...SELINSGROVE.....JANUARY 5, 1871

THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

The annual message of Governor Geary was sent in to the Legislature yesterday. The document is long and comprehensive, touching upon many important matters affecting the Commonwealth, as well as upon several national issues. Regarding our State finances, the people are congratulated upon the condition of the Treasury and upon the fact that owing to the continued reductions of the debt the securities of the Commonwealth command the highest premium in the market. A statement is given, showing that there was a balance in the Treasury November 30, 1869, of $1,400,862 49; that the ordinary receipts during the fiscal year ending November 30, 1870, amounted to $6,336,003.24; that the total disbursements during the same year, including loans, &c., redeemed and interest paid on loans were $6,431,522.91; and that therefore, there was left in the Treasury, November 30, 1870, a balance of $1,392,942 82. Another statement presented shows that the whole public debt remaining November 30, 1870, was $31,111,661.90, a total of $1,702,879 05 having been redeemed during the preceding year.

The Governor states further, that from January 15, 1867, to November 30, 1870, the reductions in the debt aggregated $6,832,747 87 — making an average reduction per annum of $1,648,187. He submits a plan by which the whole debt, less the assets which amount to $4,500,000, may be paid in about eight years, and if this should be deemed too oppressive, suggests an alternative proposition, looking to the decrease of taxation and a more gradual payment of the debt than is now being made. In this connection he advises that in distributing the taxes, a more liberal policy should be adopted toward those engaged in mercantile, manufacturing, railroad and mining pursuits.

That part of the message relative to the proposed Constitutional Convention echoes very fully and accurately the sentiment of the people and of the leading journals of the Commonwealth, as frequently and emphatically expressed. The Governor argues that during the thirty-two years which have elapsed since the last convention the State has outgrown its fundamental law. Among the specific reasons urged by him for the calling of a new convention are the following:

The fact that the individual amendments which have been added to the constitution give to that instrument a patchwork and incongruous character.

The manifest evils of special legislation which demand constitutional prohibition.

The propriety of conforming the State constitution to that of the United States, as modified by recent amendments.

The importance of incorporating in the constitution the principle of minority representation.

The advisability of increasing the number of members comprising the House of Representatives.

The need of a fundamental limitation of the powers of corporations.

The advisability of instituting the office of Lieutenant Governor, and of making the offices of State Treasury and Superintendent of Schools elective instead of appointive.

The propriety of changing the day for State elections to the second Tuesday in November, to avoid incursions of repeaters from other States.

The Governor renews his objections to the law passed last session relative to writs of error in criminal cases, and urges its repeal or modification. He alludes to the apportionment as an important duty devolving upon the Legislature, and trusts it will be impartially performed.

The common schools, the soldiers' orphans, schools, and the Agricultural College, are all represented to be in a prosperous and highly satisfactory condition. The condition of the orphan schools especially is dwelt upon as reflecting great credit upon the Commonwealth and the officers having them in charge.

The attention of the Legislature is directed to the question of the assumption of the control of the telegraph lines and the chartering of railroad companies within the State by the General Government. The Governor considers the subject one of vast importance, involving the sovereign power of the State.

A geological and mineralogical survey of the State is advocated at some length, with a view to developing more completely and intelligently its vast mineral wealth.

The Executive alludes to the completion of Rothermel's painting of the "Battle of Gettysburg," and recommends that a suitable place be provided for it at the State capital.

The Governor's General remarks upon national issues embrace advocacy of Protection and denunciation of Free Trade, the curtailment of internal taxation, disapproval of coolie labor, sym... in England, felicitations upon the completion of reconstruction and upon the prospective establishment of an European line of steamers from Philadelphia, and a protest against the Employment of United States troops to maintain order at elections. His objection to the law of Congress authorizing such use of soldiers, when necessary to assist marshals, is based upon the apprehension that, in the hands of a bad President such a power might prove dangerous.

The message, as a whole, will compare favorably with the previous ones of Governor Geary. Its recommendations are, in the main, practical and judicious, and will doubtless be attentively considered by the Legislature.

The Legislature.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Constitution of the Commonwealth the members of the Pennsylvania State Senate met on Tuesday, Jan 3, at 2 o'clock p. m. Speaker White in the chair.

The Speaker announced that this being the day designated by the Constitution of the Commonwealth for the meeting of the General Assembly and there being a quorum of Senators present, the Senate would come to order.

The oath of office was administered to the newly-elected Senators by the Speaker.

The roll of Senators was called by the Chief Clerk and all proved present:

Mr. Davis moved that the Senate proceed to the election of Speaker. The motion was carried.

The roll of members was called and the election resulted as follows: Messrs. Allen, Anderson, Billingfelt, Brooke, Connell, Delamater, Evans, Graham, Heverly, Kerr, Mumma, Olmsted, Osterhout, Rutan, Wallace and Wartel—16—voted for Harry White.

Messrs. Albright, Broadhead, Buckalew, Crawford, Davis, Eckert, Dill, Duncan, Findley, Knight, Miller, Nagle, Petrikin, Putman, Randall, Turner and White—17—voted for William A. Wallace.

The Chief Clerk announced that the tellers agreed in their tallies that Harry White received 16 votes, William A. Wallace 17 votes, and that William A. Wallace, having received a majority of all the votes cast was therefore duly elected Speaker of the Senate.

The retiring Speaker, Mr. White, then conducted the Speaker elect, Mr. Wallace, to the chair.

HOUSE—The Representatives elect met at 12 o'clock, same day, in the hall of the House and organized by the election of Hon. James H. Webb Speaker, Gen. James L. Selfridge Chief Clerk, E. G. Lee Assistant Clerk and John A. Small Resident Clerk. The vote was strictly a party vote—53 Republicans voting for Mr. Webb and 44 Democrats for James E. Ellis, their caucus nominee.

Poor France.

The bloody drama draws to a close. The eager spectator beholds the dying agonies of one of the great actors of the scene, and the triumph of another who was his adversary; France—la belle France—who a few short months ago with eagerness and enthusiasm entered into this war; France, the fame of whose soldiers and glory of whose arms had been the theme of history, and the inspiration of poetry; France, whose frowning fortresses looked threateningly upon the land of their enemies; France, about which still clung the fame and the prestige of the great Napoleon; France, whose ruling emperor had won for himself the name of "the great diplomat of Europe," is in its death agonies. Throughout the entire acts of this bloody drama she has met reverses and misfortunes on every hand. Its soil has been trodden neath the feet of the triumphant invaders. Its strongholds have been wrested from the custody of its garrisons. Its cities have been besieged and captured. Its emperor has surrendered his imperial sword, and is a prisoner in the hands of his enemy. Its fertile soil is reddened now by the blood of its own sons. Its eagles droop in terror and defeat. Despair has taken the place of enthusiasm; and the capital of the Empire, the most beautiful city of earth is besieged; its people starving, and soon the shells from the batteries of Prussia will destroy those buildings which are at once the pride and admiration of the world. The end comes. Prussia will, by her minion, assume the throne of France and dictate her own terms of peace to a conquered and humiliated people, and then—the end—the war will be ended the drama over, and the curtain falls.—New Jersey Mechanic.

COMPLETE RESULTS from Florida prove that the late election in that State was a Republican triumph. The Republican majority on the State ticket is over six hundred, the Legislature Republican on joint ballot, the Senate being a tie, and the House Republican by four Majority.

Fire! Fire at Mifflin.

Sixty-one Buildings Destroyed—Loss Upward of $200,000.

[From the Harrisburg Patriot of Monday].

The most destructive fire that has ever visited Central Pennsylvania occured on Saturday night, December 31, in the town of Mifflin, Juniata county. About half past seven o'clock in the evening the flames were first discovered in the building known as the "Crystal Palace," on the corner of Bridge and Water streets, and before any aid could be rendered for the extinguishment of the "Crystal Palace" the fire communicated to the adjoining buildings on the south side of Bridge street, and, with the exception of three dwelling houses, consumed the entire southern portion of the town, consisting of thirty-one dwellings, stores, and offices.

In a short time after the fire broke out it was evident the conflagration would be disasterous. The only fire apparatus in the town was an ancient fire hand engine, which when attempted to be used, proved an entire failure. Seeing the dire condition of affairs the authorities telegraphed to the officers of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company for aid. This request was promptly complied with. The first assistance of the railroad company was the sending of the Hope Fire Company of Lewistown, distence twelve miles from Mifflin, to the scene of the conflagration. This fire company had an Agnew hand engine, and a hose carriage with several hundred feet of hose, but when it arrived at the fire was found to be entire useless, on account of not being able to draw its own water.

The fire every minute was gaining terrible headway and threatened the destruction of the entire town. The fire department of this city was telegraphed to and they cheerfully responded that anything in their power would be rendered to stay the destruction of the devouring element. Chief Engineer Andrew Schlayer immediately summoned the Friendship Steam Fire Engine Company, No. 1 with their steamer and hose carriage; the Citizen Steam fire engine Company, No. 3, with their steamer; the hose carriage of the Good Will Steam Fire engine, No. 7, and truck of the Mt. Vernon Hook and Ladder Company to report immediately at the foot of North street, where cars were in waiting to take them to Mifflin.

The companies responded promptly and at 10.15 o'clock were under way on the scene of conflagration, forty nine miles away. The special train arrived at Patterson, opposite Mifflin, about 12.30 A. M. The Friendship steamer, Good Will hose carriage, and Vernon truck were immediately unloaded and proceeded across the river to the scene of conflagration, but as the fire fiend had spent its fury their services were not brought into requisition. The whole southern part of the town, from the south side of Bridge street to Lost creek, except the residence of Mr. Parker, and three other buildings at the upper end of that street, were completely destroyed.

THE BUILDINGS DESTROYED.

The building know as the Crystal Palace is a four story structure, situated on the corner of Bridge and Water streets, and immediately on the banks of the canal. The first floor was occupied by Sellars & Sulouff dealers in dry goods, hardware, paints, &c. They had in store a very large stock of oils and other inflammable matter. The second floor, which was on a level with the rising street, was occupied by Graybill & Shelby, with dry goods and notions. They had a very large stock of goods, amounting to at least $40,000. They lost everything. Adjoining, in the same building, was the hardware firm of Wenram & Co. with a very extensive stock of goods in their line. Everything in their store was totally destroyed, amounting to several thousand dollars. The third story was occupied by Iroquois Tribe, No 421, O. R. M.; Lost Creek Lodge of Odd Fellows, and Patterson Council were in session when the fire broke out and were compelled to leave their room so suddenly that they did not even save their records or anything belonging to the council. The Lost Creek Lodge of Odd Fellows 1st everything save their books and records. Iroquois Tribe of Red Men had one of the finest collections of rare and well stuffed animals and birds of the country, all of which were totally destroyed by the fire. The fourth story of the building was occupied by Union Lodge, A. Y. M. They had a valuable library of books which, with all their furniture and regalia, was totally destroyed. Mr. Hallabaugh a prominent member of the order, attempted to save some of their valuable property, but the progress of the flames was so great as to almost suffocate him. He was overcome by the heat in his efforts to rescue the property, and was only rescued by parties who came to his relief.

The Odd Fellows' Hall, a very fine brick building a few doors above the Crystal Palace was occupied on the first and second floors by Mr. Tilton Emanschede as a dry goods store. His store was filled with a large stock of goods and his loss is almost total. The third story of this building was occupied by Mifflintown Lodge, I. O. O. F. The lodge owned the building and lost everything belonging to them in it. Adjoining this hall was the billiard saloon and restaurant of John Hallabaugh, occupying the basement and floor above. His billiard tables and other valuables were totally destroyed. The printing-office building of Messrs. Bonsall & Jackman, of the Democrat and Register, was totally destroyed. They saved a few of their locked-up forms and a lot of tied up type. Their books and files were also saved.

An old Washington hand-press, used for years in the old Keystone office in this city, worked many a day and night by our humble self, was destroyed in the flames. In our walk through the ruins we met the relic of this old press, and sadly and regretfully did we view the remnants of the old "bar" and "rounce" that many days ago "rolled in" so nicely and came back again with the touch of our youthful fingers. The ruins of that old press revived within us the haley on days of yore, and amid all the destruction around brought back to our memory the trials and vicissitudes of the noble martyrs who years ago "pulled the bar" in this city.

We can only hope, with all their loss, that the Democrat and Register will rise, Phœnix like, and spread its effulgent rays with a brilliancy that no conflagration can extinguish. Both of the proprietors of this paper were burned out of their private residences. Mr. Bonsall had his furniture insured in the Perry county Mutual, but Mr. Jackman had no insurance on his household goods. They were lucky enough to have $2,000 insurance in the Perry County Mutual on their office.

The Union Hotel, Simon Albright, proprietor, was totally consumed. It stood on the corner of Bridge and Main streets. Opposite it was the Mifflin Bank building, a three story brick structure, and to prevent its taking fire the efforts of the people were directed. Through great exertions it was saved, and consequently the northern end of the town, as it was acknowledged, if this portion had taken fire there would have been slim hopes of preventing the balance of the town being destroyed.

Among the private residendes burned were that of Mr. E. S. Doty, lawyer; S. E. Parker, cashier of Doty, Parker & Co's bank; Robert G. Gallagher, occupying the late residence of John J. Patterson, Esq.; John J. Wright, J. D. Staublaugh, Noah Elder, and Sheriff Detrick. These properties were five private buildings, and with the exception of the most valuable movables all were destroyed.

INSURANCE ETC.

The property destroyed is estimated at $200,000, which is distributed among the following companies: Perry county Mutual, the Jonestown Mutual, Lebanon county, the Columbia Mutual, and a few Eastern companies. There were thirty-one dwelling houses, including stores and offices consumed. Of the stables and other outbuildings there were twenty-eight or thirty, which makes the entire number consumed sixty-one. The insurance on property was confined principally to the business houses and well-to-do residences. Quite a number of poor people had no insurance and consequently lost their all.

At least one third of Mifflin was destroyed, and constituted the principal business and private residence portion of the town. At least thirty families lost all but the few valuables they could gather and take away in a few minutes; and double that number carried all their household goods they could gather to a place of apparant safety.

To the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and their officers of the middle division the greatest praise should be awarded. When the announcement was sent here that Mifflin was endangered the officials at this city promptly answered the call. They immediately placed a special train at the disposal of the Harrisburg fire department.

THE result of the Georgia election is still in doubt, although the telegraph has been claiming a Democratic victory for the past two weeks. The Atlanta New Era of the 1st says that the returns are still incomplete, but enough is known upon which to base an intelligent opinion as to the general result. It thinks that in all probability the Republicans have carried four of the seven Congressional districts—two of these districts, the Third and Fourth, are certain. Although the Legislature is Democratic, a majority of the members-elect are in favor of accepting the situation and enforcing the laws.

THE Pardon Report of Governor Geary gives the number and name of those receiving Executive clemency, together with the reasons thereof and the persons recommending the pardon. It is a paper which possesses interest for other than the morbidly curious, and is full of suggestiveness for our law makers and judiciary. It will be seen from the table accompanying the report that the average yearly number of persons issued by Gov. Geary is smaller than that to any of his predecessors since 1791, with two exceptions.

AYER'S AMERICAN ALMANAC. For the new year, has arrived for delivery gratis by Shindel & Swineford, to all who call for it. This little annual has the largest circulation of any book in the world, made by the fact that it furnishes the best medical advice which is available to the people enables them to determine what their complaints are and how to cure them. It contains the startling announcement of the conflagration of a world, of the combustion of one of the stars in the firmament with all its attendant planets.

AN INDIAN SKINNED ALIVE.—The Clark county Republican tells the following horrible story:

One of the most cold blooded and atrocious scenes we ever heard of was enacted one day last week in a camp of Chippewa Indians, some thirty miles south of Nilesville, Minn. Two Indians quarreled, and one them killed the other with a a knife. The rest of the small band held a council and condemned the murderer to be skined alive. The sentence was strictly carried out—the doomed Indian being staked to the ground and his skin literally peeled from his writhing body. It is said the victim of this barbarous, inhuman and heart sickening operation lived for several minutes after the fiends had finished their bloody task, and was then burried beside the Indian he had murdered.

JUST now a fearful pestilence is raging on the distant plains to the Northwest. Smallpox has broken out for the first time in eighty odd years. The most harrowing tales have been sent us from the posts of the Hudson Bay Company at Carlton House, Victoria House, Forts Pitt and Edmonton, and other distant stations. The savages, having never experienced such a visitation, are stricken with terror, and ascribe the disease to the presence of missionaries among them. They have sought to slay several persons prescribed by their medicine men. At Fort Pitt, where 200 died in four days, the survivors carried the putrid corpses and cast them against the stockades of the fort to infect the whites. The disease has been imported by trading bands coming from among the Piegans and Blackfeet at Fort Benton. The intensity of its ravages may be imagined when we are told that two-thirds of the Indian population will likely be swept away.

AGENTS WANTED FOR

The Library of Poetry and Song.

The handsomest and cheapest work extant. It has nothing in it of the best for every one. For the old the middle aged and the young, it must become universally popular. For the Bible, there will be less to turn up at five of the most frequently referred to in the Book. Every page has passed under the critical eye of the great poet.
