Candidate Cards.

SELINSGROVE, May 28th. 1877.

ED. POST.—Please announce my name as a candidate for the office of ASSOCIATE JUDGE subject to the decision of the Republican Primary election. Respectfully &c.

J. A. LUMBARD.

An early wheat harvest is anticipated.

Wild Turkeys are not found east of Pennsylvania.

An old farmer tells us that the hay crop this season promises to be a large one.

The passenger agencies at Benfer and Kramer, on the S. & L. R. R., will be closed after June 1st.

Bustles are not worn any more, and there is now some chance for a man to find the latest newspaper.

We learn from a trustworthy source that last Thursday there was a snow storm along Jacks mountain in Adams township.

And now we have the old story repeated and enlarged—that potato bugs are poisonous. We boldly assert that they are no more so than any other bug or creeping thing.

Last Thursday and Friday we had very cold weather for this time of the year, and early vegetation, and the fruit crops, were in danger of being frozen, and no doubt were injured but to what extent remains to be seen.

Clothing.

As we are determined to reduce our present stock of clothing, we will sell it regardless of cost. Now is the time to secure bargains at Wagenseller & Son's.

David Kern, an old citizen of Perry county, had not been in Newport since he was 11 years old, which was 58 years ago. He was much surprised at the change that had been made since, when he made a visit to said town last week.

—The wool agency which Mr. A. E. Scholl represents, was established in 1860, and retains his first patrons names as his best customers. This shows very conclusively that Mr. Scholl does business in a remarkable satisfactory manner.

A stroll through the country at this season of the year is highly enjoyable. Vegetation, just at this time, presents a beautiful aspect, the most beautiful indeed, in the whole year. The trees are clothed in their suits of green, and many adorned with their fragrant blossoms filling the air with thousands of odors.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the S. & N. B. R. R. held at McAlisterville, J. B. Wilson, E. B. McCrum, J. W. Gangler and Miles Wetzel were appointed a Committee to audit and report the financial condition of the Board. This committee is to go from place to place along the entire road.

CATERPILLARS.—Now is the time to cremate caterpillars, before they leave the nest to deposit eggs for the second crop.—An old shot gun is the best thing to exterminte them with. A small load of powder will blow a whole nest of them out of existence so quick they won't know what has happened. If not attended to soon these nasty pests will be raining down from trees during the next month or two, covering side-walks, porches, doors, and rolling their fuzzy tide into houses, sitting rooms, beds and over everything.—Go for the caterpillars.

Centennial year is good enough to talk about, but the substantials you stand in need of can be obtained at our place of business.

Wagenseller & Son.

BE NEAT.—Young ladies, if they only knew how disgusting to men slovenliness is, and how attractive are displays of neatness and taste, would array themselves in the simplicity and cleanliness of the lillies of the field; or, if able to indulge in costly attire, they would study the harmonious blending of colors which nature exhibits in all her works. A girl of good taste and habits of neatness, can make a more fascinating toilet with a six cent calico dress, a few cheap ribbons and laces, and such ornaments as she can gather from the garden, than a vulgar, tawdry creature who is worth thousands, and has the jewelry and wardrobe of a princess.—Ex.

Mr. John Bilger the ticket agent at this place several weeks ago set a hen for incubation. Upon entering his stable a few days ago and intolerable stench greeted him. He made a search, to discover the cause, and found the hen above alluded to, in such a state of decomposition, that vermin had already entered the body. Taking a fork to remove the body he found seven healthy, little chicks, which are still living, under the body of the dead hen. From certain circumstances Mr. Bilger is of the opinion that the hen died after one weeks incubation and that she was dead ten days at least before she was discovered. Strange.

Quick sales and small profits is an old motto, but we find that it is good, for it tells the public that we are offering bargains which are unequalled in the county. Wagenseller & Son.

The committee of the Legislature who personally inspected the fishway at Columbia are unanimously of opinion that that contrivance is an utter failure. They do not believe that a shad has ever passed through it, or ever can, and they will so report. For years the commissioners have pretended that the fishway was a success, and have made it the basis of fresh appropriations. The abandonment of the fishway will enable the Legislature to adopt some practical plan for opening the river for the passage of shad. By cooperating with the officials of the Reading Company who own the dam there is little doubt that something can be done this season to procure sluices or fishways. If the company do not choose to repair the dam the fishway is already provided. If they do mend the break it may be done in such a way as to afford passage for the shad by the exercise of engineering skill. The Reading Railroad Company will find it to their interest to second the wishes of people in the important matter. The Susquehanna river must be opened.—[Patriot.

Fruit trees are just now in the height of their glory. The prospects for fruit seems good, although their is not generally so great a profusion of all kinds of blossoms as their was last year.

ADULTERATED FLOUR.—The Hollidaysburg STANDARD says that some of the millers of that county are in the habit of adulterating their flour in the following manner: They purchase white corn, which of course, they get for less than half the cost of wheat. This is a cheap swindle, but a very mean one and the miller who will allow his avarice to overcome his honesty in this way ought to loose the patronage of every one of his customers. And all honest millers will make common cause in exposing such a miserable cheat and swindler.

HORRIBLE DEATH.—On Thursday afternoon a week, says a Newville correspondent of the Harrisburg Telegraph, Josiah Dobbs, a lime-burner met with a horrible death, at his kiln, three miles west of that place. It was a draw kiln, but becoming choked it would not settle. He stepped upon the stone above, to force them down, when he suddenly sank into the heated mass to his waist, and was literally roasted to death, all efforts by three men to relieve him proving without avail. He leaves a wife and two children.

—We are authorized to inform our readers that Mr. A. E. Scholl will soon commence traveling the county for wool, for which he will pay the highest market price in cash or in goods. The goods, and the manner he does business is well known, and needs no recommendation from us. Farmers looking to their interest will hold their wool for Mr. Scholl. Farmers, in the county, not heretofore called on by Mr. Scholl, by dropping a postal card in the office addressed to him at Middleburg, will receive prompt attention.

Obituary:

It becomes our painful duty to chronicle the sudden and unexpected death of ANDREW J. PETERS, who died at his late residence in Franklin township on the evening of May 25th 1877 from appoplexy. On the afternoon of the day of his death MR. PETERS accompanied his son to the farm of Mr. Morris Erdly to plant some potatoes. He was stooping over, to cut the potatoes, when he fell to the ground insensible. He was removed to his late home where he survived for a few hours.

MR. PETERS was widely and favorably known. He served one term as Register & Recorder, and for twelve or fifteen years was the trusted and respected clerk to the County Commissioners. He was always kind and obliging, a good neighbor, an examplary christian gentleman, a loving father and a devoted husband. He leaves a wife and a large family, for whom we have the greatest sympathy. Aged 57 years, 6 months and 24 days.

Ladies and all others in need of Dry Goods, Notions and other goods will do well to call on us for bargans.

Wagenseller & Son.

SPRING FEVER.—The prevailing epidemic at this season of the year is billiousness, and almost everyone we meet has had a touch of it or is now grumbling and grunting under one of its attacks. Especially are those affected whose business is of a sedentary nature—who work with their brains and give their muscles little exercise—who sit in ill ventilated offices, and sleep in close chambers, and indulge their appetites to excess. The head has a "thick" feeling, then an oppressive fullness, then aches, then the appetite goes and general miserableness assails the whole system. Work is a dread, and the bare idea of an exertion is a horror. The cause of this is a change of temperature without a corresponding change of food and habits. The oleaginous, cold weather diet, won't do for spring. Fats must be exchanged for acids or the circulation of the animal fluids becomes choked and clogged and slow fever is the result.

Then, as the weather warms, insensible perspiration becomes sensible, and the pores of the body, becoming gummed up, as it were, need more frequent relief, hence daily baths become necessary to good health. A swig or two of an acidulated drink each day is one of the best correctives of a bilious habit, a wine glass of hard cider, or very sour wine, or the juice of a lemon reduced by a gill of water. Could we change our diets with the seasons, none of this spring fever would afflict, but such being impossible or rather, impracticable, we must use correctives or suffer. The Esquimaux can bolt their blubber the year around, and the plantation darkey needs only his hominy and rice, for their climate is not markedly variable, but we of the temperate zone must vary our diet to suit the climate or suffer the effects of a disobedience of nature's requirements. Spring fever is not a result of the change in the climate so much as of our negligence to change our diet, as the seasons change, from those articles of food which create warmth and bar out cold, to those which shall correct the sluggard fluids and relive the system of its winter's accumulations.

Language vs Grammar.

"A distinguished trait of the Cincinnati schools is the prominence that language culture occupies in their course of study. In arranging this course, the truth has been prominently borne in mind that correct eXpression is not only valuable in itself, but has a powerful reflex influence in promoting correct thinking.

"Having long felt that technical grammar, as usually taught, is of little practical value, the committee on course of study set to work resolutely, some three or four years ago, to bring about an entire revolution in the method of teaching grammar. Instead of reserving grammar as a study for the highest grades, a course was constructed, to begin with the child's first day in school, and keep his company through every grade until he reaches the high school; where it is expected that rhetoric and the critical study of some of the best English classics will finish the solid and symmetrical structure.

"The teacher is not to aim at a recitation of grammatical rules and definitions, but at a ready and correct use of the language itself, the latter alone having a real and practical value in the future career of the scholar. To this end more technicalities are to be avoided as far as practicable, but when used to be thoroughly explained in terms to be readily comprehended by children. ALL TEXT-BOOKS ARE EXCLUDED FROM THE DISTRICT SCHOOLS, and an elaborate syllabus was prepared for the use of teachers. This plan has been thoroughly tried and its success had been all that could have been expected. The knowledge gained by pupils through its working has been no heap of dry grammatical compost, but knowledge which has rendered them more familiar with the use of language in a practical way, and which is also leading them gradually up to an appreciation of the beauty and power of the highest expression of thought.

"In the primary schools, object-lessons form the basis of instruction, the child acquiring the habit of ready and correct expression as he acquires the habit of observation."—Cincinnati Course of Study.

The foregoing (taken from the N. Y. School Journal) shows the course pursued in one of the leading educational cities in the country, to teach the children of the public schools to speak and to write the English language correctly. It will be seen, too, by those informed on the subject, that it is substantially the same as that pursued by the teachers of Snyder county.

—S. Weis, Selinsgrove, has again returned a few days ago from the Eastern cities with a large stock of Notions, Fancy and Dry Goods. We would advise our lady friends to call opposite the Keystone Hotel, Selinsgrove, where they will find the largest stock of fancy goods ever brought to this county and at prices that cannot be beat.

SUPERIORITY OF THE CHAMPION.

The undoubted excellence of the Champion over all other machines, is in the material, workmanship, simplicity and durability of construction, Lightness of Draft, convenience of handling, Durability of machine, and finally a machine that harvests all crops raised by a farmer successfully. It will cut lodged and tangled Grain. Clover Seed and Flax can be successfully harvested with this machine.

In a few minutes the Reaping Attachment can be removed and the machine made ready for the meadow.

All we ask is to give the Champion a fair trial, and if it does not give entire satisfaction in every particular, we do not ask you to buy. For further particulars call on or address,
