The Bloomington (I'll.) Puntagroph says, four years ago Jacob Zeigler went from Normal into Dewitt county and rented Judge Davis's 1.700 sore farm, near Cfinton. His worldly possession at that time consisted of eleven head of horses, a few family utensits, and about 85co in money. Last year he raised 18,000 bushels of corn, has 235 head of cattle, 30 head of horses, and about 400 hogs, showing in all stock on hand amounting to at least $100,000. The Pantagraph intimates that Mr. Ziegler made his money by minding his own business.

All the world is full of babies, Sobbing, sighing everywhere, Looking out, with eyes of terror, Besting at the empty air. Do they see the strife before them, That they sob and tremble so? Oh, the helpless, frightened babies.

Still they come and still the world is full of children, Sitll they come and still they.

How to SET BER HIVES .- Taylor Brown, Pranklin, one of Chester county's successful apiarists has forty-eight stands of bees and gets a large yield of honey from the busy bee. He has changed his mode of arranging the hives, to one learned by experience. Formerly he put his on a bench some inches from the ground, to avoid the ant and miller, but has always great difficulty in escaping them, losing swarms every winter by their ravages, until now be finds that by setting his hives flat on the ground, with only a board under them, he has no trouble, and loses no bees from Attorney & Councellor these destroyers.
