Particulars will be given in our paper next week, in the mean time, we hope our citizens will make up their minds to assist all they can, as it is for a very necessary and praiseworthy purpose.

In all towns where a newspaper is published, every business man ought to advertise in it even if nothing more than a card stating his name and the line of business in which he is engaged. It helps to sustain the paper, and lets the people in the distance know that the town is full of business men. The paper finds its way into hundreds of places where a hand bill cannot reach. A card in a paper is a traveling sign board, and can be seen by ev'y reader. Think of these things, and let your light shine.—Columbia Courant.

The Snyder County Medical society meets on Wednesday, October 1st, 1879, at 10 o'clock A. M. at Middleburg.

NEW AND CONVENIENT C. RS.—The new passenger cars of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company have some new features that render them much more convenient than any yet built by other companies. They each have a small retiring room in which is a sofa, stationary wash-stand, etc., which enables a traveler who has not the means or inclination to travel in a Pullman coach to make his toilet before leaving the train, which is often a great convenience. The Pennsylvania Company always keeps in advance of all others in furnishing comfort and convenience to their patrons.

FIRE IN NORTUMBERLAND.—The large barn on the farm of Mr. Wm. Elliott, within the eastern limits of the borough of Northumberland, was totally destroyed by fire on Monday night. The fire, which is supposed to have an incendiary origin, broke out about 10½ o'clock. The loss is estimated at $3,000—$2,000 the cost of the building, and $1,000 the value of the crops stored therein. There was no insurance. A valuable bull perished in the flames. The fire department of Sunbury was called out by the whistling of engines and ringing of alarm bells. Mr. Elliott is in Huntingdon superintending the work on the new penitentiary.—Sunbury Democrat, 19th inst.

On Monday afternoon about the usual time for adjournment his Honor, Judge Bucher adjourned the several courts as a token of respect to the memory of Albert M. Pfahler, dec'd., a member of this Bar.

T. J. Smith, Esq., offered the following Resolutions and pronounced a feeling and pathetic eulogy on the death of the deceased.

WHEREAS, it has pleased Divine Providence to remove from our midst, by death, our young and esteemed friend and fellow member of the Snyder County Bar, Albert M. Pfahler, therefore RESOLVED, That it is with feelings of profound sorrow that we are called upon to mourn over the death of Albert M. Pfahler one of the youngest and most loved of our profession.

RESOLVED, That in the death of Mr. Pfahler the community has lost a good citizen: his family a kind and large hearted parent and husband, and the court and legal profession one of its most energetic and brilliant members.

RESOLVED, That in this hour of sadness and sorrow we hereby tender our heartfelt sympathy to his bereaved wife who has lost a noble husband and to his dear little ones who have lost a kind and affectionate father.

RESOLVED, That these resolutions and the action taken thereon by this Honorable court be entered on the minute of the courts and a copy of these resolutions presented to the dear family and that in respect to his memory the court do now adjourn.

The adoption of the Resolutions were seconded in a fitting manner by A. W. Potter, Esq.

Short but heartfelt addresses were then made by Messrs. Chas. Hower, A. C. Simpson, H. H. Grimm, F. E. Bower, C. P. Ulrich, John H. Arnold, A. H. Dill, S. P. Orwig and William VanGezer, Esqs.

Judge Bucher then pronounced from the Bench a solemn and appropriate tribute to the departed lawyer.

A Model Magazine.

What to buy—where to buy it—and what price to pay for it—are three questions, in efforts at whose solution a large proportion of the time of every wife and mother is spent. Paterfamilias, in the turmoil and eXcitement of money getting, is apt to decide feminine troubles: and to eXclaim contemptuously, that anybody can spend money—, the test of true ability is the getting of it. He knows little of the anXious hours which his helpmeet spends in trying to make both ends meet—, to balance unlimited wants against limited means—, to devote, to each branch and item of household eXpenditure, just its proper proportion of eXpense and no more, so that an abundance in one direction need not be paid for by a glaring deficiency in another. Paterfamilias, in his mercantile operations, has his prices current, his mercantile correspondence, and his carefully compiled business papers, as so many lamps to his feet; and it seldom strikes him that the wife of his bosom would be all the better for similar guides in her operations.

Others, however, are more appreciative of female necessities; and in particular, the publishers of Emmons' Fashion Quarterly seem to have an acute comprehension of just what is required. The Fall number of this magazine, which lies upon our table, leaves little to be desired in the way of information specially adapted to the wants of ladies. It is not, like many so called Fashion Magazines, filled with reprints of illustrations published in European journals; but contains carefully executed drawings, made from actual finished articles of costume at varying rates of cost; each illustration accompanied with a lucid description of the material and manner of making. Not an item of female necessity is left unnoticed; clothing for boys and girls, ladies' underwear, trimmed and untrimmed hats and bonnets, laces, embroideries, hair goods, jewelry, and a hundred other items, are arranged in such admirable order that any lady can without difficulty select an article of a style to suit her taste, at a price commensurate with her means. As a guide to making purchases, the book is invaluable. It reminds its readers of everything they are likely to need, shows them in what styles their wants can be supplied, and gives full and reliable lists of all the latest metropolitan retail prices. The FASHION QUARTERLY in short, fills a place in American periodical literature heretofore left vacant and fills it so worthily as to leave little room for competitors.

Six Months in Kansas.

NEWTON, HARVEY Co., Kansas, Sept. 1879.

ED. POST:—Six months in Kansas have come and gone. And in those six months there has truly been a very remarkable change in the country, and among the people. On the morning of the 7th day of March we arrived in this great garden spot of the west. As we first rambled over the broad prairie, things looked rather gloomy for the future. The prairie grass was dead, and not to be seen nowhere, the wind was constantly coming from a colder climate. Farmers were sitting in their houses, enjoying the heat of a well fired stove and the smoke which they obtained through their pipes. Wild geese were hovering and howling around us in every direction. The Jack rabbit was seen leaping in all styles and shapes you can imagine. In the cities the front doors were closed while inside a good stove was sparkling and glowing. Men were seen with the ulster and women with the heavy Beaver coat. But all this has changed. Now where there seemed to be nothing in the spring has sprung up some of the most beautiful grass, measuring from two to five feet in length, and at various places the sod has been well broken and is now in good condition to sow in wheat. Farmers have laid aside their pipes and are glad when they can steal away from the heating stove. Instead of clinging to the stove and smoking they are busy attending to the duties of well improved farms. Wild geese have left us and they are no more seen. The Jack rabbit still lingers around us and boasts when he has escaped the terrible crash of the Grey hound. Front doors in the cities are swung open and the mosquito screen stretched over them. Men now appear in their shirt-sleeves and bare feet, the women are dressed in summer attire.

Most of the farmers have finished threshing and are now busy sowing. Wheat this year was a moderate yield of 15 bushels per acre. Oats was a fair crop. Corn is very large and stalky, promising a very large yield.

What people should come to Kansas. Men are daily asking themselves the question: Should I go to Kansas? If you are a man with some determination and dependence and possess less money than you need to start in Penn'a, Then we say emigrate to Kansas. Because it is plain that you can become the owner of a beautiful farm sooner than you can in Snyder or adjoining counties. You can buy land here for from $5 to $10 per acre and get it on easy payments. Or perhaps you can find some poor grumbling, growling fellow that has three years lasting "blues." Such persons are always ready to sell, just for the purpose of getting back to sponge on their well worked down fathers and brothers.

Some men are afraid they will not have enough to live on. But this proves to be a great mistake and the statistics of the State will show you that she will soon be the very first as a wheat growing district, already being second or fourth. Others say it costs too much to get a start. Now this also seems very strange, as we know of men that came here with less than $50 and are independent. But this is not the case with all, only those who came with some good purpose are living in this style. The great and only mistake is, that men think that by coming to Kansas they will grow rich in a year and that they would not need to work nor manage, but that money would constantly flow into their pockets. Such men are ruination to this country, because they came here with money enough to give them a good start. The mistakes of such men are they never send their money in the right direction. Instead of working and improving their farms, they loaf and spend their money foolishly. Now after the money is gone and no improvments on the farm to benefit a man, then is the time this dreadful disease comes "blues" and then the cry is raised "no man can live in Kansas." Such men should stay among the stumps and stones of other countries and not try to run down Kansas because they were too lazy to work.

Men should think how their forefathers worked and slaved on the heavy timber of Snyder and other counties. This is one great advantage Kansas can well be proud of. Instead of fighting stumps, roots and stones for ten or fifteen years in succession you go on the beautiful prairie and break the fertile soil. Take five years among timber and stones and five years on the prairie. At the end of five years compare them together and see which has the better start. It is well enough to stay in Snyder county, but you can not expect to sponge on your fathers all the days of your lives.

"That Cheap Encyclopaedia."

Volume one of the new "Library of Universal Knowledge" is issued September 20th. It contains 736 pages of small but clear and beautiful type, handsomely printed on good paper, and is neatly and strongly bound in cloth, half morocco and half Russia, at 50 cents, 75 cents, and $1 00 per volume. The succeeding volumes will appear about two each month, till the 20 volumes completing the work are issued. Specimen volumes are sent to any part of the United States (10 cents extra for postage), of return after ten days examination. Special terms are offered to early subscribers and to clubs, of which full particulars are sent free on request by the publishers, the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE, 55 Beekman street, New York.

That a complete Encyclopaedia, first class in character, and containing more matter than any heretofore published in this country at any price, should be made and sold for the trifling sum of $10 00, seems so extraordinary, that many who wish it may be true, are very naturally incredulous. The same house publish a large list of standard works, all at similarly low prices, and the presence of some of them already in the hands of hundreds of thousands of lovers of good books in all parts of the land, is naturally rapidly transforming the incredulous into patrons and enthusiastic friends of the enterprise. No mystery is made about the cause of the low prices—they are, the reduced cost of manufacture to about one-half what it was a few years ago, the method of sale, direct to the purchaser, saving him the large commonly paid to agents and dealers, and a very large sale. It is worth the cost of a postal card to see their catalogue.
