THE POST

Middleburg,.....July 10, 1873.

Sheridan's Spy

Of the distinguished army officers that attended the funeral of Gen. Canby in Indianapolis, says a paper of that city, Lieutenant General Phil. Sheridan was probably observed with the most curiosity. His career is not only very brilliant, but there is so much of personal magnetism about the man that the eyes of the people follow him wherever he goes. In personal appearance he is below medium stature, short, broad shouldered, with a head and face full of pluck, fire and determined character. If there is anything in physiognomy or physiology, every bump on his head and every line on his face show the soldier and the man of nerve. He has piercing eyes, a large aggressive nose, have belligerent jaws, a big head with an enormous amount of brains behind the ear, and altogether a man of tremendous energy and perfect self confidence. Full of fire and magnetism quick as lightning in his preceptions, genial in his address, lively in conversation, and altogether a man of rare attractiveness and power.

During his stay here he was conversing with a few friends touching his military experience and campaigns, when he said: "There is a mighty sight of romance and a great many interesting episodes connected with the war that the historians never get hold of. For instance, there has been a great deal said about the battle of Winchester, a little affair in which I had a hand. Well, it was a pretty square fight, but do you know that battle was fought on the strength of information which I obtained from a young lady in the town of Winchester, and if the rebels had known she was giving it to me they would have hung her in a minute. I was very anxious to get information of the rebel strength and movements so as to know just when and where to strike them, but I did not know how to get it. Finally I heard of a Union young lady in Winchester who could be relied on if I could get word to her. Her name was Miss Wright. I do think she is in the Treasury Department at Washington now. But the trouble was to communicate with her. One day I heard of an old colored man, living outside my lines, who had a pass to go into Winchester to sell vegetables. I sent for the old man, and on talking with him, found him to be loyal, as all the colored folks were, you know. Finding he could keep a secret, I asked him if he would undertake to deliver a letter to a young lady in Winchester. The old fellow said he would. So I wrote a letter on thin tissue paper, and rolled it up in tin foil. It made a ball about as big as the end of your thumb, and I told the old man to put it in his mouth and deliver it to Miss Wright, in Winchester. He went off and in about two days came back with an answer, rolled up in the same piece of tin foil. I found I had struck a mighty good lode, and followed it carefully till I got all the information I wanted. The girl gave me more important information than I got from all sources, and I planned the battle of Winchester almost entirely on what I got from her. She was a nice girl, and true as steel."

General Sheridan's weight at the close of the war was 117 pounds. After that he commenced picking up rapidly, and his present weight is 165 pounds.

Cattle Jack says that he didn't kill General Canby. He knows very little about the business, but thinks that Ben. Franklin did it. Now let us hear from Mr. Franklin. This gentleman has long borne a high reputation as a philosopher and philanthropist, and we are unwilling to believe that he could have committed this fiendish outrage. But the public cannot help recalling at this juncture certain old rumors to the effect that he was the real culprit in the case of the destruction of the cherry trees at Mount Vernon. The late lamented Washington is said to have charged this act of sacrilege upon Benjamin Franklin just before he died. now that the second terrible charge is brought against him, with strong corporation circumstances, Mr Franklin must speak. His brave silence will not do any longer. Let brother Barr inquire of the spirit of the philosopher whether this charge of Captain Jack be true.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored

Just published, a new edition of Dr CULVERWELL'S Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of Spermatorrhœa, or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, Consumption, Epilepsy, and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance.

Sufferings in sealed envelopes, only 6 cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable essay clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self-abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

☞ This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents, or two postage stamps.

Also, Dr. Culverwell's "Marriage Guide," price 25 cents.

Celebrated Blood Cleanser or Panacea.

The Panacea will not only cure old standing and malignant complaints, but is one of the best preventatives of such disorders ever offered to the world. You can avoid severe attacks of acute diseases, such as Cholera, Small Pox, Typhoid, Bilious, Spotted and Intermittent Fevers, by keeping your blood purified. The different degrees of all such diseases depend altogether upon the condition of the blood; for if the vital fluid is deranged you will take a disease much more readily than otherwise, and the suffering will be in proportion to the amount of foreign matter in the blood. This is as reasonable that we need not here make any illustrations.

Remember the name and don't be put off with anything else which druggists may say is just as good as the Blood Cleanser Because they make more profits on cheaper articles.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test for years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safely beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great eruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful remedy, and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listlessness of the season. Even where no disease appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.
