Poetry.

The Farmer's Daughter.

She may not in the mazy dance. With jeweled maidens vie : With jeweled mattens vie : She may not smile on courtly swain with soft bewitching eye ; She cannot boast a form and mien That lavish wealth has brought her ; But ab ! she has much fairer charms, The farmer's peerless daughter !

The rose and lily on her check Together love to dwell, Her laughing blue eyes wrenthe around The heart a witching spell: Her smiles are bright as morning's glow Upon the dewy plain. And listning to her voice we dream That spring has come again.

The timid fawn is not more wild, Nor yet more gay and free. The lily's cup is not more pure In all its purity : Of all the wild flowers in the wood Or by the crystal water. There's none more pure or fair than she The farmer's peerless daughter.

The haughty belle whom all adore, On downy pillow lies, While forth upon the dewy lawn The merry maiden hies : And with the lark's uprising song, Her own clear voice is heard ; Ye may not tell which sweetest sings, The maiden or the bird.

Then tell me not of jewels fair ; The brightest jowel yet Is the true heart where virtue dwells And innocence is set ! The glow of health upon her cheek. The grace no rule batb taught her, The fairest wreath that beauty twines
