

The Post.

Middleburg, MAY 16, 1879.

J. CROUSE, Editor & Proprietor.

Gen. Grant and party were at last accounts at Hong Kong, China.

The border the Democracy grows, the broader the country grows.—N. Y. Tribune.

Over ten thousand Federal emigrants have already passed through St. Louis, westward bound.

Tilden's "bull" has run over Senator Wallace's "Cotton-Pot" and smashed it in Pennsylvania.

The public debt statement for April shows an increase of the debt during the month of 13,952.16.

Congress contains 19 editors, 7 doctors and 2 clergymen, who are compelled to associate with 211 lawyers.

The riot bill has been got up again in the Legislature in a new shape, but will hardly meet with much favor.

The Pennsylvania railroad company have declared a dividend of two per cent, payable on and after the 20th inst.

The Bourbon organs and assistant Confederates seem to have forgotten the Copher business and are again yelling "fraud" at Hayes. Yell louder.

The North American says that if Grant is elected he will be inaugurated. Of course he will. And if he is nominated he will be elected. And if he is alive he will be nominated.

Tramps will soon have a hard time. One by one the States are passing laws to make tramps the inmates of penitentiaries, or to put them to hard labor—the last thing they are willing to do.

The flight of the negroes from the South still continues. They fly from the brutality of the bulldozers. The Partisans fled from English tyranny, and the negroes fly from Southern brutality.

"The Democrats mean to elect the next President."—Democratic papers.

They meant to destroy the Government, too, but they didn't. They are trying to destroy it now, but they won't.

Democrats are very much alarmed at the protracted session of Congress, but having got into it the members don't know how to get out. Republicans are glad to have the session continue, as it is making votes against the Democrats every day. Let the debate go on.

It is well known that at the beginning of Grant's first term of the Presidency, he refused to appoint Cass A. Dana, editor of the New York Sun, Collector of the Port at New York. From that day to this, every issue of the Sun has contained one or more insults to the great General. Grant, with all his mud-sill millions, has no terrors for us. Let him try his old role of Dictator again, and see how it will work. He will find his mandates as powerless as those of King Canute, who tried to command the motions of the multitudinous waves.—Oklahoma Southern States.

The house bill to encourage the planting of trees along the roadsides of the state, having finally passed the senate, an opportunity will now be afforded all those who desire it, to adorn the public highways with handsome shade trees. This is the custom in many parts of Europe, and if it is carried out in this country our public roads will be greatly benefited. The governor will certainly sign the bill.

The negro exodus is working so good in the South. Even Southerners are forced to admit that the negro has been shamefully and murderously treated in many sections south of Mason and Dixon's line. The other day a meeting was held at Greenville, Washington county, Mississippi at which some of the most prominent citizens presented resolutions that were unanimously adopted, demanding that bail during must cease, and the negro laborer shall be protected in a free ballot and an honest count, "to the end that the labor of the country may not be driven away." Had this action been taken and honestly carried out eight or ten years ago, not only would the negro remained contented, but thousands of hardy and well-to-do sons of the North would have settled in the South and helped to make that section the richest and most prosperous portion of the nation.

The democrats finding that they cannot repeal certain measures by attaching them to appropriation bills are now forced to come down from their position. This is done with bad grace. They now propose to enact three bills—one to repeal the jurors test oath, another to abolish federal supervisors and marshals at Congressional elections, and the third to prohibit the use of troops at the polls. These they propose to pass and send to the President. The first of the three don't amount to much, but the other two will be vetoed by the President. In that case the democrats threaten to extend the present appropriation for six months, instead of a year, and go to the people for a verdict on their course. They will get it with vengeance, and if there was a Congressional election next fall the pieces that now knock Democratic Congressmen would Precept vs. Practice.

A few weeks ago Senator Wallace, with a great flourish of trumpets, announced that no Union soldiers were to be discharged by the Confederate Senate and all the democratic papers shouted it abroad. Well, last week the confederate Sergeant-at-Arms notified W. E. Creary, who served as an officer in the army during the civil war; G. W. Smith, an ex-Union soldier, who was taken prisoner and was confined for eight months in Libby and other Southern prisons, and Charles Bridge, also an ex-Union soldier, who was severely wounded in battle, that their services were no longer needed. Among others discharged from the office of the Sergeant-at-Arms, was Mr. Colbath, brother of the late Vice President Wilson, a gray-headed gentleman who has for many years filled a position as doorkeeper to one of the Senate galleries. Such are democratic promises. The truth is the orders of the day in Congress are "Confederates to the front—Union soldiers to the rear."

The Oklahoma States is worrying the Democratic press of the country terribly, many of which insist that it is a wicked trick time to print extravagant declarations in the name of the Democratic party and the South for the purpose of injuring the Democratic cause. How absurd! Of what does the Democratic cause consist, if it is not violent and denunciatory attacks against the Republican party, a Government of the Union, and a strong Federal authority. This is all Democratic, and it does not require any underhanded work on the part of Republicans anywhere to get such sentiments before the people. It is not also the Oklahoma States that disseminates harsh and treasonable utterances against the National Government and the measures it adopted to crush the slaveholders' rebellion. Such utterances are as common to the South as flowers with which to deck the graves of dead rebels, as popular as the flag of the defunct Confederacy, of which there are more possessed as cherished emblems of a cause to be revived whenever the opportunity arises than there are of the Stars and Stripes.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

Yankeeedom is beginning to understand that our people are still in favor of the State rights and the rule of white men. That is why she threatens to fall back on Grant, and give him a third term of power. We will have this to say: If Grant is elected and attempts to inaugurate the reign of domination and despotism that characterized his previous administration, he will find himself checkmated after the first move. The South has recovered the right of home rule, and she proposes to keep it home-ruled and forever—Grant or no Grant—and the sooner the hullo-bustlers of Puritans learn this little lesson by heart the better it will be for their temporary welfare. The South was helpless and hopeless at the close of our magnificent struggle for liberty and the heaven-ordained system of human labor, but the hour of our prostration is past, and Grant, with all his mud-sill millions, has no terrors for us. Let him try his old role of Dictator again, and see how it will work. He will find his mandates as powerless as those of King Canute, who tried to command the motions of the multitudinous waves.—Oklahoma Southern States.

Rev. W. M. Todd, a Methodist preacher, appointed to the Benldley Circuit, Arkansas, last February, has been murdered for preaching to the colored people.

CANDIDATE CARDS

Prothontary. Please announce Samuel A. Ward, Rep. of the House, as a candidate for the office of Prothontary of the County of Montgomery. He would be an active young gentleman, an expert business man and well known a familiar name.

Register & Recorder. At the time is approaching when we will be called upon to select a suitable person to fill the office of Register & Recorder, and it is our duty to advise you that we will be glad to place in the hands of Mr. D. S. Shaffer, an excellent person to fill said office, he has been tried and his record has been so well established for his promptness in attending to his business, and he has proved himself to be honest, sober and disinterested, and in every way qualified to fill the office of which he has a thorough knowledge, so that no further recommendation is necessary to insure the sympathy of the party, as he has been unflinchingly through sickness and losses, so that he is in need of help, let us nominate our strongest man, and we will be sure of our vote.

Merchants Appraisor's List.

Table listing merchants and their appraisals in various categories like Grocers, Butchers, etc.

FRANKLIN TOWNSHIP FINANCES.

Table showing financial statements for Franklin Township, including credits and debits.

Accounts of the Overseers of the Poor.

Table detailing accounts of overseers of the poor, including names and amounts.

SNYDER COUNTY, Pa.

Notice regarding the undersigned auditors of Snyder County, Pa., and their duties.

Notice in Partition.

Legal notice regarding the partition of property in Snyder County, Pa.

Auditor's Notice.

Notice regarding the undersigned appointed Auditor and their duties.

License Notice.

Notice regarding licenses and the undersigned Auditor's duties.

Assigned Accounts.

Notice regarding assigned accounts and the undersigned Auditor's duties.

Court Proclamation.

Proclamation regarding the court and the undersigned Auditor's duties.

Notice in Partition.

Legal notice regarding the partition of property in Snyder County, Pa.

H. T. HELMBOLD'S The Best Sewing MACHINE IN THE MARKET

Fluid Extract BUCHU, PHARMACEUTICAL. A SPECIFIC REMEDY FOR ALL Diseases OF THE Bladder & Kidneys.

Special Notice regarding Helmbold's Buchu and its benefits for various ailments.

West Jersey Marl and Transportation Company advertisement.

Advertisement for Ladies Coats, highlighting quality and style.

Advertisement for Helmbold's Buchu, detailing its medicinal properties.

Advertisement for Ladies Coats, featuring S. Weis' Selinsgrove.

Advertisement for FURS, showcasing various styles and quality.

Advertisement for Dress Goods, featuring various fabrics and styles.