

STATE CONVENTION. The Republicans of the State of Pennsylvania are hereby requested to assemble by their delegates in State Convention at noon on Wednesday, the 26th day of May, 1875, in the Fulton Opera House, at the city of Lancaster, for the purpose of nominating candidates for Governor and State Treasurer.

CHARLEY ROSS CASE.—Westervelt, the brother in law of Mosher, one of the men who kidnapped Charley Ross, is locked up in the Moyamensing prison in Philadelphia, on an indictment as an accomplice after the fact in the abduction. The police authorities have refused to give any information, professing still to have hopes of making further arrests that may throw light on the mystery.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.—The Supreme Court of the United States has just rendered a decision of special interest and importance to all holders of life insurance policies, and all who may hereafter apply for such policies. It is to the effect that untruthful answers to the questions which form the basis of the policy, even though they may be immaterial to the risk assumed by the company, render the instrument void.

A CHANCE FOR SELLERS.—Mr. Benjamin Singler, who was formerly State Printer, and is the owner of two extensive printing offices—one in Harrisburg and the other in Pittsburg—offers a premium of $500 in gold for the best compilation of a spelling book. Mr. S.'s object is to secure a better speller than is now in use, and when this is secured to add a series of school books which can be sold at about half the price which the public are now compelled, by the school book combination among publishers, to pay for such works.

Opinions of the Press. [From the Pittsburg Commercial.] We note that several Republican newspapers have ventured, in a quiet way, to apologize for Crow Hartman's action in sending troops into Luzerne county to preserve the peace. His action, as we look at it, needs no special justification. He did what he had to do, and no more, and any other man in his place would have been compelled to do the same. It is his duty, as the chief officer in the State, to see that the laws are enforced. The main reliance for this enforcement is upon the local authorities, who are bound to use all the means within their reach to preserve the peace and secure the safety of the community.

Parents' Rights.—By the decision of the New York Court of Special Sessions a man has been sent to prison for boxing his son's ears. The youngster, who is about nine years of age, objected to having his ears slapped, and applied for a warrant for his father's arrest. The warrant was granted, and, though the dutiful son failed to appear in Court, the father, on his own admission that he slapped the boy's ears, was sent to jail for five days, during to meditate on the liability of parental relations as established by statute. The decision of the Court is somewhat startling, and we hope the small boys of the community may refrain from punishing their parents too far. But parents in future must dispense with that terror of boyhood, "the rod in the pocket," otherwise they may find themselves in the jug.

[From the Pittsburg Dispatch.] Is It War? It really begins to look as if we were about to get into trouble with Mexico. The Hon. Thos. A. Scott and others, who have returned to the United States from a visit to that country, report that the Mexican government is using no effort to prevent its citizens from making raids across the Rio Grande, although its attention has frequently been called to them in an official manner.

Some money. The addition to the land values of the eight North-western States which the railroads have made, is estimated at $1,000,000,000. —The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is the largest in the world. It has 994 miles of track, 13,200 cars, 900 locomotives and represents $150,000,000.

—The United States Government will shortly commence suit against the bondsmen of J. A. Rhomborg, of Iowa, for $750,000 taxes due on distilled spirits. —Jacob Hays, with property valued at $150,000 in his possession, was so afraid of coming to war that he hung himself with a bed cord in his carriage house on Tuesday last week. He lived on a farm about twelve miles from Pittsburg and was a well known citizen, aged about sixty five years.

—A young lady of Carlisle "walked in her sleep" and built a fire of old newspapers under her sewing machine. She knew nothing of it until next morning when the ashes were found; then she remembered of having dreamed of doing this. By good luck alone the house was not burned down. —An Altonian man and a stranger both young, recently went on a "bum" together, and towards midnight the stranger was so drunk that he lay down in an alley and went to sleep. Next morning he woke up with a heavy head and a light purse, lightened to the tune of some $300. Hunting up his companion, he charged him with the theft, at the same time pointing a revolver at his head, and allowing him five minutes in which to disgorge. In less time than that the money was returned.

—A gentleman went to a bank in New York, the other day, and drew $3,000 in small bills, to pay hands, and got into a passenger car, to go to the works. About the same time he entered the car, three other men got in, and a fourth drove a wagon close behind the car. After they had gone a short distance, one of the three snatched the package from the hands of the gentleman, and the three rushed out, jumped into the wagon and drove away. Such a bold robbery shows what desperadoes the city contains.

Pennsylvania, April 29. The visit of Adjutant General Latva was for the purpose of inspecting the different outposts and ascertaining the position of affairs relating to the strike. He carefully surveyed the situation, and has concluded to withdraw the rest of the troops (the Ninth regiment) in a short time. The experiment will be tried, and if the strikers remain peaceful, the region will be left in the hands of the civil authorities, but if any other outbreak occurs the military will be immediately returned and prompt and severe measures taken to suppress the outrages which have abound all throughout the country. Guard duty will not be so rigidly enforced, but measures will be taken to arrest some of the known ring-leaders and an example made. General Osborne is disposed to be lenient with the strikers and give them an opportunity to redeem themselves. It has been ascertained that the same parties have committed all the outrages, and those bear the reputation of desperate characters. The only course attached to the majority in their refusal to give any information about these men, and the care with which every unlawful act is concealed.

—John C. Breckinridge is falling fast and is not expected to survive. —Mr. Powell, of Newport, Perry county, has lost three children through the measles.
