North Carolina.

The Republican victory in North Carolina will be welcomed by the country with greater satisfaction than if the result had been announced upon the day after the election. There is something peculiarly exhilarating in the pleasure with which we watch the discomfiture and chagrin of the Greeley faction, after they have spent an entire week in shouting hosannas, firing great guns and demonstrating from the supposed result in North Carolina that the defeat of Grant and the destruction of the Republican party are now inevitable. But a more permanent sense of satisfaction is the great fact itself that Greeley and his hordes have been beaten disastrously and shamefully upon their very first battle-field. The journals and leaders of that party will of course try to underrate the importance of the Republican triumph, by showing that the rebel faction has obtained a majority in the Legislature, and five out of eight Congressmen. But this will not do. In 1870 the Democrats carried the State by five thousand majority. This year the Republicans elect their Governor by a majority of two thousand, making a clear gain for the Republicans of seven thousand votes in two years. We have elected but three Congressmen in the State, but this also is a gain of one, and a consequent loss for the Democracy. The exact proportion of the two parties in the Legislature has not, at this writing, been ascertained, but there is reason for believing that the Republicans have gained at least forty members.

Results of this kind cannot be explained away, denied or rubbed out. They prove in the most positive and conclusive manner that the Republican party has largely increased popularity in the State, and that it will triumph in North Carolina in November. Greeley has received a staggering blow in the first skirmish, and his forces will be demoralized and disheartened. Grant has obtained under most unpromising circumstances, a handsome endorsement which will give to him and to his party renewed strength, with which the greater victory may certainly be won. The Republicans of North Carolina deserve the gratitude of the nation for their brilliant conduct of the campaign.

Whet H. G. Knew About Jefferson Davis in 1856.

"The telegraph announces the election to the Senate of the United States of Jefferson Davis, at present Secretary of War. Unluckily the vacancy he is chosen to fill does not occur till a year from next March. It is a great pity he could not go into the Senate immediately. In that body he would doubtless do all the mischief he could; but the Senate is so 'valorous' already, that even a Jeff Davis stirred in would not add much to the villainy of the compound. Of the Cabinet he is a large part—we might say the largest part; and he adds to it the ingredients of boldness which none of the other members [illegible] It is he, doubtless, who has [illegible] the President to threaten [illegible] the Missouri Border-Ruffians regular army of the Uni[illegible]s. Shooting Indians is de[illegible] some people; but shooting [illegible] immigrants to Kansas [illegible] still more so."—Tribune, [illegible] 26, 1856.

A Serious Inquiry.

It is not solely for the purpose of "raging" the Democratic candidate and his supporters that the friends of the Administration repeat the opinion which the candidate has formerly and constantly expressed of the party. The object is very plain. If Mr. Greeley believed what he said, the little lapse of time since can not have converted him. If he did not believe it, why did he say it; and how much of what he says now does he not believe? Moreover, much of what he has said has no relation whatever to the principles and policy of the Democratic party, but to the general character of those who compose it; and it is useful and timely when his supporters are busily laughing at the friends of the Administration as reformers to repeat what he thinks of the character of his own advocates.

When we read that in 1868 Mr. Greeley said, "Every one who chooses to live by pugilism or gambling or lotteries, with nearly every keeper of a tippling house, is politically a Democrat," we do not suppose that the repetition of the words will prevent any such person from voting for their author, because such person are neither intelligent nor sensitive. They would undoubtedly do what the chairman of Mr. Greeley's Executive Committee, General John Cochrane, said some years ago thats he would do, "vote for the devil, if he were the regular candidate." But it is certainly a very proper and legitimate inquiry, why it is that such persons should always be politically Democrats. We naturally ask what it is in the Democratic party that so attracts the worst elements of society, that upon another occasion, Mr. Greeley was constrained to inquire of his excellent friend the World, now supporting him for the Presidency—but very much, we allow, as a man supports an aching head—"whether the pugilists, blacklegs, thieves, burglars, keepers of dens of prostitution, etc., etc., were not almost unanimously Democrats."

Indeed, Mr. Greeley is before us in asking the secret of the attraction. "Take," says the candidate of the Democratic party—"take all the haunts of debauchery in the land, and you will find nine-tenths of their master-spirits active partisans of that same Democracy. What is the instinct, the sympathetic chord, which attaches them so uniformly to this party? Will you consider?" Precisely. What is it? 'Tis the very point that we are considering, Mr. Greeley vouches for the fact. Now how to explain it? Why is it that, in the words of Mr. Greeley, "a purely selfish interest attaches the lewd, ruffianly, criminal, and dangerous classes to the Democratic party?" Does he suggest the reason when he remarks that "if there were not a newspaper nor a common school in the country, the Democratic party would be far stronger than it is?" And did he mean to reflect upon the chairman of his Executive Committee when he asserted that "the less one learns and knows, the more certain he is to vote the regular ticket from A to Izzard?" (Does the personal organ really think that there is no fun in this campaign?

If Mr. Greeley believed these things when he wrote them—and he undoubtedly did so—his opinion can not have changed. They were all said within a very few years, and the changes in general character and disposition can not in that time have been very considerable. We would like, therefore, respectfully to inquire at the Glenham Hotel whether the candidate is still of opinion the pugilists, blacklegs, thieves, burglars, keepers of dens of prostitution, etc., etc., with nearly every keeper of a tippling house, and nine-tenths of the master-spirits of all the haunts of debauchery in the land, are active partisans of the Democracy. And if he is not of that opinion, what reason he has had to change his views. We should like further to ask all honest and patriotic people whether they are of the opinion that a party to which the lewd, ruffianly, criminal, and dangerous classes are instinctively attached is a party which—whatever the purity of its candidate—is likely to elevate and reform the administration of the government.—Harpers Weekly.

South Carolina Politics.

A correspondent of the New York Evening Post, writing from Charleston, says:

The State will undoubtedly go for Gen. Grant in November by a large majority. Some of the old residents—men who took an active part in the secession movement—have come out strongly on the subject of local reform, and by their influence are endeavoring to reconcile their fellow citizens to the existing circumstances. Colonel W. L. Trenholm, a son of Mr. George A. Trenholm, late Secretary of the Treasury of the Confederate government, has issued a pamphlet entitled "Local Reform in South Carolina," in which he reviews the condition of affairs since the war, and urges an acceptance of the situation—counselling his readers to overlook the accident of color, and to urge the selection of any man for office on his fitness for the duties, regardless of complexion. He asserts that what all good citizens of South Carolina need above other things is a State Government capable of providing for the material welfare of the whole community and earnestly intent upon doing so. He denounces class legislation as pernicious, and legislation for the benefit of individuals and rings as absolutely ruinous to all permanent interests. He proclaims that local issues are of supreme importance to all honest men on both sides of the national contest, and that they should be attended to first. He concedes that the electoral vote in any event will be cast for the candidate of the Republican party.

Presentation.

About forty ladies and gentlemen assembled in the dining room of the National House of this place, on Saturday evening last, to witness the presentation of a box of beautiful drafting instruments to Mr. Wm. H. Brown, late Supt., and a gold chain to Mr. C. L. Bretz, Train Master, on the part of the employees and business men along the lines of Lewistown Division, Pa. R. R. After the company were seated at the tables, Col. Willis explained in a few remarks the object for which they had been brought together, and appointed Supt. Smith, Col. Selheimer and Wm. Mann a committee to introduce Messrs. Brown and Bretz. The box of instruments was presented by H. J. Culbertson, Esq., in the following address:

MR. BROWN: In behalf of the employees of the Lewistown Division, and others, its patrons, in appreciation of your worth, efficiency, kind and courteous deportment in the administration of your late office as superintendent and in acknowledgement of the greatful regard in which you are held by them, I tender you this set of Drafting Instruments, used in a profession in which you have the merit to enjoy so high and exalted a station. You and your late employees have been united in a common interest, to effect a common purpose; you to direct—they to execute. Their memory of you is pleasant, and they and acquaintances, formed in the interchange of business, assemble here as your friends in this, the parting hour. In them you have inspired a lasting confidence; they fain would have you linger; and, as you leave, they say farewell with sorrow. But a greater and more honorable field awaits you; heavier duties and graver responsibilities make their demands; a call that is imperative, a march that is onward. To those from whom you now sever, your promotion is their gratification—your success, their joy—and your advancement from honor to honor will be their fondest hopes and proudest realizations. Accept, then, this testimonial of the esteem and confidence of those claiming the endearing name of friends; bear with you their best wishes, and be assured their friendship and admiration will ever attend you, to end and cease only in life's latest days.

To which Mr. Brown replied as follows:

Ladies and gentlemen—I thank you very kindly for this expression of good wishes toward me, and I trust that my future life may be such as to retain the good opinions you have expressed. I can truly say, of all the places in which I have resided, s never left any with as much regret as I did Lewistown. I shall always remember the kindness and assistance I received here from my subordinates, and my intercourse with the patrons of the roads has likewise been of the most agreeable character. Not being much of a public speaker, I can only thank you for this beautiful and valuable present.

Chas. S. Marks, Esq., then addressed Mr. Bretz:

MR. BRETZ: In presenting you this beautiful and handsome chain, I have no hesitancy in saying that it is but an inadequate expression of the kind feeling, pure and unalloyed friendship, and high esteem that your friends have for you. It is a token of regard wrought by your gentlemanly deportment, manly bearing and courteous demeanor while associated with them in business and authority. Accept it as a continuing life remembrance of their admiration, devotion and true friendship, and when the unrelenting hand of time whitens your locks with the frosts of advancing years, and the harvester of mortality marks you for immortality, it will be a glorious recollection to call back the part of to-night, and revive in your memory the friends of by-gone days.

Mr. Bretz replied in substance, as follows:

Gentlemen, this unexpected appreciation of your regard for my official services is a compliment which I shall bear in greatful remembrance through life, and in whatever position I may be placed. During my brief stay on the Lewistown Division I have formed many pleasant acquaintances, and my intercourse with the business men and employees of the two roads has been of an agreeable character throughout. For the beautiful and costly present you have seen fit to present, I extend my heartfelt and greatful acknowledgements and trust I shall prove worthy of your kindness and the regard you have manifested.

The entire company then partook of a repast "of a National character"—and we all know what kind of suppers that House furnishes—which put the guests in a good humor, when several toasts were offered.

The instruments were of Swiss manufacture, purchased in Philadelphia at a cost of $140, arranged in a box of rosewood inlaid with silver, the box also containing paints, cups, etc.

The chain cost $95, was very handsome, and of beautiful design.

The whole affair was one of enjoyment and good feeling, and at half past 10 the assembly adjourned.

HAS MADE THE MOST ASTONISHING CURES! SO QUICK, SO RADICAL, SO PERMANENT, THE BODY UNDERGOES, UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF THIS TRULY WONDERFUL MEDICINE, THAT Every Day an Increase in Flesh and Weight is Seen and Felt.
THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.
Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the waste of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumous Discharges from the Ears, and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fever Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm, and all wastes of the life principle are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent power to cure them.
Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for Kidney & Bladder Complaints,
Urinary, and Womb diseases, Gravel, Diabetes, Dropsy, Stoppage of Water, Incontinence of Urine, Bright's Disease, Albuminuria, and in all cases where there are brickdust deposits, or the water is thick, cloudy, mixed with substances like the white of an egg, or throws up, like milk, or there is a morbid, dark, bilious appearance, and when there are pains and deposits, and when there is a pricking, burning sensation when passing water, and pain in the Small of the Back and along the Loins, there is Tumor of 12 Years' Growth Cured by Radway's Resolvent.

BRYANT, Mass., July 16, 1872.
DR. RADWAY:—I have had Ovarian Tumor in the stomach and bowels. All the Doctors said "there was no help for me." I tried every thing that was recommended; but nothing helped me. I saw your Resolvent, and bought a bottle of it; but had no faith in it, because I had suffered for twelve years. I took six bottles of the Resolvent, and one box of Radway's Pills, and two bottles of your Ready Relief; and there is not a sign of tumor to be seen or felt, and I feel better, smarter, and happier than I have for twelve years. You are welcome to use this for the benefit of others, over the green. I write this to you for the benefit of others. You can publish it if you choose. HANNAH P. KNAPP.
