Ly" The late Rev. Mr. Herrick of Worthington, Mass., collected his own salary, for which every voter of the town was assessed, and, calling on Mr. D., the blacksmith, one day, he said : "I have a small bill against you." "And for what?" "For preaching." "For preaching?" said Mr. D. "I have heard none of your preaching," "The fault is your own," said Mr. H. "The doors have been open, and you might have come in." Not long after, as Mr. H. was one day passing the blacksmith shop, Mr. D., hailing him, said: "I have a small bill against you." "And what for?" said Mr. H. "For shoeing your horse," replied Mr. D. "For shoeing my horse? I have had no horse shod here," said Mr. H. "The fault is your own,,' replied Mr. D. "The doors have been open, and you might have come in." Mr. H. paid the bill.

A lawyer built an office in the shape of a hexagon, or six square. The novelty of the structure attracted the attention of some Irishman who were passing by; they stopped and viewed the building very critically. The lawyer, somewhat disgusted at their curiosity, lifted up the window, put his head out, and addressed them :

"Why do you stand there like a pack of blockheads, gazing at my office; do you take it for a church ?"

"Faix," answered one of them, "I was thinking so, till I saw the devil poke his head out the window." The boat had just arrived, and the landing was as usual crowded with cabmen, porters, loafers, &c. When the passengers commenced landing, a colored porter stepped up to a country looking chap, saying: "Carry your baggage, sir?"

"No, I ain't got any baggage." The porter looked at him a minute, then very coolly stooped down, and taking hold of his foot, said with an air of astonish-

"Why, massa, that's one of your feet ain't it? Hang me if I didn't think it was a leather trunk!"

"John," said a fond mother to her son, "go to Smith's and borrow her andirons; and now, do be polite; don't say 'yes' and 'no,' but 'yes, sir,' and 'no, sir,' 'yes, ma'am,' and 'no, ma'am.' " "Yes," said John, "I'll be polite," and off he went to neighbor Smith's "Mrs. Smith, yes sir, no sir, yes ma'am, no ma'am-mother wants your darned oldand- irons !" The other day a Saratoga clergyman asked a stupid fellow, who was digging by the road-side, if he could tell him where -lived. "Wall, no," was the reply; "but of you'll ask the chap what keeps the simmetary he kin tell you, 'cause he knows where every body lives, whether they're dead or alive." Diggs saw a note on the ground, but knew that it was a counterfeit, and walked on without picking it up. He told Smithers the story, when the latter said : "Do you know Diggs, you have committed a very grave offence?" "Why what have I done?"

"You have passed a counterfeit bill, knowing it to be such," said Smithers, without a smile. A Countryman with his bride stopped at a Troy hotel the other day. At dinner, when the waiter presented a bill of fare, the young man inquired "What's that?" "That's a bill of fare," said the waiter. The countryman took it in his hands, looked inquiringly at his wife, and then at the waiter, and finally dove down

'How much is it?" 135" Little Billy was very cross and tired the other night, and he wanted his father to take him on his knee; but father was tired, or pretended to be. "I want you to hold me on your knee," he whited. "I tell you I cannot do it, I am tired," replied his father, impatiently. "Tired! You wasn't very tired last night when you held Mary on your knee in the kitchen."

into his pocket and insinuatingly inquired,

137 "Ma, is aunty got bees in her mouth ?"

"No; why do you ask such a stestion?" "Cause, that little man with a heap of hair on his face, cotched hold of her, and said he was going to take the honey from her lips ; and she said, " well make haste!"

Tit For Tat.

"Will you give me that ring?" said a village dandy to a lady; for it resembles my love for you; it has no end." "Excuse me, sir," was the reply, "I choose to keep it, as being emblematical of mine for you it has no beginning."
