Ner Middleswarth. A LEAF FROM THE POLITICAL HISTORY OF OUR COUNTRY. "Anecdotes of Public Men" by Col. John W. Torrey.

Some time about the beginning of this century Ner Middleswarth shook the sands of his native Jersey from his feet, and located in what was then Northumberland, afterwards Union, now Snyder county, Pa. He was a free school and without education. It is doubtful whether he ever had the advantage of even the rude schools of his time, and he located where he was then almost a wilderness, and is still one of the most primitive regions of the State.

The final contest for the overthrow of the anti-progressive policy of Middleswarth, and the inauguration of a more generous control and direction of the Whig party in that section, was made in the succeeding year of 1851. The Senatorial district was composed of Union, Millin, and Juniata counties and the nominee for Senator was urged by the Whig party.

Young Archibald Singlerly, of Germantown, has been unfortunate. He read in the paper that, "when the boys in Virginia City wish to raise their kites, they tie the string to a dog's tail and make him run."

TRUST. Nat crawled out of his poor little bed which hardly deserved the name of bed at all. The room was very bare and cold.

"I do say, mother," said Nat, shivering and looking about the room, "it is no sort of use, we shall have to give up. I don't see but we shall freeze to death with no fire, and starve besides."

"Why, my boy," said his mother, cheerfully, "don't give up. Don't you remember that we have a Father who sees all our troubles, and if we only trust Him He will help us."

"Well, dear," said his mother, "we will eat what we have and be cheerful. We shall not starve to-day, and maybe you will get a few pennies for sweeping, and I may find a little washing to do."

Nat looked after them with tears in his eyes. "Courage, with nothing to eat," he thought, "I'll try to get some more."
