Three Points for Consideration.

During the past five years the Vegetine has been steadily working itself into public favor, and those who were at first most incredulous in regard to its merits are now its most ardent friends and supporters.

There are three essential causes for those having such a horror of patent medicines, changing their opinion and leading their influence toward the advancement of Vegetine. 1st—It is an honestly-prepared medicine from barks, roots and herbs. 2d—It honestly accomplishes all that is claimed for it, without leaving any bad effects in the system. 3d—It presents honest vouchers in testimonials from honest, well-known citizens, whose significance are a sufficient guarantee of their correctness in the matter, taking into consideration the vast quantity of medicine that is constantly before the public through the daily advertisements in the newspapers columns, with no proof of merit or genuine vouchers of what it has done, we should be pardoned for manifesting a small degree of pride in presenting the following testimonial from Rev. J. S. DICKERSON, D. D., the pastor of several essential matters of the South Baptist Church, Boston:

The Tired Body Sues for Sleep.
BOSTON, March 16, 1874.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:
DEAR SIR—It is so much from a sense of duty as of gratitude that I write to say that your Vegetine—even if it is a patent medicine—has been of great help to me when nothing else seemed to avail. I could enjoy no rest. Either excessive mental work or unusual care brings upon me a nervous exhaustion that desperately needs sleep, but as desperately defies it. Night after night the tired body sues for sleep until the day-time is welcomed back, and we begin our work tired out with an almost fruitless chase after rest. Now I have found that a little Vegetine taken before I retire gives me sweet and immediate sleep, and without any of the evil effects of the usual narcotics. I think two things would tend to make brain-workers sleep. 1st—A little less work. 2d—A little more Vegetine. This prescription has helped me.

Now I have a particular horror of "patent medicine," but I have a greater horror of being afraid to tell the straight out truth. The Vegetine has helped me, and I use it up.
Yours &c.,
J. S. DICKERSON,

Valuable Evidence.
The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. T. Walker, D. D., formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, and at present settled in Providence, R. I., must be esteemed as reliable evidence.

No one should fail to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience with the use of Vegetine in the Rev. Mr. Walker's family, who now pronounces it invaluable:

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 164 Transit Street.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.
I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your Vegetine. My family have used it for the last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable. I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic.
O. T. WALKER,
Formerly Pastor of Bowdoin Square Church, Boston

The Test Evidence.
The following letter from Rev. E. S. BEST, pastor M. E. Church, Natick, Mass., will be read with interest by many physicians. Also those suffering from the same disease as afflicted the son of Rev. E. S. Best. No person can doubt this testimony, and there is no doubt about the curative powers of Vegetine:
NATICK, Mass., Jan. 1, 1874.
MR. H. R. STEVENS:
Dear Sir—We have good reason for regarding your Vegetine a medicine of the greatest value. We feel assured that it has been the means of saving our son's life. He is now seventeen years of age; for the last two years he has suffered from nervous debility, the legs especially showing affection, and was so far reduced that all who saw him thought his recovery impossible. A council of able physicians could give us but the faintest hope of his ever rallying, two of the number declaring that he was beyond the reach of human remedies, that even amputation could not save him, as he had not vital energy enough to endure this operation. Just then we commenced giving him Vegetine, and from that time to the present he has been continuously improving. He has lately resumed his studies, threws away crutches and cane, and walks about cheerfully and strong.

Though there is still some discharge from the opening where the limb was lanced, we have the fullest confidence that in a little time he will be perfectly cured.

We have taken about three dozen bottles of Vegetine, but lately used but little, as he declares that he is too well to be taking medicine.
Respectfully yours,
E. S. BEST,
MRS. L. C. F. BEST.

Reliable Evidence.
178 Baltic Street, Brooklyn N. Y., Nov. 14, '74.
H. R. STEVENS, Esq.
DEAR SIR—From personal benefit received by its use, as well as from personal knowledge of those whose cures the last have seemed almost miraculous, I can most heartily and sincerely recommend the Vegetine for the complaints for which it is claimed to cure.

Late Pastor Calvary Bap. Church Sacramento, Cal.

The Red Haired Boy.

A New York merchant, who is a Sunday school teacher, says Dr. Newton, was called upon for a speech at a great Sunday school meeting out West. He said: "I'll tell you a little story of a beggar boy. I started out one Sunday morning to get up some recruits for my class. At the corner of the street I met a barefooted boy, without hat or coat.

His hair was fiery red; and looked as if it had never been combed. I asked the boy if he would come to school.

"'No sir,' was the sharp reply.

"'You ought to go to Sunday school,' I said kindly.

"'What for?' he asked.

'We teach boys to be good,' I said.

"'But I don't want to be good,' he said.

"'Why not want to be good?' I asked earnestly.

"'Because I am hungry,' was the quick reply.

"'It is now 9 o'clock' I said looking at my watch; 'haven't you had any breakfast yet?'

"'No, sir.'

"'Where do you live?'

"'Up in the alley there with aunty. She's sick.'

"'Will you eat some gingerbread and crackers, if I go to the bakery and buy some?'

"'Yes, sir, that I will, and be glad to get 'em.'

"I bought a lot and set them before him. He ate them in a way which showed how keenly hungry he was. I asked him if he would like a little more.

"'A little more if you please, sir,' said the boy.

"'I got a fresh supply and set before him. I waited till he had done eating; then I said. My boy will you go with me to school now?'

"'You have been so kind to me, sir,' said he, 'I'll go anywhere with you, Please wait till I take what's left of the gingerbread round to aunty, and then I'll go with you.'

"He returned directly to the sidewalk where I was waiting for him and went with me to school. He had never been to school before. He thought of school as a place where boys had to hold out their hands to be slapped with a ruler, and have their hair pulled and their ears pinched. But when he found himself in the hands of a pleasant-looking young lady, who treated him kindly, and said nothing about his shabby clothes, he was greatly surprised.

"He became a regular attendant. He told all the boys of his acquaintance about the school, and persuaded many of them to attend. About two years after this, a lot of boys from New York where sent out West and distributed among the farmers. My red haired boy was sent among them. I used to hear of him for a while, that he was getting on and doing well. I have lost sight of him for years now, but I have no doubt he is doing good wherever he is."

The gentleman then said a few words about the importance of getting the poor and neglected children of our largest cities into Sunday school, and then sat down.

In a moment, a tall, good-looking gentleman with red hair stood up in the meeting and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen, I am the red haired beggar boy of New York, who ate that gentleman's gingerbread. I have lived in the West for years, and have prospered. I am now a rich man. I own 500 acres of as good land as the sun shines on.—My horses and carriage are at the door, and when meeting is over, I shall be happy to take my old friend to my home, where he will be welcome to stay as long as he pleases. I am a member of a church, and a superintendent of a sabbath school; and I owe all that I have in this world, and all I hope for in the next, to what was taught me in the Sabbath school."

How a Man Looks for Clean Clothes.

Did you ever see a man try to find a shirt or handkerchief, or something in the bureau drawer where the wife keeps her clean linen? It mostly happens he is in a hurry, when he has got his fireworks temper on, and his wife has got the baby on her lap, or she is "up to her elbows" in dough. He finds the white clothes arranged in such symmetrical layers as only a woman, after long practice can accomplish, and he dives in a good deal as if he was fishing for nubs of kindling in a barrel of shavings, pitching everything right or left on to the floor. Meanwhile he fails to get the required article, stewing and swearing and offering up selected expressions of relief to his feelings in a suppressed tone of voice, and vowing, in a way especially designed to reach the ears of his wife; that it does beat the old—what's his name?—a thing can't be put where it can be found." About this time his wife calls out from below that the article sought is right at the top, when he sarcastically wants to know if she supposes he has 'got no eyes,' and tears round at a more furious rate than ever, swearing that the shirt ain't there, for he has been to the bottom. And then he gathers everything up in a bunch and rams them back any how, just as he can grab them in saving handfuls, tearing around and jerking things all over with a nervous looseness. Then he sings out in a sort of abstracted way, as if addressing no one in particular, that he can always find anything he needs at his place of business in a moment, that he keeps a place for everything and everything in its place. Just about the time he has worked himself into a red-hot worry of boiling over impatience and got the whole room into a litter, his wife glides in and lays her hand upon the missing article—right in the drawer where he had jerked it out and then rammed it back again—in that quiet way a woman has of maddening a choleric husband into a fit state for the lunatic asylum.
