

The Post. Middleburg, Sept. 12, 1878. J. CROUSE, Editor & Proprietor. Rooms of Republican State Committee, N. E. Corner Tenth and Chestnut Streets, PHILADELPHIA, PA.

REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET. FOR GOVERNOR, COL. HENRY M. HOYT, of Luzerne County. FOR LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR, GEN. CHARLES W. STONE, of Venango County. FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT, JAMES P. STERRETT, of Allegheny County. SECRETARY OF INTERNAL AFFAIRS, AARON K. DUNKLE, of Philadelphia. Snyder County Republican Ticket. Congress, Hon. H. G. FISHER, of Huntingdon. Senate, Dr. A. M. SMITH, of Adamsburg. Assembly, Hon. CHARLES MILLER, of Penn. Associate Judge, SAMUEL M. YODER, of Middlebrook. Sheriff, DANIEL BOLENDER, of Middleburg. Treasurer, ROBERT SMITH, of Adams. Professing to be an honest man, the candidate of an honest organization. I favor honest money. The volume of the currency should be regulated by legitimate demand, and not by the requirements of bankrupts and wild speculators. The currency should be redeemable as early as the exigencies of the Government will permit, in the currency recognized by all civilized nations. The contracts of the Government should be held as sacred as the contracts of individuals, and the bonds, the evidence of its indebtedness, should be paid according to the understanding between the Government and the lender.—Speech at Butler, Sept. 2, 1878.

The public debt statement for August shows a decrease of $6,475,594. Northern war claim—'We whip them.' Suters war claim—$350,000,000 against the North for whipping us. Ex-Governor Andrew G. Curtin is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress in the Centre, Union Congressional district.

Some people are complaining because Lect, the Potter witness, is confined in a lunatic asylum, while the Committee itself is allowed to run around loose. Senator Fisher's nomination gives great satisfaction in every county in the district. He is deservedly popular wherever known, and will be elected by a rousing majority.

Kearney was received very coolly at Cincinnati and St. Louis, the workmen of those cities having displayed commendable judgment and discretion in their treatment of the distant demagogue.

The Harrisburg Telegraph makes a good point in the statement that "not a dollar of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania was ever assisted or manipulated by any Republican at the head of the State Treasury." And it is true as preaching.

The last assembly brought to light the over-issue of $100,000 bonds during the Administration of State Treasurer Rickard in 1868, who was a Democrat of the straightest sect, and whose head has mysteriously disappeared.

For The Post. OUR PARIS LETTER. Trocadero, the Artists paradise—Champ de Mars, the school of practical education and knowledge—Hon the golden threads are spun—Fashionable doll babies—Inorine—Glass blowing, &c. &c. From our regular correspondent. HOTEL DE LOUVRE, Paris, Aug 23rd, '78.

Visitors apparently prefer the Champ de Mars to the Trocadero; at the commencement, the opposite taste was evident. People soon tired of architecture, and the Trocadero has a few popular exhibits infinite in their variety. It is the intellectual moiety of the Palace—less the "elevator." Its various halls devoted to retrospective art, corresponding to so many epochs or ages, rivet the attention even of the ordinarily indifferent. The masses commence to take in, that our ancestors had to work their way to civilization and that all those morsels of flint roughly hewn or polished, typically represent human progress, as accurately as Shakespeare's seven ages, does the life of man. The collection of retrospective objects form the museum of Bordeaux is most instructive, and some of the antique jewelry might set ladies to reflect on the clauses of the Decalogue touching covetousness.

The Process Gallery is not only one of the Exhibitions most curious features, but it is of importance in the influence it may have in giving technical education to the world in certain minute but lucrative branches of industry, which have hitherto been, in their most successful development, essentially Parisian. It has received a magnificent locale in the Vestibule du Sud, opposite the Ecole Militaire. It will be remembered that in 1867 a similar department existed in the Exhibition of that year, and its success induced the French Commissioners to re-establish it now, upon a grander scale. It was proposed to them to turn the whole Champ de Mars into a series of workshops; to establish all over it forges, glass works and foundries; to have it bristling with tall chimneys, re-echoing with the whole grum of machinery discords, and redolent of smoke and steam; to turn it, in fact, into a species of industrial epitome; but this like a number of other ridiculous schemes which the archives of the Ministry of Agriculture and Commerce could reveal, was abandoned, although the Galerie du Frontal was extended beyond the limits originally assigned to it. A hundred little things, that are continually in domestic use, are manufactured before the eyes of the visitors themselves, who purchase them in large quantities; and it may therefore not be uninteresting if we glance at some of the principal industries so represented.

To commence, we may mention a curious industry, which cannot fail to attract the visitors' attention soon after entering the gallery. We allude to the filigree work. Few of us have not often had occasion to admire the delicate and ingenious work of this description for which Genoa is so famous, and which has its origin in the dimest antiquity. The workman takes in his hand a simple silver thread; he folds it, bends it, turns it, and with a thousand different ways, and with a rapidity that baffles description produces in a few minutes the most diverse objects, and the most astonishing effects. It seems to be the simplest work in the world; but a very little consideration will show that the workman must be endowed with more than ordinary taste, and with a dexterity which is only the result of practice and education.

Passing hence we glance at a modiste, who is dressing dolls in the newest and most approved Parisian fashions, and then we arrive at a stand where "skilled" workmen are supposed to be engaged in the production of numerous pretty conceits in ivory, mother-of-pearl and tortoiseshell. The real fact, however, is that all the "skill" of these workmen consists in unpacking ready-manufactured goods and pricing them, whilst the only claim that the stall possessors to occupy a position in the gallery is derived from a species of drill, which, for reasons best known to itself, is forever vacuously drilling the same hole in an ivory plate. Elephants' tusks are to be seen here in great variety, as well as ivory brooches, earrings, and other ornaments; but the mechanical link between these two forms of ivory manufacture is missing, and the process of evolution, like some great secret of nature, is allowed to remain unexplained. The inventors, however, of an imitation, called "ivories," are more generous. They show you some small brown squares of a material which, in appearance, is not unlike chamois—but they do not explain its composition. This they load, and when it is in a liquid state they pour it into moulds, which, at the end of half an hour, turn it out again in the guise of what seems to be ivory pendants. This simple process is not a very interesting one, but the productions are very pretty, and imitate very closely their more expensive prototypes.

We then pass in to review workmen who, by blowing bubbles from glass in a state of fusion and by tempering them in a chemical bath and other expedients, produce large imitation pearls, and all these gaudy beads for which the aborigines of Africa hunger their dearest possessions; others who make all kinds of waterproof clothing, manufacturing even the material by rolling the liquid into a rubber on to the cloth, and thus a series of articles are produced which are not only waterproof, but also fireproof.

The most interesting of the exhibits in this department is the one which is devoted to the manufacture of the "White Sewing Machine." It is a very simple machine, and is distinguished by its simplicity, its durability, and its ease of operation. It is a very good machine, and is well adapted for the use of the poor. It is a very good machine, and is well adapted for the use of the poor.

At a moment before the tables were gentlemen and ladies are painting on china lovely pieces of scenery, and beautiful representations of romantic and poetic scenes. We halt, too, before the workmen, covered with white powder, who are grinding a number of knives and a few drills, are carving lovely pipes out of blocks of Crimean and Anatolian meschamut, and others who are finishing them off by immersing them in wax, and adding the amber mouth-pieces. We pass some lace-workers; give a hurried look at the process of button manufacture; and stop one moment before the diamond cutters, polishers and setters, before we make our way out of the gallery.

Mr. Kearney abused the workmen of Bloomington, Illinois, because they did not respond as liberally as he thought proper to the payment of his "expenses." If that fellow is only given enough rope, he will soon hang himself. The total coinage of the mints during August was $8,500,000, including 3,000,000 of standard silver dollars.
