Pats' Mustard Story.

Micky Murphy an' Dan Collins, two frins av moine come over to England for the rapin' av the harvist, an' was walkin' around town; an' moind ye, now Danny had been over before, but Micky had never been out o' the town o, Tipperary. They wer that hungry afther the vyige they didn't know what to do at all. Whin Danny sees I' Ristorant' wrut up over a shop, 'See, now,' sez he, 'that' a place to ate;' an' in they both goes; an' thin, sur, they sees the waither wid a towell over his arm, an' sez Danny, sez he, 'What can we get to ate?' 'Any thing at all,' sez the wiather. 'thin bring me a plate o' mate,' sez Danny. So in comes the waither wid a plate o' mate an' a large bowl o' musthard; an' moind ye, now, naythey Mick nor Danny had iver seen musthard before in all their born days. 'what's to pay for the mate?' sez Danny. 'A shillin', sur, sez waither. 'An' what's that?' sez he, pointin' to the boll. 'That's musthard,' sex the waither. 'An'what do ye do wid it?' 'Yez ates it wid the mate, to be sure.' 'An' what's to pay for it?' Nothin', sur.' Thin Danny looks at Mick, an Micky looks at Danny, an' they both winks. Whine the waither turned his back, sez Danny, 'See here, now, Micky,' sez he, 'I'll tell ye what we'll do: we,ll pocket the mate for the journey, an' ate the stuff they gives for nothin'; an' wid that Micky rowls up the mate in his handkercher an' puts it in the crown ay his hat; an' afther a while he opens his mout an' takes a great dollop av it. Down goes his head, an' the tears kep' runnin' down out av his eyes. 'Danney, lad, what does be the matter wid ye?' sez Micky. Dany wouldn't let on at all, ' But , sez he, whiniver I think o' the death o' me poor great grandfather that wor kilt at the battle o' the Boyne I can't kape from cryin' at all.' 'Don't take on wid ye like that,' sez Micky. 'Here, now, we're over in England, an we'll make a power o' money at the rapin', before harvist's over.' All this toime Danny was stirrin' the musthard, an' he hands the spoon to Micky. He takes a big spoonful too, an' the tears come runnin' down his nose. Danny wakes up an' sez he, Micky, what does be the mather wid ye?' 'Fegs! I'm cryin' because ye warn't kilt along wid yer greatgrandfather at the battle o' the Boyne! Ha, ha ,ha, ! Begorra, he gave him a rowlint for his iliphin that toime !"

A Relief.

The Boston Sunday Gazette says : " The other day a lady reached the railroad depot as the train on which she desired to depart moved away. As she stood gazing at the train, her arms full of packages and her eyes full of tears, a gentleman arrived at the depot on a run with a valise in hand, his coat on his arm, and face streaming with perspiration. He also was after that train, but alas! was too late. As he looked anxiously after the train, now moving swiftly away, he sat down on his valise, wiped his face and very deliberately said, 'D-n that train " The lady heard it, and smiling upon him with all her sweetness. her face lighted up with a heavenly glow as she whispered, 'Thank you Sir,' "

Rev. Keeling last Sunday night read very impressively his text: "Why art thou here without the wedding garment?" A newly married couple from the country sat far back in the church. The groom looked astonished, non-plussed. "Why art thou here without the wedding garment?" thundered still more impressively the minister, looking sternly in the direction of the couple. "I told you, Sallie," audibly whispered the groom, "that I ought to a' wore my weddin' suit, 'stead o' this second handed slop shop 'un. Now that feller's mad about it, but how in tarnation could he a' knowed that we was lately mar-

An erring husband, who had exhausted all explanations for late hours, and bad no apology ready, recently slipped into the house about one o'clock very softly, denuded himself gently, and began rocking the cradle by the bedside, as if he had been awakened out of a sound sleep by infantile cries. He had rocked away for five minutes, when Mary Jane, who had silently observed the whole manœuvre, said, "Come to bed, you fool, you! the baby ain't there."

A Clinton, N. Y., turkey was observed on a fence the other day intently studying an almanae and reckoning on his toes how long it was from Christmas.

137" A Western paper chronicles a marriage in this suggestive style : "The couple resolved themselves into a committee of two, with power to add to their number.

The following is extracted from a smart boy's composition on "Babies:" "The mother's heart gives 4th joy at the babies 1st 2th."
