FOR GOVERNOR IN 1872,

HON. JOHN B. PACKER,

OF SUNBURY.

CONNECTICUT ELECTION.

Another Republican Victory.

Connecticut held its State election on Monday, the 4th inst., and the result is a most gratifying Republican triumph. Jewell, the Republican candidate for Governor, is re-elected by a majority considerably greater than last year, and the Republicans have a decided majority in each branch of the Legislature, which secures a U. S. Senator. This Republican victory is exceedingly disheartening to the Democracy; and should convince Republican Soreheads of the futility of their efforts to swerve the intelligent masses from a strict adherence to the party which has for the last decade so successfully administered the affairs of the nation. It shows the faith the people have in the Republican party, and establishes the fact that they are not going to be diverted from an attachment to their principles by the schemes of disappointed politicians.

Apportionment Bill.

We copy below the Apportionment Bill, re-districting the State. The report districts the State as follows:

First district. The Third, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eleventh, Twelfth, and Sixteenth wards of Philadelphia.

II. The First, Second, Seventh and Twenty-sixth wards of Philadelphia.

III. The Eighth, Ninth, Tenth Thirteenth, Fourteenth and Twentieth wards and all that part of the Seventeenth ward lying west of Second street, Philadelphia.

IV. The Fifteenth, Twenty-first, Twenty fourth, Twenty-seventh, Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth wards of Philadelphia.

V. The Eighteenth, Nineteenth, Twenty-second, Twenty-third and Twenty-fifth wards, and all that portion of the Seventeenth ward lying east of Second street Philadelphia.

VI. Chester and Delaware.

VII. Lancaster.

VIII. Bucks, and all that part of Montgomery northwest of the northwest line of the townships of White Plain, Gwynedd and Montgomery.

IX. Bucks and Northampton, and all that portion of Montgomery not included in the Eighth district.

X. Lehigh, Carbon, Columbia and Monteur.

XI. Schuylkill, Columbia and Montour.

XII. Dauphin, Lebanon and Northumberland.

XIII. Luzerne.

XIV. Bradford, Susquehanna, Sullivan and Wyoming.

XV. Tioga, Potter, M'Kean, Cameron and Lycoming

XVI. Union, Snyder, Mifflin, Centre, Clearfield and Elk.

XVII. Huntingdon, Cambria, Blair and Somerset.

XVIII. Bedford, Fulton, Franklin, Juniata and Adams.

XIX. Westmoreland, Fayette and Greene

XX. Cumberland, York and Perry.

XXI. Indiana, Armstrong, Jefferson and Clarion.

XXII. The city of Pittsburg, the borough of Birmingham, East Birmingham, Ormsby, South Pittsburg, Monongahela, Mt. Washington, Temperanceville, West Pittsburg, Union, Allentown, St. Clair, Verona and Braddock, and the townships of Plum, Wilkins, Penn and Patton, in the county of Allegheny.

XXIII. All that Portion of Allegheny county not included in the Twenty-second district.

XXIV. Washington, Beaver and Butler

XXV. Lawrence, Mercer and Crawford.

—XXVI. Erie, Warren, Venango and Forest.

After considerable motions to recommit and amend; and a general defining of respective positions all tending to show that a fair apportionment was desirable, the YEAS and NAYS were called resulting as follows:

YEAS—Messrs. Allen, Anderson, Collins, Crawford, Davis (Philadelphia), Delamater, Dill, Fitch, Graham, Humphreys, M'Clure, Mumma, Nagle, Purman, Randall, Strang Waddell and Rutan, Speaker—18.

NAYS—Messrs. Albright, Billingfelt, Broadhead, Buckalew, Davis (Berks), Dechert, Findley, M'Sherry, Petrikin, Wallace, Wanfel, Weakly and White—13.

Double Districts.

One of the evils of our politics grows out of the formation of double legislative districts; that is, grouping counties together in legislative apportionments. Every county, like every State, ought to have a Senator. This would preserve the equilibrium of political power and by reducing the ratio of population for representation, every county could at least have a representative. In this manner every shade of politics, minorities as well as majorities, would be represented. It would tend to the purification of politics and legislation, doing away with the jealousies arising from the conflicting interests of counties when thrown into legislative districts. A Senator or Representative being a citizen of one county, when representing a double district, has interests to look after belonging to the county of his residence, and with which he may be personally identified, that are inimical to the people of the other counties of the district; yet he supports such interests, and is forced to do so by his immediate surroundings. This single illustration lights up a multitude of similar cases of legislative experience under the same circumstances, all full of embarrassment. In making nominations for double districts, the he dominant party always has trouble and embarrassment, which runs into fearful extremes, and affects the ramification of politics throughout the State, the disaffection of a district thus influenced occasionally disarranging the legislation of the commonwealth. All parties agree that the double district is a heavy load to carry—that it is a source of political annoyance and legislative inequality.

The force of what we suggest in the foregoing paragraph is proven in the fact of the muddle which surrounds the apportionment bill now before the Legislature. We cannot hope to get a bill, with districts composed of more than one county, which will satisfy opposing partizans. Each seeks unfair advantages over the other—the one in power is sure to be unreasonable, and in the stoaggle for that which is not just, the best interests of the people suffer and populations are disfranchised. It will never be otherwise as long as our politics are disgraced with the rivalries which now embitter ambitious men, and our only remedy for the evil is in single districts.

The Cincinnati Convention.

Unless the May Convention at Cincinnati should arouse a strong sentiment, the movers in it will have very little compensation for their pains. So far the preparations have excited no enthusiasm. One cause of this lack of interest may be stated. There can be no success for the anti-Grant combination without the full co-operation of the Democrats. They must supply the most votes. They must come with such solid capital as Maryland, Delaware, Kentucky, and Georgia. And yet they are treated as if their association was a leprosy. They are kept in the background like a contingent of white slaves. They dare not speak their real sentiments. Their organs are muzzled. A choice between the candidates is denied to them. They are to be disposed of by their leaders without reference to platform or candidates. And all for what? To elect one Republican over another Republican. There is a humiliation in all this that would make men less fastidious than the old Democrats writhe. No aspirant named has dared to recognize the Democrats save as so much material ready for transfer. And the Democrats hardly know to whom they are to be transferred. All they know is, that it is to be to somebody who has been just as decided against them as Grant. It is a novel experiment, to say the least of it. And it is a dangerous one. Even if the Democratic masses disliked General Grant as intensely as the men who are opposing him alone through personal spite and disappointment—and such a thing is impossible—they cannot feel anything but contempt for the timid leaders who assume to hold them as so many chattel slaves, and are nevertheless ashamed or afraid to say a word in favor of Democratic ideas. The man who supported Seymour and Blair in 1868 are, we think, not all willing to go it blind for any Republican in 1872.

English Emigrants for Virginia.

Virginia is soon to be favored with a large company of emigrants from England. As the Old Dominion is surely in need of thrifty, industrious settlers, it is to be hoped that her people will treat these new comers in such a manner as not only to insure their permanent residence, but to induce still further accession from the same over populated kingdom. In order to accomplish these desirable ends the Virginians must act with tolerance towards the strange Englishman; respect their prejudices and beliefs as they would those of the scions of their own first families, and above all treat them as though honest toil were an honor and not a degradation. The payment of the respect due labor, always gratefully tendered in the North and haughtily withheld in the South, has been the chief cause of the tide of foreign emigration setting northward since the abolition of slavery.

Small Pox.

Small pox is fearfully on the increase in New York city and its surrounding cities. For months the press of that locality has successfully managed to conceal the fact of the prevalence of this foul disease in their midst, but its fearful extent and alarming increase can no longer be hidden, the result of which is to depress business of all descriptions. Most sincerely do we sympathize with any city thus afflicted; but it is a fact well worthy of notice that the journalists and merchants of New York have been guilty of indecent and unchristian like conduct in this connection, be endeavoring, through a well organized system of misrepresentation, to create the impression that they were free from the contagion, while other cities are full of it.—State Journal.

EDUCATION.

Change in the Law for Electing Superintendents of Common Schools.

Pennsylvania Educating One Million Children.

DEPARTMENT OF COMMON SCHOOLS,
HARRISBURG, April 1, 1872.

To the Editor of The Post:

SIR: On the first Tuesday of May next, conventions of school directors will assemble at the county seats of the several counties of this Commonwealth for the purpose of electing county superintendents of common schools, for the term of three years, commencing on the first Monday of June. At the same time there will be held, if the respective boards of directors so decide, in all cities and boroughs possessing 7,000 inhabitants special elections for the elections of city and borough superintendents of schools for the same length of term as that for which county superintendents are to be elected.

There are now serving in the State 81 county, city and borough superintendents, to be increased probably at the forthcoming election to 85 or more. The importance of the interests intrusted to these officers can scarcely be over estimated. Pennsylvania will have 1,000,000 children to educate in her schools during the next three years, and her annual expenditures for school purposes will most likely average full $10,000,000. Whether these children shall be well taught and trained or otherwise; whether this vast sum of money shall be judiciously or injudiciously expended, will depend very much upon the men about to be chosen to fill the office of superintendent, for it will be admitted by all who reflect upon the subject that as the superintendents so the teachers, as the teachers so the schools, and as the schools so in good measure the social and political condition of the people.

In view of these facts, and appreciating the power of an intelligent Press as an agency in creating a right public sentiment, I feel it my duty to ask you to impress editorially upon your reader, both school directors and citizens, the importance of securing the very best man that can be found willing to accept the office of Superintendent of Schools in your county. No other office probably has a relation so vital to the interests of the people. Persuade the members of the convention, if you can, to lay aside all extraneous considerations and allow their choice to be determined by merit and merit alone.

Pennsylvania has, within the last few years, placed herself, proudly alongside of the foremost educational States. She is taxing herself for educational purposes as heavily as any other state of the Union. She is pouring out her money for the education of her children most generously, and it is the high duty of all, who have to do with the official management of schools, to see that every dollar, thus contributed, brings back the greatest possible return of that for which it is given. Our people are willing to pay for the best schools, and we must have them. Let none but men fully qualified be placed in the office of Superintendent, and the rest is guaranteed.

Hoping you will be willing to lend your aid in calling attention, from time to time, through your columns, to the matter herein brought to your notice.

I am, very respectfully, you obedient servant, J. P. WICKERSHAM,
Supt. Com. Schools.

Death of Professor Morse.

Professor S. F. B Morse, the father of the telegraph, died on the evening of the 2d inst., at his residence in New York city. He was a son of the Rev. Jedediah Morse, a somewhat distinguished geographer, and was born at Charlestown, Mass., April 27, 1791. He was graduated at Yale in 1810, and the following year visited London, and studied Painting with Benjamin West, associated with Leslie, and showed no inconsiderable ability. He returned to this country, painted portraits in New England, South Carolina, and New York, and in the latter city painted a portrait of General Lafayette for the corporation, and founded the Academy of Design, and was its first president in 1827. He was in Europe from 1829 to 1832. Before this time Mr. Morse's attention had been directed in a general way to chemistry, magnetism, and electricity, and to the possibility of utilizing their mysterious forces. While returning from Europe in the ship Sully, in 1832, he gave some attention to current discoveries in electricity, and reached a crude outline of what has since grown into modern telegraphic correspondence. The idea was based upon sound philosophical data, and was reduced to practice during the next three years. But the performance was very imperfect at first, and Congress, when appealed to for aid in 1837, plainly considered the scheme impracticable. England also refused a patent, and France merely allowed the claim to be filed. But at the last hour of the Congress that expired in March, 1843, an appropriation of 30,000 was made to test the scheme.

The next year a line was operating between Washington and Baltimore, and from that day to this the extention and improvement of the system have been constant. His honors as the inventor, though challenged, have been conceded by the government of France, Spain, Turkey, Prussia, Austria, Denmark, Russia, and other countries, as well as our own, and the representatives of ten, met in Paris in 1857, awarded him several hundred thousand francs for his achievements.

In 1842 he applied his system to submarine communication in a small way, and first suggested the Atlantic cable. June 10, 1871, a more notable recognition of his services was made in New York, by erecting a fine statue in Central Park. It was then shown that in less than thirty years from the day when Mr. Morse urged his invention upon Congress, nearly or quite one million miles of telegraph have been constructed—in all parts of Europe, in Asia and in Africa, Japan, Australia.

In private life Mr. Morse was affable and earnest, particularly versed in æsthetics and some branches of practical science and strongly American in all his feelings. His name is inscribed on the great roll with those that signalized by discoveries of permanent value to all.—[Presbyterian

The Chicago Tribune sagely concludes that "the Democratic party has determined to lay down its life." We are somewhat surprised at this seeing that it hadn't enough of it to be burdensome.

A lady attacked the editor of the Iowa Falls Sentinel for remarking that "Democrats are devils." He staightened it in his apology, by asserting that "all Democrats are not devils, but the devil is a Democrat."

—A correspondent of the Reading Eagle, writing from Beckersville, gives the following cheerily gloomy account of the prospects for the wheat crop: "Wheat, Mr. Editor, will not be wheat the coming season if something is not done to give it a lift. It looks—at present writing"—as if something or somebody had tried to play ghost in some of our fields. If we could hang our wheat fields on trees for about three weeks there might be something done in the way of getting up a small crop. The roots we fear are gone—are frozen, the tops are dead. The rain, a day since, together with the melting snow, may put new life into it, and with a little sunshine mixed, we may survive another harvest.
