THE importance of one vote is shown by the returns from Venango county. In that district, Park, democrat, was reported elected to the assembly over M'Creary, republican, by a majority of one. An error of one vote has been discovered in the returns from the borough of Emlenton, in favor of the republican candidate, making a tie-3,139 votes each. The error, however, was not discovered in time to prevent the certificate of election from being given to Park, which will admit him to his seat in the House, when his opponent will probably contest his right to the office and a new election will probably be held. This will be ordered by the Speaker of the house, and cannot be held until some time in February next.

A Chapter of Crimes.

The Scranton Times of last week, Monday, gives the following list of crimes and socidents, that occurred in Luzern county in one night:

At the Carbondale mines about two miles below Carbondale, a man was found on lonely and unfrequented place. He had been nailed up as one would tack up the skin of an animal to dry, the nails being driven through the sleeves of the coat at the wrist, and the legs of his pantaloons at the ankles. He had been left there to hang and die, probably, but was accidentally found and released. The name of this man is unknown to us.

Patrick Padden, a miner employed at Goal Brook colliery, was found on Sunday morning last, upon Dundaff street in Carbondale, badly pounded upon the head and side, and with two bullet holes in his head. When found his head was frozen to the ground, the head having dragged in a pool of blood and water and congealed. He was otherwise mutilated, but not quite dead. It seems that he had been quarrelling on Saturday afternoon with some parties at Coal Brook. He died yesterday afternoon.

Michael M'Nulty was found dead on Sunday upon the railroad bridge near the "look out" in Carbondale. He had evidently been put there. He worked at the Erie breaker near Carbondale and was about twenty years old.

Near the same place Michael Bigland, who had been seen the day before with a auit of dress-up clothes on, was found on Sunday with an old suit of miners' clothing, consisting of shirt and pantaloons, and his throat terribly gashed. He was not dead, and physicians having been summoned, and his throat sewed up, he is still alive with some hopes of ultimate recovery. He was taken home.

A slate boss at the Erie breaker, name not ascertained, was waylaid on Saturday night, had his arm broken, and was othergether, and earries to us a terrible lesson of the state of things in the region about Carbondale. It don't look as though money was the object sought for by those who did these deeds, the recital of which makes one's blood chill. What the incentive was is beyond our conjecture.

Caught in His own Trap.

Charles Perrin, of Detroit, wanted to marry, but the girl wasn't willing. Chas. thought he would fix it, and so went to the house with a bottle of acid in his pocket, prepared to spoil her beauty if she did not give him a favorable answer.

There was no one at home but the girl and her mother, and Ferrin first wanted the girl to take a walk with him. She refused to go, and he asked to see her alone, She also refused this request, and the lover had just got ready to draw the bottle from his pocket, when something bit him. He thought it was a dog, but it wasn't. The cork had worked out of the bottle, and his coat tails were turning brick color at the rate of a yard a minute. The acid wasn't content with the coat tails, but struck out for the flesh, and in about a minute the young man was dareing around the house as if to escape a bullet.

Shouting and whooping, he got out of doors and threw off most of his clothing and rolled in the mud, and it was some time before any one could find out whether he had snakes in his boots or had sat down on a brad-awl. He was so badly burnt that two men had to help him to his boardinghouse, where a physician dressed his burns.

Death in the Pulpit.

The Washington Chronicle of the 8th $1.25 | inst., says :

"A scene was enacted yesterday during the services of the Methodist Episcopal Mission Church on Twelfth street east, near Pennsylvania avenue, which will never be forgotten by the witnesses thereto.

The church was througed as usual for the morning service, which commenced at 11 o'clock, and when the pastor, Rev. Milton E. Hysore, entered the pulpit he announced to the congregation that he was suffering very much from inflamation of the throat, but proceeded at once with his sermon on the subject Word of Life. He was about half through his discourse when he suddenly remarked, "Brethren, I feel very sick," and clapping his right hand to his forehead as if in intense pain, exclaimed, "Jesus, save me, save me now," at the same time staggering back falling in a half-reclining po-sition on a sofa. Many in the audience rushed forward to assist him, foremost among whom was his wife, who, lifting his head to her shoulder, asked, "Mr. Hysore, do you feel sick?" when he replied "Yes," and sank back unconscious immediately. His teeth became clenched, and, after dreadful muscular contortions, he breathed his last.

$1,000 in a Rusty Pot.

The people of North Paris, Me., are considerably excited over the supposed discovery of a pot containing $1,000 in gold and silver coin. About the 7th of September, Alanson Briggs and son of Mechanics' Falls, went to that place in the night and dug a hole in a certain field, but left, having thrown back the earth and placed some brush over it. Having returned in the night, recently, they found marks as of a rusty pot drawn from the excavation, and it is known that the owner of the field had been to the spot in their absence. The Briggses think that he got the coin. Mr. Briggs declares that he has visited the spot for years to get the treasure, and residents of the town say that a trunk containing money disappeared from a store at the village about 30 years ago.

Suffering in the Grasshopper Districts.

Omaha, November 17 .- The weather to day has been very cold with high winds. The news from the grasshopper districts are meagre but conflurms all of the previous statements as to the extent of the suffering. The state relief society are shipping supplies to the affected districts daily. A general order was received by telegraph from Washington to-day, instructing him to ascertain what amount of men's clothing will be needed by the sufferers. It is hoped this action of the secretary of war looks to the distribution of soldiers, garments to these suffering people.

Steamboat Disaster.

A number of lives were lost on the 18th inst., by the sinking of the steamboat "Empire" while at the leves in New Orleans, where she had just arrived. A portion of the passengers had already gone ashore, or the loss would have been greater. Up to this time no bodies, except those of Cap tain Jansrean's daughter, aged eighteen, and a young boy, with three others, have been recovered. Mr. D. R. Perret, a passenger, gives the opinion that the boat was over-loaded and parted in the centre.

The divers of the bell boat Osage, on examining the wreck of the Empire next morning, saw wedged in the freight on deck some ten or twelve deck hands. The divers were unable to gain admission into the state rooms on account of the obstruc tions by freight. It is now, believed that It is more than a coincidence that these the loss of life will reach between thirty

(a) An unknown tramp was recently found hanging, head downward, on the fence of a cemetery in Uxbridge, Mass. His foot had caught between the pickets, and he had been unable to extricate himself. The horrors of such a death, at such a time and place, are unpleasant to contemplate.

The dog of Cap. Williams of North Berwick, Maine, howled so mournfully at his master's funeral that he had to be chained in the barn. When released he searched the premises for his master, and tracked the body to the graveyard, whither be goes daily and mourns for his lost 图 A young girl in Boston accused of receiving a stolen shawl worth $25, a fortnight, ago, deposited $50 with a man who became her bail, and on Thursday she was proved innocent, but her bondsman returned her but $20, charging twenty for the use of his name for two weeks, and her lawyer brought in a bill of $10.

Patrick Devor, of Vienna, Rush county, Indiana, was exasperated because his pistol wouldn't go off, and threw it on the floor with such force as to explode one of the cartridges, and the ball struck his daughter who was sitting at the table sewing, hitting her just below the right eye, and passing upward into her head, almost instantly killing her. It is reported that her mother nearly died with grief, and her father almost became insane.

A strange potato was found at Nunda, N. Y., recently, which the Dausville Advertiser describes as follows: It was dug in that town, weighed about three pounds, and contained within itself a very singular thing. A stem like something protruding from one and was seen to move as if it had life. The potato was cut open, and the stem was found to be the tail of a something inside which seemed to be half potato and half animal. It was about as large as a mouse, with a brown color, was shaped like a potato, with indentations like potato eyes, and yet seemed to be composed of animal flesh, and had life and motion. No one had seen anything at all resembling it. It was to be taken to Rochester and shown to scientists.

An exchange vouches for the following: A farmer's boy in Ohio observing a small flock of quails in his father's cornfield, resolved to watch their motions. They pursued a very regular course in their fo aging, commencing on one side of the field, taking about five rows, and following them uniformly to the opposite end, returning in the same manner over the next five rows. They continued in this course until they had explored the greater portion of the field. The lad suspicious that they were pulling up the corn, fired into the flock, killing but one of them, and proceeded to examine the ground. In the whole space over which they had traveled he found but one stalk of corn disturbed. This was nearly scratched out of the ground, but the ground still adhered to it. In the craw of the quail he found one cut-worm, twentyone striped vine-bugs, and one hundred chintz bugs, but not a single grain of leaving the bowels in an excellent condition. It seems to me they must take the place of all other cathartic pills and medicinal."

Lyon & Macomber, druggists, D. T., say: "we think they are going to sell like hot cakes as soon as people get acquainted with them and will spoil the pill trade, as those that have used them like them much better than large pills."

Dr. Sweeney, of New Bloomfield, Pa., can be consulted as usual on all Chronic diseases, requiring skillful medical treatment, or delicate and difficult Surgical operation for their cure.

Collecting Sen Moss.

A new industry in this country is that of collecting and drying sea moss, which is followed in the town of Kittery, Me. The mosa is collected in dories, in the neighborhood of White's Island and Whales Back. Two men go in each boat, and with rakes made for the purpose, tear the moss from the rocks at half-tide. It is then taken to the beaches, where large beds are constructed by taking up all the large rocks and leaving only a surface of the pebble stones.

These bed contain from ten to three hundred barrels. If there is no rain, sea-water has to be thrown on the moss, and the sun bleaches it from the dark green color, first to a beautiful pink, and then to a clear white. It has to be turned occasionally, and made the same as hay. After it is thoroughly dried it is packed in barrels and shipped to Boston, where it finds a ready sale at six cents per pound.

2,800 Worth of Mackerel at a Haul.

A school of mackerel made a dash for the seine of the New Bedford schooner Oliver Cromwell, recently, and carried it out of the vessel's reach, but the assistance of another vessel was obtained, and another seine being swung around them, $2,300 worth were secured.

quantities of the drug were annually consumed throughout our western country, more particularly along the river bottoms and adjoining low lands.

With the fall months malaria, in all its varied forms, stalks like an opisitinic through the issai, and whole districts are prostrated with chilfs and fevor, the entire population shaking with agree.—Herstofore, quinine was regularly resorted to; but, while it frequently falled to effect a cure, it invariably deranged with stomach, producing nauses, vertige and fugitive pains in the head to such assextent that mostlis chapsed ere the system recovered from its effects. These objections to its use were so marked, that the introduction of Mishler's Herb Bitters was halled as a triumph in mesteine. Infinitely more certain in its beneficial effects than quinines, it possessed none of the demerits of that drug. Instead of nauseating, it tones and invigorates the stomach, and while specifity expelling the naxious humors, increases the appetite and facilitates digestion, thus rendering the system stronger, and better fitted to resist the attacks of disease.
