

Mr. Armitage's Secret.

About the 17th of June a notice appeared in the New York Tribune, stating the death of a Mr. Armitage of England. It went on to say that Mr. Armitage, on his death-bed, stated that in 1839 he was in this country and in the village of Dundee. That he secretly married a young lady named Candace Bliven, second or third daughter of John Bliven, of that place. After the marriage he left Dundee and left his wife there, and has never been back to claim her. It appears that when he left he went to Italy, but how long he was there, or what happened to him, is not definitely known. The story is that his mother died soon after leaving Dundee, and that he was so overcome by the loss that he lost his reason, which had prevented his returning as he expected. The paragraph in the Tribune was the first intimation of the affair that any one in Dundee had ever had of it, not excepting even the parents of the girl, and was at first looked upon as a mistake or singular mystery. But she that was known as Candace Bliven is still living, and at once corroborated the story of the marriage, and told the name of the minister who performed the ceremony. And several in the village on reflection, remembered that there was such a person there as Armitage in the fall of 1859. But why the marriage was thus performed, or why it has never been told of is still a mystery. It is believed, however, that Armitage was a younger son of the nobility of England, or at any rate connected in some way with a very wealthy family, that the marriage had to be kept still in order not to jeopardize interest in the property. It is furthermore said that he has lately come into possession of his estate, was able to acknowledge his marriage, and was coming after his wife when overtaken by the hand of death. She has always been known as a respectable lady, though acting rather singular sometimes. The strange manner in which the marriage was made known to the public—stating the name of the bride and that of her father and several circumstances all correctly—proves the truth apparently of that of the story, while her acknowledgment of it of course leaves no doubt that such an affair did actually take place. Whether the lady will come into possession of any property, or be otherwise affected, remains to be seen.—Schuyler Co. Democrat.

A Lover's Ruse.

The Toledo (Iowa) Chronicle says: At the Adams House in this place, at about 7 o'clock last Thursday evening, Squire Raines terminated a rather romantic and originally gotten up first-class elopement by uniting in wedlock John W. Shroyer of Waterloo and Miss Mary Krantz, from six miles north of La Porte City. It seems that for some time they had contemplated committing matrimony, but for an equal length of time the father of the fair Mary had firmly if not fiercely insisted that no such affair should ever take place, and was moving her by night from place to place in order that no meeting should take place between the lovers. But they were determined, fearless, and ready, and accordingly young Shroyer procured one of Waterloo's most spanking livery rigs, proceeded to La Porte City, and was soon in private and earnest consultation with his lawyer.—As the young lady was of age, habes corpus, &c., were suggested, but would not answer the emergency, such process being too slow when immediate action was necessary. At last a happy thought occurred to Mr. Shroyer, which was successfully carried out, thusly: He remembered once having dropped his breastpin and Mary playfully picked it up and kept it. Capital! He would have her arrested that very night for stealing the pin! He accordingly swore out a warrant before Justice McQuilkin. Constable A. Cotton immediately proceeded to the domicile of the cruel and abstruse "parent," closely followed by Shroyer, and arrested the girl at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, before the very eyes of the father and another suitor of his daughter's hand, whom the father, but not the girl, smiled favorably upon. The officer had proceeded about forty rods toward La Porte, when he handed his prisoner over to his hastily empowered deputy, Shroyer.—Mr. Cotton says it was the liveliest driving he ever did—trying to keep up with that Waterloo rig! Arriving at La Porte City, Shroyer withdrew his action for theft and paid the costs, but steadily prosecuted his other claim for a warranty of the girl's hand, in the shape of a marriage certificate, by driving rapidly in a zigzag course to Toledo.

Escape of Desperadoes from Jail.

Lynchburg, Va., August 11.—Information of a bold jail-breaking at Pittsylvania, Virginia, has just been received here. The following are the particulars: Yesterday, at noon, while the jailor was carrying to the prisoners their dinner, four of them, headed by the murderer, Joe Clark, made a desperate assault on him, seized and choked him. In the struggle, the jailor was thrown over the banisters and down the stairway, bruising him considerably, though not dangerously. The prisoners then succeeded in forcing open the back door and making good their escape. Immediate pursuit was given, and Wm. Smith, charged with forgery, who had escaped, was recaptured. Clark and the other two are still at large.
