

THE Prarie Farmer, in speaking of a "boy's rights on a farm," talks in this truthful way:

"We are strongly inclined to the opinion that there are no offices so poorly appreciated as those performed by boys on a farm. They seldom get any credit when things go well, and ordinarily incur all the blame when the contrary is the case. If any thing is lost, it is always the boy that has been negligent. If the gate was left unfastened or the hens down, it is the boy who was to blame. If the hens don't lay, it is because the boy hasn't fed them. If dinner is late it is for the reason that the boy did not prepare the wood in season. If the cow gives bloody milk, it is because the boy threw a stone at her, killed a foal in her path, or raved her in driving her home. Cattle get into fields because boys break down the fences in climbing over them. Hens are lanky for the reason that they have been trampled on them. If a pitcher is broken by some older member of the family, the cause is traced to a crack made by the boy the last time he used it."

All of which is sadly true. The most uninteresting work, sorting potatoes, rainy days, setting out cabbages after a shower, turning a grindstone by the hour to grind dull scythes and duller axes, running for water while the men rest their iron legs, working with the poorest tools, such as dull scythes and old, worn-out hoes, manure forks with two tines, and like treatment with reference to almost everything, is too often the lot of boys who are expected to love farming and grow up to be farmers.

CURE FOR GLANDERS.—A writer in the Western Herald gives the following remedy for glanders. He says: "One of my neighbors had a good horse sick with that scourge, the glanders; the disease was well advanced, and his near neighbors were looking through the windows and the law. He asked me what I would do in such a case. I told him I would take one ounce of calomel and make four dough pills, putting one fourth of the calomel into each pill; give the horse one of the pills every three or four hours; and feed drink give him water as strongly limited with sour vinegar as the horse would drink freely; to keep the horse comfortably housed, and to salivate him until his mouth runs freely. This was in November last; he followed the directions, and though his horse did not salivate, he got well, and is doing his usual amount of work. I ought to add that the course was repeated once."

IRON AROUND FEAR TREES.—At a recent meeting of the American Institute Farmers' Club, Mr. Wagner, who lives on Long Island, about fifty miles east of New York, exhibited some pruning from his orchard to illustrate the effect of putting iron around trees. He took an old place with twenty trees in the orchard, full of dead limbs with yellow leaves, and the crutches oozing thick gum. He gave the earth a good top dressing of iron, breaking up old plows and stoves and scattering the fragments. The effect has been marvellous. The trees have renewed their youth, and now look strong and thrifty. The bark is tight, and the leaves are green, and the larder is disappeared. He thinks the slag of iron furnaces, ground up and spread on orchards, would prove a very valuable fertilizer for fruit trees of all kinds. The experiment is certainly worth a trial.

As a lady was walking up Bowers, a young rowdy purposely stepped on her dress and tore it. To the lady's remark that he should have been more careful, he replied insolently: "The street is free, and I'll walk or place my feet where I please." "So will I," remarked a bystander, and with a well aimed kick he sent the fellow clear into the gutter. Taking off his hat, he said to the rowdy, "I suppose you will accord me a similar privilege, and admit that I, too, may place my feet where I please."

A GOOD REMEDY.—We know of nothing better for cracks in cow-stents, to which they are very much subject when first turned to pasture, than glycerine; one application of which will heal them up. The tents should be well washed with a soda made of castile soap—its cleansing healing application—and the glycerine put on at night after milking.—Maize Farmer

AN Irishman who had lain sick a long time was one day met by the parish priest, when the following conversation took place: "Well, Patrick, I am glad you have recovered; but were you not afraid to meet your God?" "Och, no, your reverence, it was the meetin' of the other chap I was afraid of," replied Pat.

A Massachusetts editor says: "A man who is owing us a little bill, said he would call last week and pay us if he was alive. He still appears on the street, but as he did not call, it is naturally supposed that he is dead and is walking around to save funeral expenses."

An old lady was trying to persuade her little nephew to go to bed at dark by telling him that the dear little chickens went to roost at that time. "Oh, yes, auntie," he replied, "I know that; but the old hen always goes with 'em."

A MAN in Michigan swapped his horse for a wife. An old bachelor acquainted with him, said he'd bet there was something wrong with the horse, or its owner never would have fooled it away in that manner.

A PRETTY girl of our acquaintance said that no one falls in love with her unless they are "dreadful wicked" or "awful pious." Is there no young man is an excellent article of granulated Virginia; wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Meerschaum Pipes are daily packed.

classified by all who consume it as the "finest of all"; it is made of the choicest leaf grown; it is said nervous in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first quality Meerschaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourselves it is all it claims to be, "THE FINEST OF ALL."

This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

I have now been in general use in the United States over 110 years, and still acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere. Circulars of prices forwarded
