

THE POST. MIDDLEBURG, MAY 12, 1879. CROISE & BENFER, Proprietors.

A TOUCH STORY.—An old fellow who never yielded the palm to any one reading a knotty yarn, was put to his trumps at hearing a traveler state that once he saw a brick house placed upon runners and drawn up a hill to a more favorable location, some half a mile distant.

"O, fudge," said the old man, "I once saw a two-story stone house, down east, drawn by oxen three miles."

A dead silence ensued. The old man evidently had the worst of it, and saw it. Gathering his energies, he hit off a high bit of pig tail, by way of gaining time for thought; "they drew the stone house," said the old man, ejecting a quantity of tobacco juice towards the fire place; "but that wasn't the worst of the job—after they'd done that, they went back and drew the collar."

The stranger gave in.

DON'T MIND THE PATCH.—Don't be a-bamed, my lad, if you have a patch on your elbow. It speaks well of your industrious mother. For our part, we would rather see a dozen patches on your jacket, than to hear one profane or vulgar word escape your lips. No good boys will show you, because you cannot dress as well as your companions; and it had boys sometimes laugh at your appearance, say nothing, my lad, but walk on. We know many a rich man who was once poor as you. There is one next door neighbor in particular—now one of our wealthiest men—he told us, a short time since, that when a child he was glad to receive the cold potatoes from his neighbor's table. Be good, my boy, and if you are poor you will be respected a great deal more than if you were the son of a rich man, and were addicted to bad habits.—Olive Branch

ENTHUSIASM QUENCHED.—At an enthusiastic religious meeting among the negroes in Blount county, Tennessee, last week, when the morners' bench was crowded with penitents groaning in agony, one of them a sable damsel of delicate proportions, sprang to her feet, crying: "Glory, Hallelujah! Let's brass de land! I've got religion! Let' if de elgier had the wings of a June bug she'd fly right to Heben!" Her enthusiasm was checked at that juncture by a sister who raised her head and brought the new convert's thoughts back from the ideal to the real thing: "You flogginer, what do you mean! If you had a June bug's wings, don't you know a woodpecker'd gobble you fore you got half a mile!"

There is a man in the vicinity of Cedar Keys, Florida, who has twenty two children living. The family sustains principally on fish and oysters. They have never had a plate nor a cup and saucer in their house. In lieu of cups they use pounds and shells. They help themselves to the eel, fish or oysters from a common large dish, and each member of the family uses his or her own jack-knife for that purpose. Those articles of diet are spread on corn bread, which they make themselves, and then they consume the plate as well as the food on it. In this way the washing of dishes is wholly obviated. The family are all healthy and are more robust than grateful.

A young lady met in company a young gentleman who evidently had an excellent opinion of himself. During conversation he introduced the subject of matrimony, and expatiated at length upon the kind of wife he expected to marry, that is, if ever he should take the decisive step. The honored lady must be wealthy, beautiful, accomplished, amiable, etc. etc. His listener quietly waited until he had ended, and then completely confounded him by asking in the coolest possible manner, "And pray, sir, what have you to offer in return for all this?" The young man stammered, reddened a little, and walked away.

A family in Florida lost their little boy, and they advertised for him in the daily paper. That very afternoon an alligator crawled up out of the swamp and died on the front doorstep. In his stomach was found a handful of red hair, some bone buttons, a glass city, a bag of barley, a Sunday school book, and a pair of check pants. The advertisement did it—at least so the editor says. It's no use for any alligator that has committed a crime to defy the power of a press. The editor says he will fetch them right up to the bottom of the Pacific ocean if it is necessary.

Know ye the printer's hour of peace? Know ye an hour more fraught with joy than ever felt by the Maid of Greener, when kissed by Venus' amorous boy? 'Tis not when news of solemn note, his columns all with sadness fill, nor yet when brother printers quote the effusion of his blum-worn quill. But 'tis when the weather's fair, or clad in rain, or hail, or vapor, "I've come to pay you for my paper."

POOR PEACH.—An Indian who had been converted and commenced preaching, upon being asked how much he was paid, replied, "Fifty cents for each sermon."

"That's mighty poor pay," said his friend. "Yes," said the Indian, shaking his head thoughtfully, "but mighty poor preach."

A servant living in the country was directed to get the mail. After her return her mistress inquired: "Did you get the mail?" She answered: "Faith, mum, I did not; for you forgot to tell me whether it was Indian mail or corn mail that you wanted."
