Chicken cholera is committing its ravages among the poultry in different parts of the country.

Out-worms are annoying the farmers before they have got rid of the potato bugs. But the tillers of the soil are always ready for emergencies.

Farmers should have their names printed on their gates. This would be a great help to collectors and others having business with them.

In our Kansas letter last week in the second paragraph, we made an error, the letter reads, "after riding thirty-six hours &c." should read sixty-six hours.

Catching frogs is now a favorite amusement with many of our fishermen. The legs of the frog make a palatable dish, relished by all who are judges of good living.

Lightning rod peddlers in the neighborhood. Be ye on the alert, for though there be some honorable men connected with that business, the rascally ones largely predominate.

Clothing. As we are determined to reduce our present stock of clothing, we will sell it regardless of cost. Now is the time to secure bargains at

Auctioneer.—George H. Hackenburgh, of Middlecreek, P. O., would announce to the people of Snyder county, that he will cry sales for real and personal property, at short notice and on the most reasonable terms. He guarantees satisfaction. [Mar. 15, 77.]

A friend says he stepped into a millinery shop the other day on business, and accidentally sat down on a bonnet that some one had laid on the chair.

He remained there until no one was looking in his direction, and then quietly got up and stepped on and off a rope about the horns of a cow, then stepped the other end around his own body and commenced "playing circus."

The animal soon tired of the sport, ran off, dragged the boy out of the field, along a lane, through the barnyard, out again over the rough road up into the yard, when his perilous condition was discovered by his father and brother, who headed off the almost crazed cow and on turning she wrapped the rope around a tree, putting an effectual stop to her mad career.

The little fellow was unconscious from the rope and was found to have his collar bone fractured and shoulder dislocated, and the skin entirely scraped off one side of his face.

How he Played Circus.—A boy in Cumberland county fastened on and a rope about the horns of a cow, then stepped the other end around his own body and commenced "playing circus."

The animal soon tired of the sport, ran off, dragged the boy out of the field, along a lane, through the barnyard, out again over the rough road up into the yard, when his perilous condition was discovered by his father and brother, who headed off the almost crazed cow and on turning she wrapped the rope around a tree, putting an effectual stop to her mad career.

It was however speedily ascertained that the horse was killed, and the animal cut at a place, this plan was executed in 10 minutes it was found that the horse was dead, and a few minutes

WARN THEM OFF.—At this season of the year the patent-right operator takes the road to annoy the farming public by his persistent importuning to sell them worthless patent-rights, and not unfrequently swindle them out of large sums of money by inducing them to sign their signatures to what purports to be a contract, but which in reality is a negotiable note. The best thing a farmer can do when one of these sharks comes round is to order him off the premises, and then to see that the order is obeyed.—Ez.

Letter from Ohio. BELLEVILLE, O., June 24, 1877. Editor Post:—Dear Sir: Five years ago we sold out and left our native, good old Beaver township and wended our way to Ohio, leaving our friends and associations with many regrets. It has long been our intention to write you, but our inexperience in communicating with a public journal restrained our pen. We were located in York township, in the fertile and beautiful county of Sandusky for one year. All went well until July 4th when the destroying angel visited us and within nine days we consigned two of our children to their last resting place on earth forever.

We now reside in Erie county. Hard times do not seem to be the cause, but look well—grass not so good on account of dry weather—potato bugs still in abundance and climb the vines without ladder. Druggists are doing a profitable business in Paris Green. We send greeting to our best wishes to the numerous friends and all the good people of Snyder. The Post is a welcome visitor.

WHAT TO DO WITH HATE IN CHURCH.—A gentleman who knows "all about it" who "has been there," and who has suffered with his fellow citizens on more than one occasion, thus gives his experience of the care of hate in places of public worship:

It is not high if you please, but really difficult, disposition of one's hat in church, is a serious one. The extreme danger of placing it in the aisle immediately outside of the pew is its immediate removal. The first lady that sweeps up the aisle carries with her a confused mass of defenses hat.

The pew seat is hardly more safe. Statistics show that out of every one hundred hats that are lost, 75 are lost upon by their owners, thirty-five are lost upon by other people, and only five escape uninjured. And as to putting one's hat on the floor underneath the seat, no man who follows this reckless course can expect anything but disaster. If there is a small boy in the pew he will infallibly discover that hat and kick it to the furthest end of the pew within the first thirty minutes of the service. If there is a lady in the pew a surgical operation will be required to remove her boot from the interior of the hat, while in any event the hat is certain to absorb every particle of dust within a radius of eight feet. Neither of these is the worst nor in the aisle, can the worried father find. What, then, can we do with it?

TO BE LOVED.—There is nothing so sweet as to be loved, except loving. The truly pure love which is not a thing of the senses, but of the soul, love that is the out-growth of goodness—what will not one do to win or keep such tenderness? What will not one risk, or dare, or forsake for it? Is any journey long that has a love-kiss at the end of it—any duty hard that cements the bonds between two hearts? To be truly loved is the greatest reward life has to offer. And any one who has a heart and does not mind showing it, who can put aside selfishness and be true to others, can win love. To have people temporarily in love with you needs only beauty.

To be beloved, one must have truth, tenderness, constancy, and responsiveness. Be good, and despite all that is said of this world's ingratitude, someone will love you.

There is a deep meaning in the Apostle's words—"We love Him because He first loved us;" for it is the tendency of love to bestow love; and if any truth could be its own proper influence originate spiritual life in a soul, it would be the truth, so often repeated in the New Testament that Christ suffered for our sins, the just for the unjust, to bring us to God; for this truth presents the highest instance, the crowning manifestation of divine love to men.—Ez.
