident happened a short distance beyond the residence of Mr. John Shearer, in Centre twp., who furnished a spring wagon in which Mr. E., was conveyed to his home in Madison town-

Why is It?-We did hope that Grant having got well into his second term would by this time have weeded out his postmasters, so that there would be none in office so ignorant of their duties as to return a paper with only the words "not lifted" on the margin. It is conducive to profanity to hunt for a long time for the name, and to subsequently find that there is a subscriber with the same name at another office, and that you have stopped the wrong paper. The law provides a way for postmasters to notify publishers when papers are not taken from the office, and why they can't be guided by it, is a mystery to us. Though opposed to the third term principle, we would almost be willing to advocate it if three terms are requisite to get postmasters in office who will learn their duties.

Candidates. - Below we publish a list of the gentlemen as far as we can learn them, who are candidates for office before the Democratic convention:

For Assembly—Dr. Geo. N. Reutter, of Watts; Jesse Kreamer, of Toboyne; Joseph C. Barrett, of Newport and Dr. G. W. Mitchell, of Madison.

For Sheriff—Jno. P. Steel, of Penn; Samuel Leiby, of Oliver; W. C. Thompson, of Liverpool and James A. Gray, of Spring.

For Associate Judge—John Patterson, of Newport, is so far the only name announced.

For County Commissioner—Joseph Ulsh, of For County Commissioner—Joseph Ulsh, of Greenwood and W. E. Jones, Esq., of Watts.

So far the Republican aspirants for office are keeping "under the brush," and no public announcements have been made. We know of several parties who are desiring nomination for the different offices, but as they have not given public notice of thrown off, landing on his feet without the fact, we do not feel authorized to name injury. This is one of the most remarkable them in this article.

MILL W. 3 M County Supt. of Schools.4 Runaway .- On Wednesday last, as Mrs. Jos. Page was driving down the hill, which is near the residence of Mr. John Sanderson, in Centre township, the wagon struck the animal's legs and caused a runsway. Besides Mrs. Page, there were in the wagon, her daughter and two grand children, and a lot of berries. whole load with the exception of Mrs. Page, was unceremoniously left along the road, but fortunately none of the persons thrown out were hurt. Mrs. Page, however, got her feet down between the loose ever, get her feet down between the loose boards in the wagon bed, and was held there while her head and body were thrown over on the wheel. In this position she was carried until the horse was stopped near Barnett's Mill. She received a fracture of one of the bones of the leg, a fracture of several ribs and other cuts and bruises. Dr. Ard was called to attend to her injuries, and the prospects are that in a few weeks she will be ready for another ride.

Herrible Death .- Wednesday morning blood was dripping from one of the cars of the Pacific express west when it entered the depot in Labouster. The circumstances is explained in the following from the Lancaster Examiner of the next evening. A man named Joseph Vanderslice, residing at Philadelphia, was killed at Mill creek bridge, on the Pennsylvania rafifoad, this morning about half past two o'clock. It seems that he was in company with a companion named John Mancely, and the two were stealing 'a ride to Pittsburg to attend the prize fight, and were both lying upon top of a passenger car on the Pacific express west, Manceley lying lengthwise on the roof and Vanderslice lying with his head on his (Manceley's) back. In coming through the bridge Vanderslice raised up his head and was struck by one of the iron bolts, his skull being cloven in twain and his brains scattered about on the tin roof. It was dark at the time, and Manceley could not tell whether his companion was killed or not, but he held him on the roof until the train reached Lancaster and then he discovered that he was a corpse. He gave the alarm, and by the aid of a ladder the corpse was taken from the top of the car. The body was shipped to Philadelphia this morning.

A Scared Swearer-A few weeks since a party of hands were cutting the grain in the field belonging to Mr. Nagle in Bedford twp., Bedford Co., having one very profane one among them. The hail and rain had beat down the grain and it was difficult to cut, particularly that which grew in a certain corner of the field. When the profane man found that this particular spot would fall to his lot to cradle, he began to swear terrificly, and wished the lightning would strike it. There were no indications of a storm at the time, but presently a cloud made its appearance in the clear sky from the northwest, and just as the cradler began the attack on the tangled wheat, a storm broke forth. The forked flames played about him, and the terrific peals of thunder shook the earth. A large tree, not fifteen feet distant from the man, who stood trembling in his boots, was struck, and when he recovered from the shock which stunned him he broke for the farm house on a dead run, and burst into the room, pale and panting, to the terror of the ladies there assembled. He says he will never wish for lightning to strike anything, and has finally resolved not to indulge in profanity Narrow Escape. The Harrisburg Patriot of the 11th inst., says: "Yesterday morning as the Pacific express train westward bound was approaching Eagle station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, Wm. Geddes, the fireman of engine No. 31, was missed by the engineer. He had been "hooking" the fire, and the rod of the fire hook was still in the furnace, the end sticking out of the fire door, when the engineer missed him. The latter looked first on the tender, then peeped into the furnace, and when he found Geddes "nowhere" gave the signal to stop the train. The train was slowly backed, and when it had proceeded half a mile Geddes came up along side the engine alive and sound. He had stepped on a piece of coal and was escapes on record.

Road Proceedings.

The following road proceedings were had at August court :

Cumberland County .- From the Cumberland county papers of last week, we copy the following:

copy the following:

Two distressing accidents occurred in this county last week. On Wednesday, in Middlesex township, Reuben Albright was engaged in feeding a steam threshing-machine, and while in the act of replacing a belt on one of the pulleys while the machine was running, his right arm was caught in the machinery almost torn from the socket. The arm was so severely torn and mangled that the flesh and pieces of bone dropped therefrom while walking to the house near by. A physician was at once summoned, who immediately amputated the arm. At last accounts Mr. Albright was doing as well as could be expected, and some hopes are entertained for his recovery.

On Friday, in Dickinson township, Am-

On Friday, in Dickinson township, Ambrose Peffer, son of our former townsman, W. G. Peffer, had one of his arms injured while feeding a steam thresher. We were unable to learn the particulars of this accident, or the extent of young Peffer's interior.

On last Friday, John Miller, conductor on the express train of the C. V. R. R., was arrested, by order of Chief Burgess Thompson, for running at too great a speed through Carlisle. He was fined $10.

One day last week, Mr. W. Blair dis-posed of his handsome residence, on South Hanover street, to a Perry county gentle-man for $6,000.—Volunteer.

At the Democratic county convention the following complimentary resolution was unanimously passed:

Resolved, That we heartily endorse the course of our representative in Congress, the Hon. John A. Magee, and that we reccommend him to the Democracy of his new district as an unwavering supporter of Democratic principles.

The following are the tickets offered to the voters of Cumberland county:

At his residence, near Salem church, on on Wednesday evening last, Mr. John Roher, a respected and highly esteemed citizen, departed this life in a very sudden manner. He was at the love feast at Mr. Brechbill's during the day; after eating a hearty supper about 5 o'clock, he started for home. He arrived there in safety, and while engaged in cutting wood fell to the ground dead. The cause of his death we did not learn. He leaves a wife and two children.—Shippensburg News.

Juniata County.—From the Midlintown of all kinds always on hand and for sale at the papers we copy the following :

Harrison Varner, of Fayette township, has caught during the past season 32 red and gray foxes, 3 minks, 28 or 30 musk-rats and 11 ground hogs, and a score or more of skunks. He is a skilled trapper and successful hunter, and keeps from 8 to 10 dogs constantly on hand.

Last Sunday a man and a woman in Thompsontown had a domestic infelicity which resulted in a broken leg for the woman, and a run-off on the part of the man.

The Democrat & Register goes for one of the Congressional candidates as follows :

R. Bruce Petriken, of Huntingdon, was R. Bruce Petriken, of Huntingdon, was in Port Royal, this county, on last Thursday, looking after the interests of Hon. R. Milton Speer for the nomination of Congress in this district. The assertion he made about Juniata county's favorite for Congress,—Dr. A. J. Fisher, is a lie. Juniata county is desirous to have the nomination. But we can assure Governor Petriken of this fact, that had Juniata county no man to present for the position. ernor Petriken of this fact, that had Juniata county no man to present for the position, and the contest was between Hon. John A. Magee, of Perry county, and Hon. R. M. Speer, of Huntingdon county, Mr. Speer would not get twenty-five votes in the county. The Democracy of Juniata are for honest and pure Democrats.
