

Farm, Home, &c.

The testimony is strong in proof that from five to ten bushels more corn per acre can be grown by drilling in rows one way, than in hills on the old plan.

Molasses Cookies.—One cup of molasses, one cup of hot water, one and a half teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful of ginger. Mix the above soft and bake in a hot oven.

Have a place to put all the bones that accumulate about the farm. They are worth money, and can be readily dissolved by wood ashes and chamber lye or by muriatic acid.

In cases of caked udder in cows foment the affected part with hot water and rub with the hand several times a day. Proper feeding and a dry bed will as a rule, obviate the necessity of any treatment for this complaint.

It is the Lancaster Farmer that says rats can be got rid of by first catching a rat alive, poisoning carbolic acid over him and letting him loose again. His friends and relatives all take the hint and depart, worth a trial.

Potato Pie.—Boil or wash common or sweet potatoes and strain through a fine sieve to each pint add one and a half pints of milk a little melted butter, two eggs, salt, nutmeg to the taste; bake in one crust, like custard pie.

Garlic is a source of trouble to some dairymen. Let the cows out to pasture where this odorous plant grows for a half hour, just after milking; the milk or butter will not taste. In a week or two the garlic will have been eaten off, so that it will do no further harm.

To Keep Hams.—A. C. B. sends the following recipe for keeping hams: Take pork, salt and cut lay; pack the hams so that no two will touch each other. A peck of salt and the remainder of the packing of cut lay is sufficient for a barrel. Packed in this way, hams will keep all Summer.

Potatoes flourish well in heavily manured soil. The Peerless for profit in this locality; the Early Rose for the home table. The following is said to be a good formula for a fertilizer for this crop: Thirty pounds wood ashes, 30 pounds air-slacked lime, 20 pounds fine salt, 15 pounds bone dust, 15 pounds plaster; the whole to be thoroughly mixed. An ounce of this compound in each hill of potatoes will tell a good story at harvest time.

White gingerbread.—Rub half a pound of butter into one pound of flour, add half a pound of loaf sugar, which should be finely powdered and sifted, and the rind of one lemon very finely minced. One ounce of ground nutmeg and one ounce of mace, and one ounce of milk just warm, stir in half a teaspoonful of carbonate of soda, and work the whole into nice smooth paste roll it into cakes and bake in a moderate oven from fifteen to twenty minutes.

Stove Blacking.—The following recipe for imparting to stoves a fine black polish, which will neither burn off nor give out an offensive smell, will prove acceptable to some of our readers. Lampblack is mixed with water-glass (a solution of silicate of soda) to the consistency of syrup and applied with a brush as a thin and even coating, then left 24 hours to dry. Afterwards graphite, or black lead, mixed with gunwater, is applied, and a polish obtained by rubbing in the usual manner.

Coconut Pudding.—Break the shell of a moderately-sized coconut so as to leave the nut as whole as possible. Grate it after removing the brown skin; mix it with three ounces of lemon peel. Mix the whole with milk and put it into a tin lined with puff paste. Bake it a light brown. Grate a coconut, make a custard (two eggs to a pint of milk), sweeten to taste, add a small glass of brandy and a little nutmeg. Stir the coconut into this and a bit of butter the size of a hen's egg. Line a shallow dish with puff paste and bake a light brown.

Celery.—There is no garden crop which requires more tender and constant care than that of celery. From the time the plants are set in the trenches up to the time the rows get the final hilling up and dressing, there is something to be done to insure a first class crop. The man who undertakes to raise celery in a haphazard way, looking at it once in a while, pulling out a few weeds hoeing a little and watering a little, had better abandon the attempt altogether, for he never will obtain snaks of celery, but only stubs quite unfit for the table.

The Lawn.—The house should not be hidden among trees so that the sunshine and landscape are shut out, but a cluster of pines here and there, and scattered horse chestnuts, oaks, and maples in every direct give a charm to man of taste—orchard—appreciates, well invested in thousands of dollars in every farm house, trees take especial form.
