THE POST.

MIDDLEBURG.....SEPT. 5, 1872

Are Men to Fly.

Darwin tells us that even in the upper regions of the air, near the summits of the Andes, vultures may be seen floating onward for miles upon motionless wings. What is the secret of this flotation? Gravitation acts as forcibly on the substance of the bird as on that of the animal. Nor can we believe that there is any buoyancy (properly so called in the bird's body or wings.

Those vultures which seemed to float steadily through still air, must have received support from the air in one or more of three several ways; either by swift motion, acquired before the floating began, and slowly reduced through the effects of aerial resistance, or by the action of aerial currents through which they were carried, or else, while seeming to float horizontaly, they were in reality traversing a slightly sloped, descending path. Neither of the two former explanations seems available, because the floating motion is continued so long that the frictional resistance of the air would almost certainly have destroyed a large share of the original motion through the air. This would equally happen whether the bird had in the first place urged its way swiftly through the air, or had floated itself off (so to speak) upon a swiftly-moving air current. On the other hand, there would seem to be no valid objection against the third explanation: for a single observer (at rest) would have no means of determining whether a bird was sailing along horizontally, or gliding down a gentle incline. But it matters little which explanation of the three we accept as the most plausible. The point to be chiefly noticed is the fact that a heavy body (for the vulture is no chicken, so to speak) can be sustained, for long distances, merely by the supporting action of the air.

There can be little doubt that it is only on account of the perfect steadiness of their motion through the air, that they are thus supported. The efforts of aeronautic mechanicians must be directed to secure a similar steadiness of motion for aerial facilities.—Granted this, there can be no reason why the powers of steel and iron should not avail to secure an aerial motion, even surpassing in rapidity the flight of the swiftest birds. Unless we are willing that birds fly by some power distinct from any which physical science deals with, we seem justified in believing that the bird may be matched, or surpassed, by the flying machine, as surely as the swiftest animals are surpassed by the locomotive. It is encouraging to consider that the actual amount of power necessary to convey a weight through the air (if that support is derived directly from the air) is very much less than that required to convey the same weight by sea or land. In the presence of failing coal supplies, this consideration will one day assume first rate importance.

A Clever Doctor.

Dr. Carbarus, who died at Paris last year, was one of those jovial physicians whose presence is equally sought in the sick room as in society, and who effects more with humor and pleasantry than by medicine.

One cure by which, at the commencement of his career, he achieved a great reputation, is characteristic of the man. The Dutchess of D—, one of the most aristocratic ladies of the Faubourg St. Germain, had got possessed of the idea that she had swallowed a frog. She felt this said frog—she declared she did—and its presence robbed her of peace of mind, sleep, and even health. The Parisian physicians had the rudeness to deny the existence of this animal, ignorant as they were that the poor lady suffered martyrdom. A fortunate chance made her acquainted with Dr. Carbarus, and to, him she told her tale of woe. He felt, with the seriousness worthy of Hippocrates himself, the pulse of the fair patient, inquiring after various symptoms, and when the charming aristocrat had exhausted all her store of arguments to prove her pet delusion, the youthful doctor said, after a well-feigned pause:

"Madame, the frog is there, but I will remove it."

He then prescribed an innocent emetic, and went to the nearest flower shop, where he bought a small green frog. Armed with this confederate, he presented himself once more before the Dutchess, and placed a large basin of water in readiness.—The emetic began to take effect, the Dutchess's eyes filled with tears, and our doctor took advantage of the opportunity to slip the green frog into the the basin.

On seeing the frog a load was removed from the Duchess's heart, and for an instant all seemed well. The next moment she turned pale, and, as Dr. Carbarus supported her tottering frame, she cried, in a despairing tone:

"Oh, doctor! I am not yet cured, for the frog has left little ones behind her!"

"Stop!" cried Carbarus, without allowing a trace of embarrassment to be seen in his manner, "that we shall soon see."

He then threw a searching glance upon the frog, which he had by this time taken in his hand, and uttered with a certainty that settled the whole question, these words:

THE RUSSELL

MOWER & REAPER.

Manufactured by

C. Russell & Co.

CANTON, O.

Weight and Strength,

There must be a certain amount of weight, for the reason that all the power that can be brought to bear upon the knife is derived from the gravity or weight of the machine upon the ground. That it must combine strength enough to do well the work or which it is intended.

Durability and Utility,

It is important that a machine should be durable, for no matter how excellent it may be in all its parts, if not durable it will prove useless. Utility is the great object in our combined Reaper and Mower to be useful is the desired aim.

The mower cuts a four foot swarth and the Reaper a swarth of six feet.

Rear Cut vs Front Cut

For the finest cut it has been claimed that it was the more easily handled; that it was safer for driver and machine; that there is not the same liability to injury, by falling or being thrown off, the driver would fall behind the cutters. The Rear Cut machine is more easily handled, because the horses are hitched nearer to the main axle, than in the Front Cut. No weight or sawing on the necks of the horses. The driver can see obstructions, thus saving himself and machine from injury.

Draft and Flexibility,

It is meritoously claimed for the Russell to have as little side draft as any machine in use; and its flexibility adapts it to the inequalities of the ground over which it may be drawn.

Manhood: How Lost How Restored.

Just published, a new edition of Dr. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical cure (without medicine or Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to marriage, etc; also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits induced by self indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be readily cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, postpaid on receipt of six cents, or two post stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless languor of the season. Even where no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
