To our Patrons.

E B. TAYLOR, Superintendent.

With this issue the Post enters upon the six-teenth year of its existence. It has been eleven years under the present editorial management, and we hope the pleasant relations that have always existed between the publisher sire to publish any thing that would or could offend. Articles have sometimes, in the past, gained addmission to our columns, which by reason of other duties occupying our mind and time, we were unable to examine, or they would have been excluded. We trust no such errors will be made in the future, for we have always carefully guarded against the publication of anything personal and vituperative in its nature. To the business men of the county we extend our thanks for the very liberal share of advertising with which they have favored us. To our subscribers we are grateful for be true to the Republican party and its principle. To the public geneto effect such improvements in the office of the Post as to admit of an enlarged form, and thus give more space for reading matter as well as for a better display of advertisements.

Thankful for past patronage and hoping for a continuance of the public favor, we doff our hats.

Pleasent Weather. Fish-worms are ripe Bring out your chip hats. And now it is rhubarb pic The country looks beautiful. Spring chickens are budding.
