Meeting of the Republican State Convention.

HEADQUARTERS REPUBLICAN STATE COMMITTEE, HARRISBURG, July 12th, 1877.—By direction of the Republican State Committee, the Republican State Convention heretofore called to meet at Harrisburg on the 29th day of August next, is hereby postponed, to meet at Harrisburg, at noon, on Wednesday, September 5 1877. This postponement is made at the request of a large number of delegates elect, who have engagements to be present at a triennial conclave of Knights Templars which assembles at Cleveland, Ohio, on the 5th day of August next.

By order of the Committee.

HENRY M. HOYT, Chairman.
A. WILSON NORRIS, Secretary.

THE Susquehanna river is a foot lower at present than it has been any time since 1803.

10,000 men are wanted in Lancaster county to gather the corn an tobacco crops.

THERE are now about 1000 U. S. regular soldiers stationed in the coal region, this State.

MISSISSIPPI and Louisiana are anxious to draw thither forty or fifty thousand of the unemployed laborers of the North.

The attorneys of Northumberland county have signed a petition asking the legislature to create an additional judge in that county.

SENATOR Morton, of Indiana, was recently stricken with paralysis. He has been lying in a serious condition at his home, but it is thought he will recover.

NEW YORK sends a colored cadet to West Point. He was appointed by a Democratic Congressman after a competitive examination. Very creditable to the Congressman, but [illegible] for his future prospects.

Brigham Young died in Lion House, Salt Lake City, U. T., at 4 o'clock on the morning of the 29th ult., aged 76 years. The chief excitement over his death is among the highest priesthood who are in the line of his successorship.

John Gotwalts, aged 89 years, residing at Oaks Station, Montgomery county, hung himself on Sunday, by tying a handkerchief to the back of a chair, putting his head in the noose, and bearing his weight upon it. He was feeble-minded. He lived with his son, Rev. Jacob Gotwalts, a Dunkard preacher.

THE imperial government of China has issued an edict against the sale of opium, declaring its use was bringing destruction upon the Chinese people. In addition to the home production, opium is imported into China to the annual value of over $40,000,000 principally from British India.

A few days ago Henry Fisher, of Mercer county was murdered while lying in bed, a shot fired from the outside taking effect in his head. While returning from the funeral the wife of the murdered man and a son, the latter aged about sixteen years, were arrested for the crime. Mr. Fisher was extensively known as a farmer and stock dealer, and had a family of eight or nine children.

A CHILD charmed by a black snake in Jefferson county fed the snake daily for over a week. The father discovered the snake coiled up in the child's lap and killed it, whereupon the little one went into spasms of grief and refused to eat food of any kind. She cried almost continually, except while asleep, and physicians state that she will live but a short time.—Knoxville [Tenn] Tribune.

ONE HALF a million of people have already perished by the famine in India, and the district over which the famine extends contains more than eighteen millions of inhabitants. The area comprises 139,911 square miles; and the great famine of 1873-4, which cost the India government over $30,000,000, was a trifle compared with the present one. The English government has witnessed eighteen famines since it gained a foothold in India.

THERE seems to be a scarcity of skilled labor in England at present Several mechanics, formerly of Indianapolis, who went to England this spring, have written to friends that work is plenty and wages good. Yesterday our dispatches noted the sailing of twenty-five carpenters who go to Manchester, under a three years' contract with a building firm there. The men say their wages will average three dollars and a half per day of eight hours.—Har. Tel.

Capital vs. Labor.

Is capital at war with labor? This question has for four years been rolled about by the glib tongues of political demagogues and reckless reformers, tenly remarks a cotemporary, both maintaining that labor was constantly oppressed by capital. But is it really true? It is as false as it is captivating and delusive to the laboring poor man, who has been led to think that he has been oppressed because he sees another in possession of more earthly goods than he himself has. Capital is not a natural product of nature's growth It is the accumulated representative of labor; or, in other words, the fruit of labor. Without labor there would be no capital, and those who would destroy capital would merely destroy the fruit or result of their own labor, for the production of which they have been paid. It is high time certain laboring people get rid of this false doctrine, which has been an invention of political trickaters to delude them and win their votes. In a free country, where one man has just as much personal and civil liberty as another, there can be no such thing as labor oppressed by capital. Like any other product in the market, the price of labor is varied by the relation between demand and supply. Whenever labor is more plenty than the demand for its use, then the competition between laborers themselves will bring down the price, just the same as the price of wheat falls and rises according to its plenteousness and the demand for it

Nor is it true, correctly speaking, that in this country we have the people divided off into different classes, such as capitalists and laborers. We are nearly all laborers. If we look about in the community we find that almost every man follows some occupation that involves labor. In the nature of things we cannot all have occupations alike; yet, varied as are our occupations, we are all engaged at labor of some sort; and even thousands of men who are wealthy, and could retire and live at ease, still continue to labor to the end of life and "die in the harness." Many poor men who are compelled to do the same in order to obtain the necessaries of life, mistakenly imagine that, because on their part labor is a necessity, they are oppressed; and they are only too ready to believe the first demagogue who comes along and tells them so. Labor is the common lot of all men, in a general sense, and its burdens will only be the more oppressive the more discontented we become with our lot. It is unwise, therefore, to add additional inbitterments to our daily toils, and to our very lives, by uselessly and falsely magnifying one of those necessary evils which we cannot escape in life—namely, Labor. Neither can labor oppress capital. But they can both [illegible]

All should remember these solid facts: Where there is no labor capital is dead and useless; and where there is no capital there is no labor but that necessary to procure the absolute necessities of life. Hence, instead of being antagonistic like heirs at law, they should harmonize in all their relations to each other like the peaceful, happy and contented members of a prosperous family. —Ex.

Letter from Ohio.

BELLEVUE, O., Aug. 31st, 1877.

ED. POST:—

The refreshing showers of last week revived drooping vegetation, and what is of great practical importance just now, put ground in splendid condition for seeding. Farmers out this way intend putting out large crops, encouraged as they have been by the abundant yield of the past season.

Pic-nic jollifications are the order of the day. The most interesting one of the season in this section of the country, occured Southwest of town near Phlat Rock on Thursday, Aug. 30th. The Reformed S. S. of Bellevue participating with the Phlat Rock Schools. All apparently enjoyed themselves to the utmost. The exercises closed about 2 P. M. when all departed with a quiet feeling of conscious happiness.

A Re-Union of the 23d O. V. I. (President Hayes' old regiment) is planned to take place in Fremont, O., Friday, Sept. 14th, 1877. It will no doubt prove a gala day for Fremont, if the weather is at all favorable, such as that city has never seen.

It will be a compliment to the gallant Twenty-third Regiment, and a lasting credit to the citiZens of Freement, to give them such a reception as they will always remember with pride and pleasure. The arrangements are being made and completed, and the city will undoubtly contain more visitors on that day than has ever been there before. Besides the President who will certainly be there, a number of prominent generals have signified their intention to be present, among whom are Generals Sherman, Sheridan, Crook and Carroll. A number of others have been invited, and most of them will undoubtedly make it convenient to be there on that occasion.

Burglaries, thefts, arsons, and general deviltry are becoming unpleasantly frequent all over the country. An entrance was affected into Brady & Weis' hardware store on Friday night of last week, and revolvers, cutlery, and plated ware carried off, to the value of $500. The job was done by some person or persons who knew or had familiariZed themselves with the premises. No clue has been obtained of the perpetrators, nor is any likely to be. Messrs Brady & Weis have offered a reward of $150 for the return of the goods or thieves, dead or alive

C. A. NEWCOMER.

EIGHT of the outlaws who broke jail at Rio Grande City, Texas, and released certain prisoners confined there, have been captured. Two of the eight were Texans, five Mexicans, and one of doubtful nationality. The Mexican general thinks he will get all of them. Camargo, the leader, is among the captives. This prompt work on the part of the Mexican commander shows that there is a disposition to carry out treaty stipulations and to put an end to the lawlessnes which is perennial along the line of the Rio Grande.

THE Superior Court of Chicago is called upon to decide whether Hayes was elected President or whether the man chosen is Tilden The case is Webster against Burton, and grows out of a rather heavy bet on the result of the election of last year. Webster wagered ten thousand dollars' worth of property in Tennessee on the election of Tilden, Burton staking property in Illinois of equal value on Hayes Deeds for both properties were made out and placed in the hands of a third party, to be delivered to Webster in the event of Tilden's election, or to Burton if Hayes were chosen. During the long controversy succeeding the election the deeds remained in the hands of the umpire, but after the inauguration they were delivered to the man who bet on Hayes. Web star now brings a suit in chancery, and asked for an injunction on Burton to restrain him from selling or incumbering the Tennessee property.

EVERYBODY seems curious to know what the soldiers get for their services. The army regulation book fixes the amounts as follows: Colonel, $194 per month; Lieutenant Colonel, $170; Major, $151; Captain, $118 50; First Lieutenant, $103 50; Second Lieutenant, $103-50; Adjutant, $114 50; Sergeant Major, $21; Quartermaster Sergeant, $21; First Sergeant, $20 Sergeant, $17; Commissary Sergeant $21; Corporal, $11; Private, $13.
