OUR TICKET.—To-day we place at our mast head the ticket put in nomination by the Republican party of our county. The ticket is a good one, and by it we will stand. It is composed of men worthy of the suffrages of the people,—men tried, and with whom we, as a people, are well acquainted We know them to be true Republicans earnest workers in the party, and well qualified to fill the offices for which they are candidates. It is our duty, as good Republicans, to labor for the success of these men at the general election in October, although some of them were not the first choice of many of us.

THE contest for the nomination in this county was exciting and interesting. The candidates all worked faithfully and earnestly, and although they were all conceded to be good and upright men, all of them could not expect to be nominated; and if those who were unsuccessful, feel a little sore, they have the satisfaction of knowing that they were not defeated by unworthy rivals. We think the campaign was a fair one—that no dishonorable means were used by one candidate to the detriment of another, that all are now ready and willing to do their whole duty towards electing the ticket put in nomination.

Free Trade.

That the present movement for free trade in this country is in the sole interest of the British manufacturers, and is not advocated from any honest conviction of its necessity in the minds of those engaged in it, is a fact apparent to all. The "revenue tariff" men of course deny this, and and are endeavoring to palm themselves off upon the people of the country as disinterested reformers. The following from the London (England) Mining Journal, an organ of the British iron and steel interests, sufficiently explains the objects of the vassals of the English manufacturers, and the weighty motives which govern their action:

AMERICAN LEGISLATION ON BRITISH IRON AND STEEL.—We have good news from the United States. The House of Representatives, in their discussion on the new tariff bill, have got beyond the debate on the general principles, and are now contesting the measure in its details. It has reached the item of iron, and has disposed of the duty upon pigs in a fashion most satisfactory to the British ironmaster. Most of our readers know that the existing duty on pig iron imported into the States is $9 a ton. As a sop to Cerberus, hoping thereby the more effectually to secure higher duties upon finished iron and steel than those at present levied, the Committee of Ways and Means, through whom the Pennsylvania ironmasters were operating, proposed to reduce the duty to $7. Last Monday, however, they found that they were taken in their own net. To the proposition that $7 should henceforth be the duty upon pig iron generally, General Butler moved an amendment, bringing down the duty another $2, and fixing it at $5 a ton. It was a thin House; for out of the whole number of Representatives ninety-eight members were absent, and we are thankful they were. There absense left the free-traders with just a majority. After several hours' debate, General Butler carried his amendment by five votes, the numbers being—for it 69, against it 64. As an augry of the future, it is most gratifying that so many Representatives were out of the House.

Coal Mines along the Union Pacific Railroad.

The western Mines of the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company are located on Bear river, about three miles from Evanston, a station on the Union Pacific Railroad, built by the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company.

These mines were discoved by one o the members of this Company in the fall of 1864, but were not extensively worked until about the time the Union Pacific Railroad, was completed to Evanstown, in October, 1868.

The Branth Railroad to the mines was completed in November, 1869, since which time cars have been loaded at the mines and forwarded to all points on the Union and Central Pacific Railroads.

The mines are nine hundred and fifty-seven miles west of Omaha, nine hundred and fifty-five miles east of San Francisco, and seventy miles east of Salt Lake (Ogden).

The coal is found in nearly a horizontal position, and extends along the face of the Bear River Mountains, north and south, for about one and a half miles. It is reached by tunnels from the main railroad track. The vein or seam of coal varies in thickness at the tunnels now open from twenty-six to forty-two feet, and has been traced by the blossoms and croppings some three miles east.

The quality of the coal is very peculiar, being between the anthracite and bituminous, (semi-bituminous), entirely free from all trace of sulphur, burns without smell or smoke, deposits but a small amount of white ash (two and one-half per cent. of water, and from seventy to seventy-four per cent. of fixed carbon, also from twenty to twenty two per cent. of volatile or inflammable matter.

The coal is used in locomotives of the Union Pacific, Cenntral Pacific, and Utah Central Railroads, and makes (on the passenger locomotives) upwards of ninety miles run per ton of coal. It is entirely free from clinker, does not burn out the fire-boxes or grates, and is universally conceded by the railroad master mechanics and engineers to be the best and most economical coal for steam purposes in America.

Some hundred and fifty tons per day are mined at this time, but the mines are opened for the delivery of four hundred tons daily, which can be increased to twelve hundred tons whenever the demand shall require it.

North of the coal mines, and contignous to them, is the iron property of the Rocky Mountain Coal and Iron Company. This is a mountain of iron which assays, from the surface, thirty to thirty-five per cent. of oxide of iron, thirty to thirty-two per cent. of carbonate of lime, and is entirely free from sulphur or phosphorus. It is exhaustable in quantity. The iron exists in the form of mixed carbonate and oxide.

This Company propose during the present summer (1870) to erect a blast furnace of fifty tons capacity per day for the manufacture of pig iron.

Owing to the proximity of the coal to the Iron ore, it is believed that pig iron can be manufactured at less cost at this point than at any place in Pennsylvania or Ohio; being situate midway between Omaha and San Francisco, the iron acquires additional value from the great saving in transportation.

It is extremely fortunate for the country that these great beds of coal are found along the line of the Pacific railroad, as wood for steam purposes is scarce and expensive, and will be entirely exhausted in a few years, while by the development of the coal fields of Wyoming Territory, the Pacific railroads are enabled to procure fuel for their locomotives at no higher rates than is now paid for the coal of Ohio and Illinois by the railroads of the Western States.

Death of Charles Dickens.

LONDON, June 10.—The London Globe, in its last edition last evening started the community with the announcement that Charles Dickens had been seized with paralysis and was lying insensible at his residence, at Gad's Hill, near Rochester, in Kent.

The news spread rapidly and created the most profound regret; but the worst was still to come. Telegrams have since been received announcing the death of the great novelist at a quarter past 6 last evening.

Dickens was at a dinner on Wednesday, when he was siezed with the fit. Dr. Steel, of the village of Stroud, who was for many years the family physician of Mr. Dickens, was immediately called in, and remained till nearly midnight.

The conditions of the patient becoming worse and wore, it was deemed advisable to summon physicians from London. Telegrams were promptly despatched, and yesterday morning several London physicians arrived at Gad's Hill.

A consultation was held, and the case at once pronounced hopeless. The patient sank gradually, and died at fifteen minutes past 6 o'clock last evening, at the age of 58 years.

Mr. Dickens had been ill for several days, but not seriously. He had even visited Rochester and other points during the present week.

The death of the great novelist has plundged the nation into morning.

The Queen has sent a message of condolence to the family, and public institutions have suspended business for the day as a mark of respect.

All the London papers have obituary articles this morning.

BALLOU'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE.—The July number of BALLOU'S MONTHLY MAGAZINE is the commencement of the Thirty-second Volume. Its popularity is now so great that no magazine in the country stands higher in the estimation of the people for genuine interest and excellence. Each number contains 100 pages of reading matter—stories, poems, historical events, wit and humor, a housekeeping department, from sixteen to twenty illustrations of noted scenes and places. All this can be obtained for $1 50 per year, or fifteen cents single copy; and club terms are even cheaper. THOMES & TALBOT, Boston, Mass., are the publishers.

The Constantinople Fire.

CONSTANTINOHLE, June 9.—The great fire in the Pera district has been fully subdued, and something like order reigns again. According to a careful account, over seven thousand buildings of all sorts have been destroyed. Many of these were the best in the city. The total loss caused by the fire is computed roughly at twenty-five million pounds sterling. English underwriters suffer heavy losses. The archives of the British Embassy was saved. The Armenian Church of the Immaculate Conception was on fire several times, and is considerably damaged; but the Gobelin tapestry the gift of the Empress Eugenie, with which the church was decorated, was saved unharmed. The loss of life by the conflagration was frightful. At some points whole families were hemmed in by the flames and perished in full view of the spectators, who were unable to rescue them. The panic among the people was terrible, and many who might have escaped lost all presence of mind and were unable to save themselves. Others, in despair, made no effort to fly and were lost.

Some of the Turks, in the spirit of fatalism peculiar to that race and religion, shut themselves up in their houses, refused assistance and met their fate without a murmur. It has been ascertained that two hundrad and fifty persons were burned to death or killed by the falling walls, and many more are missing.

FOR THE SENATE.—We hear, with gratification, that the Republicans of Snyder county, at their primary election on last Saturday, nominated A. C Simpson, Esq., of Selinsgrove, for the State Senate. The District is composed of the counties of Lycoming, Union and Snyder, last represented by John B. Beck, (Dem.) We do not know whether there are Republican candidates for the Senate in the other two counties, but we are sure that should they all agree upon the nomination of Mr. Simpson they would secure a very creditable representation in the higher branch of our State Legislature.—Sunbury Gazette.

A KENTUCKY Democrat has kept his word faithfully. The Kentucky Statesman says: "Not many weeks ago a well-to-do farmer of Harrison county declared that he was determined not to "live to see a nigger vote." The Fifteenth Amendment was announced as ratified. Of course, negro voting was thee in the near future. Our farmer saw it coming, and absolutely did deliberately take his own life. He sealed his Democratic testimony with his own blood." Had he slaughtered a few negroes, Kentucky would not have been astonished. As it is, his conduct is considered inexplicable.

FAIRFIELD, Ohio, is the home of the Simon Pure Democracy of the age Democratic Fairfield has just held its convention. After preambling that the country has gone to eternal smash and into splinters unless there is a "speedy return and strict adherence to Democratic doctrines," it was resolved "that we are in favor of disowning the bonded debt, or in other words, are in favor of repudiating it." After thus disposing of the public debt, the convention disposed of the negro, by declaring "that we are unalterably opposed to negro citizenship and negro suffrage."

IT is lamentably singular that the red man always wants to imitate first the vices of the white one. Rum, gambling, and lewdness have nearly killed off the entire Indian race, and now Spotted Tail wants to be a delegate to Congress.
