To drive away red ants take camphor gum and sprinkle it where the ants make their appearance and they will disappear in a few days, if you don't have the gum handy use camphor wet, with a piece of cotton.

Ginger Cookies.—One cup molasses, one cup sugar, one cup of butter, one cup of lard, half cup of butter milk, one egg, one good tablespoonful of ginger, large teaspoonful of soda. Knead soft and bake in a quick oven.

Initials on Fruit.—Did you ever see a name printed on a growing apple, pear or peach? No! Well, if you wish to have that pleasure, this is the way to obtain it: While the fruit yet hangs green upon the tree, make up your mind which is the very biggest and most promising specimen of all. Next, cut out from thin tough paper the initials of the name of your little brother or sister or chief crony, with round specks for the dots after the letters, and then paste these letters and dots on that side of the apple which is most turned to the sun, taking care not to loosen the fruit's hold upon its stem. As soon as the apple is ripe, take off the paper cuttings, which, having shut out the reddening rays of the sun, have kept the fruit green just beneath them, so that the name or initials now show plainly. After that, bring the owner of the initials to play near the tree, and say presently: "Why, what are those queer marks on that apple up there?" You will find this quite a pleasant way to surprise the little one, and, of course, you can print a short pet name as easy as initials.—Mark Lemon Dodge Pidgin's St. Nicholas for September.

About Raising horses.—It is often said that it does not pay for farmers to raise the cr that breed at homes. But this is true only in a limited sense. The best specimens of any strain or style of horses will rapidly at good prices and the poor ones of all breeds are drugs upon the market. It is no doubt true that a much greater measure of success may be expected with some breeds than others, the choice depending largely upon the circumstances of the farmer, his location, etc., and that as a general rule, ordinary farmers cannot compete with wealthy professional breeders in producing horses for racing purposes, either roadsters or trotters; but even in these classes which will depend upon the location and the sort of brood mares the farmer may have on his farm. If a mare is a good roadster or trotter, she may have colts that will be worth more than double the cost of keeping her, and if she is not, she will be fairly profitable. Such mares can only be an object of interest to the raising of colts by the use of a good stallion, and the brood mares are of course of short price for working purposes, but we certainly find it most profitable to breed to horses of the class. Where these conditions do not exist we would find that the straw would be a very heavy item in expense account.

Where in the Southern [illegible] two persons are to occupy a bedroom having a night or more stop there would be but one bed, and that would be used by both. Frequently there will be a number of two or more persons and the expense can be divided with some people than others, the choice depending largely upon the circumstances of the former, his location, etc., and that as a general rule, ordinary farmers cannot compete with wealthy professional breeders in producing horses for racing purposes, either roadsters or trotters; but even in these classes which will depend upon the location and the sort of brood mares the farmer may have on his farm. Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, Impotency, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.
