

THE POST.

MIDDLEBURG, FEBRUARY 9, 1871

Can't find bread for my family said a busy fellow. "Nor I," replied an industrious fellow, "I'm obliged to work for it."

A Paris correspondent writes that since the siege, the surviving cats of Paris are extremely shy, and no longer court on the roofs.

"Fellow Travellers," said a "cultured" preacher, "if I had been confined to a chair for a week, I don't think I could get up again."

A father, living near Cincinnati was one evening learning his little boy to recite his Sunday lesson. It was from the 14th chapter of Matthew, wherein is related the parable of the malicious tares.

A wag was requested by an old lady to read the newspaper for her. He took it up and read as follows: "Last night yesterday morning, about one o'clock in the afternoon, before breakfast, a hungry boy, about forty years old, bought a pig censored for a levy, and threw it through a brick wall nine feet thick, and jumping over it, broke his right ankle off above his left knee and fell into a dry mill-pond and was drowned. About forty years after that, on the same day, an old cat had nine turkey gobblers; a high wind blew Yankee Doodle on a frying-pan and killed a sow and two dead pigs at Boston, where a deaf and dumb man was talking French to his Aunt Peter."

Whereupon the old lady, taking a long breath, exclaimed: "Du tell!"

BE A MAN.—Foolish spending is the father of poverty. Do not be ashamed of work. Work for the best wages you can get, but work for half price rather than be idle. Be your own master, and do not let society or fashion swallow up your individuality—hat, coat, and boots. Do not eat or wear out all you can earn. Compel selfish body to spare something for profits saved. Be stingy to your own appetite, but merciful to others necessities. Help others, and ask not help for yourself. See that you are prompt. Let your pride be of the right kind. Be too proud to be lazy; too proud to give up without conquering every difficulty; too proud to wear a coat you cannot afford to buy; too proud to be in company that you cannot keep up with in expenses; too proud to lie, or steal, or to cheat; too proud to be stingy.
