Whilst visiting the Centennial Exhibition, Vineland can be visited at small expense.

A paper containing full information will be sent upon application to CHARLES K. LANDIS, Vineland, N. J., free of cost.

The following is an extract from a description of Vineland, published in the New York Tribune, by the well known Agriculturist, Solon Robinson:

All the farmers were of the "well to do" sort and some of them, who have turned their attention to fruits and market gardening, have grown rich. The soil is loam, varying from sandy to clayey, and surface gently undulating, intersected with small streams and occasional wet meadows, in which deposits of peat or muck are stored, sufficient to fertilize the whole upland surface after it has been exhausted of its natural fertility.

It is certainly one of the most extensive fertile tracts, in an almost level position, and suitable condition for pleasant farming, that we know of this side of the Western prairies. We found some of the oldest farms apparently just as profitably productive as when first cleared of forest fifty or a hundred years ago.

The weight of evidence discovered as the cause of this continued fertility. The whole country is a marine deposit, and all through the soil we found evidences of calcareous substances, generally in the form of indurated calcareous marl showing many distinct forms of sea shell. Shells of the tertiary formations; and this nearly substance is scattered all through the soil, in a very comminuted form, and in the exact condition most easily assimilated by such plants as the former desires to cultivate Aug. 3, '76.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring Gray Hair to its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. Faded or gray hair is soon restored to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, falling hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed. But such as remain can be saved for usefulness by this application. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning gray or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich glossy lustre and a grateful perfume.

HAIR DRESSING,

The Camerons.

Hon. Simon Cameron, the veteran Senator from Pennsylvania, resigned his seat in the United States Senate, on Monday the 12th ult., after an almost continuous public service of forty years. When asked for the reasons that induced him to take this step, Senator Cameron replied: "I am 78 years old, and think I have been in public life long enough, and that I will never find a better time to retire. I am tired of the care and the worry of office, of having to turn away good people whom I would be glad to serve if I had the power, and of being annoyed by bad people seeking to make use of me. I am rich, and need not subject myself to all this trouble."

In an interview with President Hayes the retiring Senator avowed his hearty support of the President's administration, and to a correspondent he said that he had no objection to any member of the cabinet except Schurz, who sneered at his appointment to the war Department in 1861. He had voted for Mr. Sherman's confirmation, but—remembering that that gentleman had held back his name several days when he was appointed Minister to Russia, and had joined with others in securing immediate action upon the nomination of his successor in the War Department (Mr. Stanton), he had thought it no harm to make him wait a little. He felt no grudge against him, but only wanted to return a complement in kind.

Senator Cameron is the oldest member of the Senate, having completed on the 8th inst., his 78th year. His service in the body long antedates that of any other Senator, but has not been continuous. He was first elected in 1845 to serve out the unexpired term of James Buchanan, who resigned to go into President Polk's Cabinet as Secretary of State. It was not until sixteen years after that the Senator next longest in service—Messrs Howe and Hamlin—entered the chamber. Mr. Cameron was a Democrat during his first term, but had decided tendency against slavery. After four years in the Senate he returned to his business, not having been re-elected. He was one of the fathers of the Republican party, attending its first national convention and running as one of the Fremont electors in 1856. In 1857 he was again elected to the Senate, defeating John W. Forney, who was President Buchanan's candidate. At the Chicago Convention in 1860 he was one of the prominent candidates for Presidency, and might perhaps have been nominated if it had not been for the active, though secret hostility of Gov. Curtin. Mr. Cameron never forgave Governor Curtin for what he called an act of treachery. He resigned the Senatorship in 1861 to go into President Lincoln's Cabinet as Secretary of War, from which position he soon resigned to take the Russian mission. He remained only a short time abroad, and on returning resumed the control of his party in Pennsylvania, and was a third time elected to the Senate, taking his seat in 1867. In 1873 he was re-elected. Old as he is, the retiring Senator is still vigorous, physically and intellectually, and it would not be surprising if he should again appear in public life. He has lost nothing of his wonderful skill in politics, and its control of the republican party in Pennsylvania seems to be as absolute as ever

Jury Persuader

General Murphy, a member of the Chillicothe, Ohio, bar, 30 years ago, was one of the most noted advocates that rode the circuits of Ohio. He could weep profusely over the most hardened criminals, and shed quarts of real tears when the occasion demanded it. On one occasion Gen. Murphy was engaged to defend a noted horse thief in Ross county, while the State secured the services of Governor Allen. The usual routine was gone through with, and the prisoner's guilt was pretty clearly demonstrated, but Gen. Murphy relied upon working up the sympathies of the jury. His effort was unusually brilliant toward the close of his appeal, tears rolled down his face in torrents, while the jurors rubbed their eyes with their cuffs. All this while Allen set still and upright, glaring with frozen eyes upon Murphy. When the latter wound up with a final burst of eloquence and tears, which left the whole audience snuffling, Ohio's tall Governor that was to be, straightened himself to his fullest height, and pointing his long, bony finger at the jury, said: "Gentlemen, there is such a thing as blotting out justice with tears, and confounding judgment with much weeping. Gen. Murphy understands this better than any other living man. But before his tears work an ablution of the sins of the hardened criminal at the bar and cheats the State prison of its dues, I wish to show you the fountain from which these tears flow so copiously."

With one sweep of his long right arm he was down in General Murphy's coat pocket, and withdrew an immense onion, denuded of its outer covering, and holding it aloft before the eyes of the astonished jurors, he continued: "The ancient Egyptians worshipped the onion because it was typical of the celestial sphere. Here in Ohio we have good reason to curse it, because in General Murphy's pocket it has so often cheated the gallows and the prisoners of their dues."

The prisoner was convicted, and Gen. Murphy never rubbed his handkerchief on a peeled onion again when Old Bill had the other side of the case.

At Kintersville, Bucks county, a large rock fell two hundred feet down a mountain and knocked in the side of a house, terribly scaring the people. A large chimney received the force of the blow and saved the building.

Is Your Hair Falling Out

OR TURNING GRAY!

If So Do Not Fail To Use

LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER.

The Great Reputation

Which it has attained and the large number of testimonials which are constantly being received are conclusive proof of its great value.

Proof Positive—A New Suit of Hair, Natural Color and Beauty Restored.

Dr. Swayne & Son—Some six years ago, I began to loose my hair, and continued to do so until the scalp became as bare as the palm of my hand, troubled also with a disagreeable itching fever, great heat and dandruff, small pustules would form, quite sore to the touch, and the remaining portion of the hair, on the side and back of the head, became quite gray. After using a number of Restoratives, (so called), without success, and my head nearly destitute of hair, I reluctantly commenced using the

"London Hair Color Restorer and Dressing."

Now, through its use, candor and justice compel me to say to all that I now possess a new and beautiful growth of hair, completely restored to its original dark and glossy appearance, and I venture the assertion, the world furnishes no preparation equal to this; and I do conscientiously say to all who are gray or bald, hair dry and harsh or falling, to use at once this cleanly and delightfully perfumed article.

ISAAC N. MARSHAL,

Gunner, U. S. N., 820 Leonard street, Phila.

Dr. Dalton of Philadelphia, says of it: The London Hair Color Restorer is used very extensively among my patients and friends, as well as by myself; I therefore speak from experience.
