It is said that the coming female hat for spring looks as if it had been run over lengthwise by a broad-wheeled road wagon.

Josiah Hart Treasurer of the S. & L. R. R. offers $1.000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the person who set fire to the railroad bridge at Selinsgrove, on the evening of the 17th of February. 1877.

If you wish to drive the rats off your premises, put potash into their places of concealment. The potash becomes soft, sticks to their feet and burns them. This will cause them to leave in hot haste. Try it.

Capitol Letter.

HARRISBURG Feb. 16, 1877.

A great portion of the time of the Legislature is consumed in the making of buncome speeches and the introduction of bills and resolutions which are to add fame and glory to their authors and assist them to mount higher upon the political ladder. The frequency with which the interests of the poor man are refered to in the advocacy of bills would predict that no other thoughts were on the minds of these patriots but the protection of the oppressed, the welfare of the poor and charity for the needy. We fear that in most instances. underlying this cloud so beautifully tinged with Silver and Gold, there lies not very thoroughly concealed a large amount of self preservation. It is a pretty safe rule when constituents see the legislative record occupied by long bombastic speeches costing the State $14. a page in favor of the poor man that that fellow is shying two words for himself and one for his constituents. I am pleased to be able to say that your member does not belong to this class. His views are rarely heard on the floor—he is regularly in his seat—pays strict attention to his duties and has more influence in shaping legislation by wise counsel and quiet but effective work and at less expense than those who are constantly talking but saying so little.

BILLS OF IMPORTANCE.

In the large budget of bills that have been introduced this session—upwards of four hundred—very few are of any special particular importance to the people. They could all be counted on the fingers of one hand. There is the local option bill which will scarcely pass. The usury bill which will probably be enacted if there is time to reach it. It will not likely pass without some amendments, and perhaps, it is better that it should not. Some just and fair law is demanded upon this subject. The stay law will not pass. This bill was gotten up ostensibly in the interest of the debtor but we doubt very much whether in the end it would redound to that interest. In the present crisis it might stay for a time the harsh execution of the law and save a few from financial ruin, but eXperience has proven that the more lax the law the more severe the contract. The new amendments to the constitution have been defeated in the house and thus secure a similar fate both at the polls after the eXpense of advertising them had been gone through with. The large proportion of appropriation bills have been gone through with and the most important one providing for the expenses of the legislature and executive departments of the State was passed yesterday on second reading and these few bills finally finished there will be nothing remaining of sufficient importance to demand an eXtended session. The report of the fish commission will scarcely be ready this year and the committee will probably be continued another year. The law to prevent the impurity of fish streams will likely be among the bills that will be enacted. Most of the members go home today and a week from this many will start for Washington to see Hayes inaugurated They laugh best who laugh last. The democracy have had four weeks of crowing and now the republicans will quietly inaugurate the president. DON.

FOR THE PROTECTION OF LIFE AND LIMB.—A bill has been introduced in the house for the protection of persons who attend places of public worship and amusement and of employees in workshops. It provides that it shall not be lawful for the owner or owners, lessee or lessees, trustees or school directors or corporations owning or in any manner controlling or operating any public hall, houses of public worship, theatre or other places of amusement within this commonwealth, to obstruct or allow to be obstructed by any others any of the aisles or passage ways to or from or in the auditorium of any such halls, theatres, or places of amusement, by placing chairs, benches, or any other articles whatsoever which may in anywise prevent the free egress or ingress at any time such places may be open to the public. And all persons, owning, leasing, in any manner having charge or control of any places or buildings open to the public as places or houses of public worship, amusement or instruction, shall at all times, during the hours to and occupied by the public, keep all doors affording ingress or egress to such buildings open and securely fastened back; unless such doors be so hung as to swing open outwardly, and have attached thereto no hook latch, lock or other fastening which may in anywise interfere with rapid ingress and egress, and all owners, lessees, or other persons in charge or control of any workshop or factory in which thirty or more persons are employed, shall have the doors thereof arranged in the same manner, and in addition thereto, to every factory and workshop, two or more stories high, there shall be securely fastened to the walls of such factory or workshop buildings iron ladders, running by each window from the highest floor in which employees are engaged to the ground, and so arranged that in case of fire the ground can be easily and readily reached by those employees working or in any manner engaged on the second and higher floors of such factory or workshop. It also makes any violation of the act or neglect to comply with its provisions within ninety days after its approval by the governor, or at any time thereafter, a misdemeanor, and any person or corporation convicted thereof is made liable to a fine not exceeding $2,000. one half of which goes to the informer and one half to the guardians of the poor in the district or county in which such conviction may be had.

She is growing old in years, but is none the less esteemed. For forty years, she has been an exemplary Christian; a kind neighbor; charitable almost beyond her means; a sister to the women of her own years and an Aunt to the rising generation. The rich and poor—heathen and christian—all feel the influence of Mary's magnetic presence. By honest toil and industry she supplies her raiment and by the sweat of her brow she eats her daily bread, and unmurmuringly and devoutly returns her humble but full-faithed and acceptable thanks to Him in whom she trusts. A Oriental traveler describes this busy scene, witnessed on Syrorie shores: "Our steamer landed on a beach which was the port of Antioch, where the disciples were first called Christians. There was no town at the water's edge, no people, no wharf. The passengers and the merchandise were put ashore in lighters, which ran up into sand. A troop of camels, with their drivers, lay on the beach ready to transfer the goods into the interior. Among the articles landed were boxes marked "DR. J. C. AYER & CO., LOWELL, Mass., U. S. A." showing that they contained medicines and whence they came. These with other goods were hoisted on the backs of camels for transportation to Antioch. Thus the skill of the West sends back its remedies to heal the maladies of populations that inhabit those eastern shores, whence our spiritual manna came."—(WINDSOR (VT.) CHRONICLE.

The following is an extract from a description of Vineland, published in the New York Tribune, by the well known Agriculturist, Solon Robinson:

All the farmers were of the "well to do" sort, and some of them, who have turned their attention to fruits and market gardening, have grown rich. The soil is loam, varying from sandy to clayey, and surface gently undulating, intersected with small streams and occasional wet meadows, in which deposits of peat or muck are stored, sufficient to fertilize the whole upland surface after it has been exhausted of its natural fertility.

It is certainly one of the most extensive fertile tracts, in an almost level position, and suitable condition of pleasant farming, that we know of this side of the Western prairies. We found some of the oldest farms apparently just as profitably productive as when first cleared of forest fifty or a hundred years ago.

The geologist will soon discover the cause of this continued fertility. The whole country is a marine deposit and all through the soil we found evidences of calcareous substances, generally in the form of indurated calcareous marl, showing many distinct forms of ancient shells of the tertiary formation; and this marly substance is scattered all through the soil, in a very comminuted form, and in the exact condition most easily assimilated by such plants as the former desires to cultivate.
