Only Remedy for Hard Times.

Change Your Surroundings.

All sending FIRST PREMIUM, specially adapted to every section of the West, showing its unparalleled success and record, GIVE PROFIT. The land is also adapted to the growth of Peaches, Pears, Apples and small fruits; also, Grain, Grass and Vegetables.

Many localities of excellent VINEYARD, OTTAWA Sand PRAIRIE can now be had.

THE LOCATION is only 70 miles south of Philadelphia, by Railroad, in a mild, delightful climate, and at the very doors of the New York and Philadelphia markets. Another Railroad runs direct to New York.

THE PLACE is already large, Successful and Prosperous. Churches, Schools and other privileges are steadily established. Also, manufactories of Boots, Clothing, Glass, Screw Gears and other things, at which different members of a family can acquire employment.

It has been a HEALTHY RESORT for some years past for people suffering from pulmonary affections, Asthma, Catarrh, Ague, and debility; many thousands have entirely recovered.

A new Brick Hotel has just been completed, 100 feet front, with back buildings, four stories high, including French roof, and all the latest improvements for the accommodation of visitors.

Price of FARM LAND $5.00 per Acre, payable by installments, without interest or discount, in five years; a portion of which, if desired for immediate planting, can be had on time of one year.

Those who are dissatisfied with their present location can dispose of their property to advantage, and obtain employment in this vicinity.

Five Acres One Acre, and Town Lots in the town of Louisville and Vineland, also for sale.

Visit us during the Centennial Exhibition, Vineland can be reached at small expense.

A paper containing full information will be sent upon application to Charles K. Landis, Vineland, N. J., free of cost.

The following is an extract from a description of Vineland, published in the New York Tribune, by the well-known Agriculturist, Solon Robinson:

All the farmers were of the small to 40 acre, and some of them, who have moved their families to fruits and interest get rich. The soil is loam, varying from sandy clay, and unless gently undulating, interspersed with small streams and occasional meadows, in which deposits of peat or muck are stored, sufficient to fertilize the whole upland surface after it has been exhausted of its natural fertility.

It is certainly one of the most attractive little towns, in an almost level position, and unbroken condition of pleasant farming, that we have seen on this side of the Western prairies—and one of the most likely to reward the settler for comfortable productive homes with moderate labor.

The good district school-houses, the cause of this continued fertility. The six Reasons for a warm climate, and all the things that will be found necessary for the comfort and enjoyment of life, are fully explained in our pamphlet, which will be sent free to any address. Also, a copy of the Vineland Weekly Independent, and an Illustrated pamphlet giving details of the Centennial Exhibition, which every settler should visit.

THIS standard article is compounded with the greatest care.

Its effects are as wonderful and as satisfactory as ever.

It restores gray or faded hair to its youthful color.

It removes all eruptions, itching and dandruff. It gives the head a cooling, soothing sensation of great comfort, and the scalp by its use becomes white and clean.

By its tonic properties it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, preventing baldness, and making the hair grow thick and strong.

As a dressing, nothing has been found so effectual or desirable.

A. A. Hayes, M. D., State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

Price, One Dollar.

Buckingham's Dye

FOR THE WHISKERS.

This elegant preparation may be relied on to change the color of the beard from gray or any other undesirable shade, to brown or black, at discretion. It is easily applied, being in one preparation, and quickly and effectually produces a permanent color, which will neither rub nor wash off.

A Bit of Washington's Strategy.

In the month of July, 1777, the American army was at Mill Rebrook, N. J. General Howe, with the main body of the British army, held New York, and it was known that Burgoyne was coming down the Hudson with a heavy force. An English fleet lay in New York bay, and toward the middle of the month (July) it was reported to Washington that an unusual movement was being made on the water. He was uneasy. It was a critical period. A certain movement he much desired to make, and in order to make it successful not only must the utmost secrecy be preserved, but, if possible, the attention of the enemy must be drawn in another direction. Finally, he prepared a dispatch of seemingly great importance, directed it to General Israel Putman, which he proposed to forward by an honest Vermont soldier. The soldier was directed to don the garb of a common farm laborer, and to then report at the headquarters of the Commander-in-Chief, which he did—Admitted to Washington's presence, he was directed to take off one of his heavy shoes. A shoemaker was present with his kit of tools, who took the shoe in hand, and very soon had the despatch pegged up between the soles.

When the soldier, who had witnessed the operation, had put on the shoe again, Washington told him what he was to do. He was simply to deliver that shoe to General Putman at a certain cantonment between Princetown and the Hudson, and he was to make his way through the Ramapo Pass.

"But, General," cried the man in amaze, "I can reach General Putman just as quickly by another route.—Think of the Cow Boys and the Tories in that pass. I shall surely be captured."

"My good man," said the Commander-in-Chief, betraying not a particle of anger, "I do not require you to think. But simply to get and obey. If you fear to go by that route I will send another in your place. I know the danger."

"No, General, I will go."

And the man went; and he was captured, as Washington had known he must be; and the enemy, feeling on the alert, found the despatch, for the lining place between the soles of the shoe was placed—for it was the sender hoped it would be found, and the contents of that despatch led General Howe up a false trail long enough to enable General Washington to accomplish the purpose he had in view.

A Sensible Mother.

It is really pitiful to see a good sweet little mother resolutely shutting herself away from so much that is best and sweetest in her children's lives, for the sake of tucking their dresses and ruffling their curls. How surprised and grieved she will be to find that her boys and girls, as sisters regard mother, would pass an afternoon in the [illegible] with her, [illegible] to make new dresses, and not [illegible] to go [illegible] Yet, before [illegible] one sundered link of it by [illegible] [illegible] Rewards [illegible] to listen to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] natural [illegible] [illegible] with all their surprises and pleasures, and [illegible] their own [illegible] all their little plans, how pleased they are! Such a shout of delight as I heard last summer from Mrs. Priestly's croquet ground, where her two little girls were playing! "Oh, goody, goody, mamma is coming to play with us!" She was a busy mother, too, and I know would have much preferred to use what few moments of recreation she could snatch, for something more interesting than playing croquet with little children, not much taller than their mallets. She has often to me, "I cannot let my children grow away from me. I must keep right along with them all the time, and whether it is croquet with the little ones, or Latin grammar and base-ball with the boys or French dictation and such ribbons with the girls, I must be 'in it' as far as I can."—From Letters to a Young Mother; Scribner for March.

ABOUT TO MARRY.—There is no rule which philosophers can devise for choosing either husbands or wives wisely that has very much effect, for the young do not trust the old upon the subject, and choice, for women especially, is by no means so free as we all affect to believe. Not one woman in fifty, unless she is for some reason—such as a fortune rank, or beauty—a great 'catch' has anything like a real power of selection among admirers; and even when she has, she often gives it away in obedience to a passing, possibly sensible, possibly bewildering fancy that she can't analyze. But we should have said there were two broad rules still worth teaching, because they had some chance of being believed, and they were these: 1st the woman's first requisite in a man's first object to be a woman who can make home restful. It is no man with many interests, with engrossing occupation, with plenty of people to fight, with a struggle to maintain against the world, who is the really domestic man in the wife's sense who enjoys home, who is tempted to make a friend of his wife, who loves children's prattles, who feels in the small circle where nobody misapprehends him, as if he were in a heaven of ease and reprieve.

Punctuation was first used in literature in 1520. Before that time words and sentences were put together like this.

EXTRACTS FROM LETTERS.

Dr. Swayne & Son:—Gentlemen—The box of Ointment you sent me did me more good than $100 I have paid for Doctor's medicine. I feel as though I could write a book for you, but I will not take up your time. Send me another box, for a friend of mine.

ANDREW J. REACH,

Farmwell Station, Loudon Co., Va.

Rev. Isaac Sullivan,

Webster Turnpike Co., W. Va.

Webster, Nov. 20th, 1874.—I have been a great sufferer from itching piles. I procured a box of your Ointment last March, which gave me immediate relief, and I feel confident it will effect a permanent cure. I have recommended it to others who have used it with the same success. Please send me another box by mail.

Is Your Hair Falling Out OR TURNING GRAY!

If So Do Not Fail To Use

LONDON HAIR COLOR RESTORER.

The Great Reputation

which it has attained and the large number of testimonials which are constantly being received are conclusive proof of its great value.

Proof Positive—A New Suit of Hair, Natural Color and Beauty Restored.

D. Swayne & Son—Some six years ago, I began to lose my hair, and continued to do so so much the scalp became as bare as the palm of my hand, [illegible] with a disagreeable itching [illegible], great heat and dandruff, small pustules [illegible], quite sore to the touch, and the remaining portion of the hair, on the side and back of the head, became quite gray. After using a [illegible] (so called), without success, and my head nearly destitute of hair, I reluctantly commenced using the

"London Hair Color Restorer and Dressing."

Now, through its use, candor and justice compel me to say to all that I now possess a new and beautiful growth of hair, completely restored to its original dark and glossy appearance, and I venture the assertion, the world furnishes no preparation equal to this; and I do conscientiously recommend it to all who are gray or bald, bald or gray and bar [illegible] falling, [illegible] at once this already and delightfully perfumed article.

ISAAC N. MARSHALL,

Gunner, U. S. N., 820 Leopard street, Phila. pa., Dalton of Philadelphia, says of it: The London Hair Color Restorer is used very extensively among my patients and friends, as well as by myself; I therefore speak from experience.
