Three Points for Consideration.

During the past five years the Vegetine has been steadily working itself into public favor, and those who were at first most incredulous in regard to its merits are now its most ardent friends and supporters.

There are three essential causes for those having such a horror of patent medicines, changing their opinion and leading their influence toward the advancement of Vegetine. 1st—It is an honestly-prepared medicine from barks, roots and herbs. 2d—It honestly accomplishes all that is claimed for it, without leaving any bad effects in the system. 3d—It presents honest vouchers in testimonials from honest, well-known citizens, whose signatures are a sufficient guarantee of their correctness in the matter. Taking into consideration the vast quantity of medicine bought commonly before the public through the daring advertisements in the newspapers columns, with no proof of merit or genuine vouchers of what it has done, we should be unwilling for manifesting a small degree of pride in presenting the following testimonial from Rev. J. S. DICKERSON, D. D., the respected and even-tempered pastor of the South Baptist Church, Boston:

The Tired Body Sure for Sleep.

BOSTON, March 16, 1874.

H. R. STEVENS, Esq.:

DEAR SIR—It is as much from a sense of duty as of gratitude that I write to say that your Vegetine—even if it is a patent medicine—has been of great help to me when nothing else seemed to avail which I could safely use. Either excessive mental work or unusual care brings upon me a nervous exhaustion that desperately needs rest, but as desperately defies it. Night after night the over-tired body cries for sleep until the day-dawn is welcomed back, and we begin our work tired out with the most fruitless chase after rest. Now I have found that a little Vegetine taken just before I retire gives me sweet and immediate sleep, and without any of the evil effects of the usual narcotics. I think two things would tend to make brain-workers sleep. 1st—A little less work. 2d—A little more Vegetine. This prescription has helped me, and I owe it up.

Yours &c.,
J. S. DICKERSON,

Valuable Evidence.

The following unsolicited testimonial from Rev. O. T. Walker, D. D., formerly pastor of Bowdoin Square Church and at present settled in Providence, R. I., must be esteemed as reliable evidence.

No one should fail to observe that this testimonial is the result of two years' experience with the use of Vegetine in the Rev. Mr. Walker's family, who now pronounces it invaluable:

PROVIDENCE, R. I., 184 Transit Street.
H. R. STEVENS Esq.

I feel bound to express with my signature the high value I place upon your Vegetine. My family have used it for the last two years. In nervous debility it is invaluable, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic.

A Successful Burglar of 20 Years Standing—Two Hundred Thousand Dollars in a Single Haul.

A few evenings ago as a burglar was escaping from a private residence in New York, he stepped out a second story window on to a stone coping over a door which happened to be loose, and which fell with him to the pavement, breaking in his skull. He has since been identified as Charles Dennis, alias "Troy" Dennis, a noted house-burglar, whose exploits were numerous and daring This man was known to possess a remarkable agility, an attribute which helped him in scaling walls which, to ordinary burglars, would have appeared insurmountable except with the assistance of a ladder. The thorough manner in which he accomplished his numerous thefts, and secured himself from detection, led the police to form the belief that he had made a study of his art, and that in bringing him to justice no common means should be employed. His agility enabled him to gain access to houses by means of climbing gutter-pipes to second story windows. On entering a room he would always first lock the door noiselessly, and then set about ransacking the apartment. A noise at the door never alarmed him, for persons on finding it locked would not have their suspicions aroused, thinking that some other inmate of the house had inadvertently fastened it. In this manner "Troy" committed many robberies without detection, and, notwithstanding the fact that he was many times arrested on suspicion, generally managed to escape the penalty. He was well known to the members of the detective force, and when, in July, 1870, Mr. Nathan was foully murdered in his mansion in West Twenty-third street, "Troy" would have been arrested on suspicion if he had not been at that time serving a term of five years in Sing Sing prison for a burglary committed in Brooklyn—the only one of which the authorities were ever able to convict him "Troy" was forty-six years old when he met his tragic death, and at least twenty years of his life were spent in pursuing the vocation of thief to the exclusion of all legitimate employment. One of his most extensive robberies was committed on March 23, 1866, when, aided by Hugh Carr, alias "Kew" Carr, an accomplished sneak thief, he entered the residence of Mr. J. P. Moor, a retired merchant, at No 110 Madison avenue, and succeeded in stealing, in addition to one thousand two hundred dollars worth of old family jewelry, a box containing two hundred thousand dollars worth of securities, including sixty thousand dollars in negotiable bonds, seventy United States bonds, and thirty-four treasury notes, Mr. Moor, on discovering his losses, advertised them extensively, offering a reward of fifteen thousand dollars for the return of the property. The police worked assiduously in the case, Captain Young, of the detective force, and Detectives Jordan and Kelso having been especially assigned to devote their entire attention to it. These officers soon traced the stolen bonds to a person known as "Colonel" Morrison, who then kept a jewelry store and "fence" at No. 305 Hudson street. Morrison, on being taken into custody by Detective Eller, agreed to induce the negotiators of the bonds to visit his store again with the remainder of the bonds; but although this plan succeeded so far as leading to the arrest of "Troy" Dennis and Hugh Carr, no bonds of any description were found on their persons They were, however, arraigned before Justice Dowling, at the tombs police court, where Dennis was defended by Mr. John Graham. Through some means which, it is alleged, were not wholly devoid of trickery on the part of the prosecution, a nolle prosequi was entered in favor of the three men, and they were discharged. Scarcely had "Troy" Dennis regained his freedom when he resumed his criminal career. While he was lodged in the tombs prison Troy's landlady, on arranging his bed one day, found hidden under the mattress some of the stolen bonds, which she handed over to the police. Thus forty-three thousand dollars worth of Mr. Moor's property was recovered, and that gentleman on its receipt presented Captain Young with a check for six thousand six hundred and sixty dollars and thirty-one cents, which was subsequently divided by the police board among the officers who had been engaged in the case. After escaping from the clutches of the authorities for perhaps the twentieth time, "Tory" Dennis operated principally in Brooklyn, where he was frequently arrested, but not convicted until 1869, when he was detected by a sergeant of police in the act of entering a house though the second story window. The sergeant permitted the robber to pillage the place, but when "Tory" sought to retreat through the front door he saw the barrel of a pistol pointed at his head. He surrendered quietly and was soon afterward convicted and sent to the state prison for a term of five years, which he served. Dennis usually associated with John and James Mange, brothers, who were expert burglars. The former died recently in California, and "Kew" Carr, who assisted "Tory" in robbing the house of Mr Moore, committed suicide by poisoning on a New Haven boat.

An old gentleman went out to shoot partridges, accompanied by his son. The gun was charged half way up the muzzle, and when at last the old gentleman started some birds, he took a rest and blazed away expecting to see some fall of course; but not so did it happen, for the gun recoiled with so much force as to "kick" him over. The old man got up, and while rubbing the sparks out of his eyes, inquired of his son. "Dick, did I point the right end of the gun at the birds."

Is Your Hair Falling Out
OR TURNING GRAY!
If So Do Not Fail To Use
LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER.

The Great Reputation

Which it has attained and the large number of testimonials which are constantly being received are conclusive proof of its great value.

Proof Positive—A New Suit of Hair, Natural Color and Beauty Restored.

Dr. Swayne & Son—Some six years ago, I began to loose my hair, and continued to do so until the scalp became as bare as the palm of my hand, troubled also with a disagreeable itching fever, great heat and dandruff, small pustules would form, quite sore to the touch, and the remaining portion of the hair, on the side and back of the head, became quite gray. After using a number of Restoratives, (so called), without success, and my head nearly destitute of hair, I reluctantly commenced using the "London Hair Color Restorer and Dressing."

Now, through its use, candor and justice compel me to say to all the I now possess a new and beautiful growth of hair, completely restored to its original dark and glossy appearance, and I venture the assertion, the world furnishes no preparation equal to this; and I do conscientiously say to all who are grey or bald, hair dry and harsh or falling, to use at once this cleanly and delightfully perfumed article.

Dr. Dalton of Philadelphia, says of it: The London Hair Color Restorer is used very extensively among my patients and friends, as well as by myself; I therefore speak from experience.
