Our Primary Election.

Hitherto we have persistently refrained from saying anything in favor of, or against any candidate, and intend to pursue the same course in future. Those who are so actively abusing and misrepresenting Hon. S. S. Woods, if their object is to defeat him at the general election, are pursuing a suicidal policy. We venture to say they possess neither a grain of discretion nor a pennyweight of prudence.

A number of our exchanges, democratic and Republican, are creating a wrong impression in regard to the late primary election, by grossly misrepresenting the facts. We assert that we have never had a more peaceable and quiet election since the Crawford system took effect. There was but one district in the county in which democrats were allowed to vote, or did vote, and the number voting did not exceed thirty. We venture to say further that not one of these men who are blowing so fiercely about undue influences being used are able to show a single instance.

The fact is that men went quietly to the polls and followed the bent of their inclinations and voted as pleased them.

It is generally taken for granted that Editors of newspapers possess an ordinary amount of intelligence, and sometimes evince a scanty regard for truth, but these statements relative to our election show a total disregard for truth and an unusual amount of stupidity. A man who in the absence of evidence, makes false representations, or cognizant of the facts, makes false representations and exaggerations, is either a homo plumbeus or a knave.

"THE Republican party," says the Press, "can go before the people as the party that has fully redeemed its pledges. From the date of its organization till now its record shows that when it obtained power it did what it promised to do when in a weak minority. From its first plank of opposition to the extention of slavery to the Territories it never swerved, and as subsequent political circumstances brought new issues before the country, the party acted upon them in perfect consistency with its passed record redeeming its promises in every instance. In this way it won the confidence of the people, and through that confidence stands where it does today. The present Administration may be lacking in those brilliant appendages which some seem to think so essential, but there have been few Administrations that have more faithfully fulfilled the pledges with which they came into power. Reduction of the Expenses of the Government, reduction of the debt, reduction of taxation, faithful collection of the revenue—these objects have been kept steadily in view as the work of the Administration, and the accomplishment has been truly and more than could be expected under the circumstances. The affairs have been well administered, and the party has shown itself worthy of continued support."

THE Harrisburg Telegraph of Wednesday last, publishes the following:

"By the authority of Senator Cameron, and at his request, we are called on to announce his opinion as to candidates in the coming Presidential contest; and to further assure those who value his opinions in political affairs that the injudicious agitation of the subject of candidates at this time forces him to "break a silence which should have continued until the campaign now in progress in Pennsylvania had been ended. He is not, and will not be a candidate for the Vice Presidency under any circumstances. Nor does he attach the slightest importance to that subject. But on the Presidential nominee his convictions are matured and strong.

He desires the renomination and re-election of President Grant for many weighty reasons, believing him to be the very man, of all men, to bring the country out of its financial and political complications. His management of the revenues has been magnificent. The steady payment of the national debt has been the crowning achievement not alone of his administration, but of practical financiering The amicable adjustment of our foreign relations—and particularly the negotiation of the Treaty of Washington, gives evidences of the highest order of statesmanship. His devotion to the cause of American labor is sturdy and sincere. The anxiety he constantly shows to find the true relation between commerce and manufactures, and his honest desire to forward the highest interests of both commend him alike to the producers and the exchangers of industrial wealth. And his inflexible determination to enforce the laws makes him a perfect officer, in all respects.

Honest, capable, straightforward, inflexible, and brave he combines all the elements of power through which alone the south can be restored to peace, order and prosperity. That part of our country requires nothing so much at this time as a clear conviction that the laws of the land are to be either loyally obeyed or mercilessly enforced. They must learn that the rights of a Northern, Eastern or Western man is as complete in the South as anywhere else; and that the absolute freedom of political discussion and action in every part of this country is the dearest of all those rights which the war for the Union settled. There can be no peace until the South yields this point; and under Grant they will learn it soonest. He can neither be wheedled nor bullied. And for this reason he is the best President for that turbulent section.

These reasons, amongst others, control the judgment of Senator Cameron and he is so anxious that Grant should be re-elected that he looks with chagrin on any and all matters which shall divert the attention of the people from that subject. Pennsylvania will do her duty in the future as in the past, and will find her recompense in her devotion to civil liberty, and the Great Captain under whom civil liberty is so well maintained.

Political Sentiments of the Country.

The political sentiments of the country, both North and South, are in what chemists call the nascent or forming state, as to what shall be the great and leading questions of the campaign of 1872.

The question of slavery is settled, after its long agitation and final baptism in blood.

Negro Suffrage has gained firm ground by experiment; and will no doubt, become fully established as a just right, and a fixed fact.

States' Rights and the Right of secession have gone down with the lost cause.

The payment of the public debt is no longer a question of doubt or dispute. It can and must be paid, partly by the present, fully and completely by the next generation.

Reduction of the taxes is not only a settled question, but part of the policy of the Republican party.

The question of Finance and the distribution of the National Bonds, are questions that the wants and demands of the different sections of the country must devise, settle, and control.

The Tariff is a question of many phases; viewed in many different lights according to the particular interests of the different sections of the country. Some are for high tariff, some for low, some for medium, and others for none at all—"Free Trade and sailors' rights." We of Pennsylvania favor a judicious revenue tariff, so adjusted as to afford the best protection to the labor and general interests of the country against foreign competition.

The Alabama question is settled in the recent Washington treaty with England; and in a way that the American people, of all parties, approve, and in accordance with President Grant's expressed policy of "Let us have peace."

The sentiment of the people is that the disturbances and outrages committed by the Ku-Klux in the South must be stopped, Union and loyal citizens protected, and offenders brought to justice. Law and order must be established, safety and protection secured to every law-abiding citizen, without distinction of race, color, or condition. The right of free and untrammeled suffrage must be guaranteed to all legal voters. The late law of Congress on this subject, must be enforced at all hazzards, the Ku-Klux must be suppressed, and the purity of the ballot box preserved.

The question of Amnesty, and the restoration of all the rights of American citizens to the leaders of the late Rebellion should be postponed for a time, until, at least, a more repentant and loyal spirit is manifested by the offenders. This is the public sentiment, and it is right. The public opinion of the loyal and patriotic men of the nation says, wait a while before this is granted, for it is known now that we have already been too lenient and merciful to traitors.

Poligamy, like the outrages of the Ku-Klux, must be stopped. Public sentiment is against it, and it must go down.

Public sentiment is to-day strongly in favor of the Administration of the Republican Party. Its plain, honest work in paying so large an amount of the public debt, and is laboring so assiduously for the peace and and prosperity of the country, and for the happiness and good of the people, have extended its lines and strengthened its defences. All disaffection of its members is more than compensated and counterbalanced by the late speech of that arch traitor, Jeff. Davis, and the "New Departure" of the Democracy, which is a virtual acknowledgement that they have been wrong and and treacherous through all the years since 1861.

These things, and many others now transpiring, cannot but strengthen the Republican party in the minds and hearts of the people of the nation.—Montrose Republican.

IT is rumored that the Democratic State Central Committee, at its first meeting, will make the following addition to their platform:

Resolved, That "the colored troops fought bravely."

The Bottom of a Canal Drops Out.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 4.—Disagreeables of various kinds seem to infest the mining business in the northern portion of the anthracite coal field. Some two weeks ago a caving casuality occurred at the empire mines, near this city, and caused great excitement and consternation, when it was supposed that forty men had met untimely deaths by the accident. To-day we have a second edition of the phenomena which was lately exhibited in New Jersey at a point on the Morris Canal, with the addition that not only has the bottom of a canal tumbled out, but several coal mines have been rendered for a time useless by the freak.

About six o'clock this morning people residing in the vicinity of the Burroughs mine, on what is known as the plank road, were startled by a loud rumbling noise, and equally surprised to notice that the water in the north branch of the Wyoming Canal had begun to run up stream. It was soon ascertained that a portion of the bottom of the Mill Creek level of the canal over the Burroughs mine had caved in, causing a hole fifty feet long and of the width of the canal and tow path. The casuality involves the flooding of the Enterprise mine, of J. H. Swoyer slope and shaft, the Mitchell mine, part of Bowkley mine, the mine of Eliott & Co., and probably the works of Mr Hileman, as these mines are all connected with gangways.

All the water of the level poured into the opening, and it may be said that the mines have received a quantity of liquid two miles long and about four feet deep. The accident occurred at a point over a portion of the Burroughs mine which had been worked out, and was caused, most likely, by the robbing of the supports of the roof, a practice which sometimes prevails when chambers have been exhausted. The amount of damage cannot be estimated at present, but will be heaviest in the stoppage of the works probably for some weeks The canal will also be useless for some time.

Preparations for an artificial bottom of the canal will be commenced at once, and the mines be pumped out. The latter operation can go on while the repairs are being made, as the entire level is now clear of water. Fortunately the event took place today, when all the employes of the mines were celebrating our national holiday. Great loss of life must have occurred had the mines been working as usual. As it is, we have nothing but a vexatious delay in the business of that part of the valley to regret.

A Whole Town Destroyed by a Storm.

Last evening Eldorado and surrounding country was visited with one of the most terrible storms ever known in this part of the State. About 8 o'clock in the evening a storm came up from the northwest accompanied with wind, hail and rain, and before the people had time to make any preparation for it, the hurricane swept through the town. The clouds were of inky blackness; the vivid flashes of lightning, accompanied by crashing thunder, caused our citizens to feel that the storm was of no ordinary magnitude. Every moment the gale increased, and as the rain came down in torrants, the situation became more fearful.

Every momentary lull in the storm only seemed to increase its fury, and, in fifteen minutes from commencement, men, women and children could be seen flying through the streets, seeking protection from the falling houses. By this time the air was filled with flying timbers. Large houses were completely demolished; others were unroofed, while others were lifted from their foundations and were carried by the wind from forty to two hundred feet. And yet there seemed to be no lull in the storm. As we stood by the window, gazing outward, we could plainly see houses toppling over. The roar of the storm was terrible, and the earth seemed to tremble beneath our feet.

We have been unable to get any particular news from the surrounding country but for four or five miles around, the same wholesale destruction seems to be visable. Houses were blown down, fences destroyed the crop ruined. Many of our people are left in destitute circumstances.

Our town this morning presents a most woe-begone appearance. People who were in comfortable circumstances yesterday, are to-day left without anything.

The storm, from the best information we can get, did not extend very far east or west of the town. Towanda, eight miles west, was not damaged and Chelsea, eight miles northeast, had but one house blown down. Augusta twelve miles southwest, had one house blown down.

Over 150 families have temporary homes with their neighbors. Most of these people are destitute and stand in need of immediate relief.

A dead man has been taken out of the Walnut river. Several persons will die from injuries received. High water prevents giving fuller reports.—Eldorado (Kansas) Times, June 17.

THE Democratic "new departure" is a confession of the popularity of Republican principles. The Democrats have at last begun to realize that the only chance for them is in the adoption of principles corresponding as nearly as possible to those of the Republicans. They intend to make the difference so narrow that it cannot be easily seen. Then they hope to win.

THE Republican majority in the French Assembly just elected is very large. They have not less than 92 of the 112 members elected. This will make the government strong if they prove harmonious.

A DISASTEROUS railroad collision, by which five men were killed and over twenty injured, occured on the Newark and New York Railroad, near Newark, last Saturday morning.

BOSTON likes a glass of good beer, and said so at the late special election on the sale or no sale question. She voted sale.

SENATOR Cameron assures his friends that he is not and will not be a candidate for the Vice Presidency. He is very strongly in favor of the renomination of President Grant for the financial good of the country.

SOME Kentuckey women, a few nights ago, went to the house of one Shelton Dennis, took him from his bed, and beat him with 130 stripes, explaining that they thus misused him because he had violently ill-treated his wife.

A DRUNKEN brute at Petroleum Centre shot his wife several times on Tuesday evening last, and after he was arrested, begged to be permitted to see and kiss her before she died. His wife had supported him and their two children.

THE driver of a wagon engaged in drawing blasting material to the Hoosac tunnel was discovered by the Superintendant coolly smoking his pipe on the top of 3,500 pounds of powder. He is now looking for another situation.

IN these States where the percentage for assessing and collecting revenue is extremely high the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will recommend to the President a further consolidation, in order that the expenses of such assessments and collections may not be unnecessarily high.

MRS. LYDIA SHERMAN was arrested at New Brunswick, N. J., by officers from Connecticut, who charge her with having poisoned, at different times, three husbands and two step children, offsprings of her last husband, by a previous marriage. She has been taken to New Haven for examination.

AT Maury, Tenn., recently, a young man went to bed leaving a burning candle and a pistol on his table. The dripping spirm ignited the table, the table ignited the pistol, the barrels began to explode, and when the young man awoke he was nearly burned, smothered and shot to death. His pillow received the balls and saved his head.

A LARGE fire broke out on the night of the 4th of July, in Bloomsburg. It is supposed to have originated from the fire works, used in celebrating the day. Mr. Dreher's residence, Mr. Lowenberg's Clothing Store, James Cadman's Cabinet Shop and John Wolf's store, were burned. The property was mostly insured.

A MACHINE has been put in operation at some of the large railroad stations in Mass., that tells how long before the train starts: It reads, "This train leaves in 10 minutes," then in nine, eight, etc., and when the index reaches 0, the train starts. Thus any passenger on entering a station, knows just how much time he has for getting tickets, checks, a newspapor and a seat without consulting a watch or clock to ascertain the hour of the day.

EIGHTEEN persons in Chicago, and as many in New York, were injured by pistols, cannon, fire crackers, and fireworks on the Fourth of July. Some of these cases were fatal. In Chicago there were five fires, and in New York eleven, caused by the explosion of gunpowder. The same proportion of casualities occurred in other cities and towns. Probably at least a thousand people in the United States lost their eyes, their hands, or their lives, while "amusing" themselves on the Fourth.
