Poetry. THE TRUE LOVER. BY THE LATE BRED'E W. LORING.

Do you ask me, starry eyes, To describe the lover true? Wonder not at my surprise.
Who should know as well as you. Think of all that you have seen, All the lovers that have been; He is true whose love is shown,

What he does, he does alone : Yet he hopes it wins her thought. All that in his soul has grown. To her sovereign feet is brought, To his soul her image clings. She seems woven in all things. And each thought that in him stire, Is not for his sake, but here.

For her sake he will endure;
For her sake he will sacrifice;
Bravely bearing, her love sure,
Censure, slander, scarn, advice.
If another wins her heart, Sadly be will from her part, Sadly, bravely, true love is, For her sake, and not for his,

This is the true lover sweet -True as ever I am true; For my love is all complete, Perfect since it comessfrom you Darling, yet 'tis not true—no!
For I could not let you go.
For I must keep you where you've grow
For my sake, and for your own,

For, your own, because I love More than any other can ; More than ever love could move Heart of any former man.
Look at me and then agree,
Neahave ever loved like me;
Is because I live in you.
