At Baltimore, John Allen killed John Patterson with a poker.

The employees of the Reading Iat Manufactories are on a strike for higher wages.

All the rogues of New York rejoiced when the death of Recorder Hackett was announced.

The employees of the Middletown Furniture Works are on a strike for higher wages.

The awful suspicion is now aroused that Dan Rice's alleged conversion was only an advertising dodge.

The flow of colored emigrants to Indiana continues, and Senator Voorhees is almost distracted about it.

Gen. Sherman has declared that if a war with the Utes ensues he proposes to take a hand in it personally.

Charles Francis Adams pays taxes on property valued at three-quarters of a million dollars, and don't want an office.

The Democratic organs of Pennsylvania are trying to start the Hancock boom again, but with only indifferent success.

Those who are so eager to hold a wake over James G. Blaine might as well postpone the preliminaries for a week or two.

Lizzie Horton, of Washington, D. C., shot and severely wounded young Morgan, son of an Alabama Senator for slandering her.

Small-pox has made its appearance in Washington. It is hoped that every member of Congress has been effectively vaccinated.

Congressman Frye, of Maine, is Governor Garcelon's brother-in-law, but Frye says that don't count in the present emergency.

Col. Wright has declared against inflation of the currency, but will be found standing in the last ditch to defend the greenback as a legal tender.

Mr. Moody, the Evangelist, writes that he has no knowledge of having converted Dan. Rice, the circus manager, and expresses doubt that he has been converted at all. Mr. Rice, in the meantime, insists upon it that he has been converted, and proposes to go into business with Moody and Sankey if they will accept his services, or on his own hook if they refuse to take him into partnership.

MAINE.—The Supreme Court of Maine, though composed of Democrats and Republicans, have unanimously sustained the legality of the election returns which have been rejected by Garcelon and his council.

Garcelon and his co-conspirators knew that they were perpetrating one of the greatest outrages ever attempted in this country, hence their haste to protect themselves with the bayonet.

The Ute troubles have been deemed of sufficient importance to be discussed at a meeting of the President and his Cabinet, but no decisive action was taken. Secretary Schurz has not abandoned all hope that the guilty Utes will be surrendered, and for some reason or other he hopes for good results from the visit of a lot of friendly chiefs to Washington. On the other hand, those who have a more correct knowledge of the Utes apprehend that as soon as the friendly chiefs have started for the East those less peacefully disposed will at once take the war path, and in such an event a butchery at the Los Pinos Agency will probably be the first result.

King Alfonso's new bride will it is feared, have a poor opinion of her husband's subjects. To be shot at by an assassin is calculated to cause her to wish she had remained at the Austrian capital. The attempt to assassinate King Alfonso the other day was fully up to the standard as a bungling affair, being on a par with the recent attempts on the lives of Russia's Emperor and Italy's King. This effort at regicide was made by a beardless youth nineteen years of age, and the wonder is, not that he failed to hit the mark, but that he had nerve enough to pull the trigger. Unless more speedy and vigorous punishment is, however, meted out to these would-be Kingslayers, sooner or later one of them will succeed in killing a sovereign. Within very a short ... two attempts have been made ... Emperor-William, two ... life of the Czar of ... King Alfonso has been ... and once King Humbert of ... been assailed, with a

An Instructive Contrast.

On New Year's day Alonzo B. Cornell assumed the office of Governor of New York. The whole population of Albany turned out to bid him welcome. During the inauguration ceremonies the State House was crowded with citizens representing both political parties, congratulations were exchanged between those who were about to retire from office and those who were about to assume its burdens and responsibilities, the people loudly applauded and partisan rancor was forgotten in the demonstrations of respect and good will which came up from every side. Governor Robinson and Governor Cornell entered the Senate Chamber arm in arm, and passed up to the rostrum, where Governor Cornell took the oath of office. The outgoing and the incoming State officers occupied front seats and exchanged friendly courtesies as the new administration assumed control and the old ceased to exist.

In accordance with the usual custom, Governor Robinson made a brief farewell speech, which was characterized by strong sense and good taste. He is a man of sterling integrity, and his failure to secure a reselection cannot be attributed to any glaring mistake or defect in his administration. Governor Cornell made a brief inaugural address, in which he paid a high tribute to the retiring Governor, and congratulated him upon the honorable record which he has made for himself in the annals of the State. Then the two Governors shook hands, and, returning to the executive chamber together they held a joint reception in which the friends of both mingled in friendly intercourse, and the remainder of the day was given up to social festivities, in which all differences in political opinion were put out of sight.

A new Governor of Maine is to be inaugurated next week, but the pleasant scene witnessed at Albany on New Year's day will not be repeated at Augusta. Throughout the borders of Maine there is a feeling of apprehension that the election and installation of a chief executive may be attended with strife and bloodshed. Arms are being brought to the Capitol, soldiers are quartered in the State House, military organizations have been instructed to hold themselves ready to march on a moment's notice, and circulars have been sent out inviting the partisans of the Governor whose term is about to expire, to come to Augusta prepared for any emergency. Why these warlike demonstrations? Why this resort to the military arm of the Government? Why this appeal to the ruffianism of reckless partisans? Why is the recurrence of a peaceful and a highly interesting event made the occasion of an alarming exhibition of political rancor, with threats of actual violence?

Let Governor Garcelon and his corrupt advisers answer. They have stirred up a storm of popular indignation, which they are vainly trying to ward off with bayonets and bludgeons. The people of Maine are as intelligent, as law abiding and as patriotic as those of New York. Augusta, although a smaller city than Albany, is not less distinguished for culture and hospitality. And yet while the former is celebrating the inauguration of a new Governor with a round of social festivities and visitors from other cities are welcomed to the homes of its prosperous people, the latter is filled with apprehension of coming trouble, and the advent of a stranger excites suspicion and provokes comment, and the movements of its best-known and most highly-respected citizens are watched with suspicion.

A great crime has been committed in Maine, and its authors are in mortal terror lest the people shall prevent them from enjoying its fruits. There is no animosity or ill feeling in New York over the election, because the count was fair, and there was no attempt to count out one set of candidates or count in another set. The Canvassing Board obeyed the Constitution and laws and gave effect to the ballots cast by the legally qualified voters. There was perfect acquiescence in the result, because everybody admitted that the election was fair, and that the canvass of the votes had been honestly made. If the Democratic candidates had received a majority of votes the Republicans would have assisted in the inauguration of the new officers, and would have accorded them all the honor and respect due to their official station. After a most exciting political contest there is peace in New York because justice has been done and the will of the people has been respected and enforced.

In Maine the popular sense of justice has been outraged by the perpetration of an infamous crime under the pretense of enforcing the letter of the law. There is hot temper everywhere because a great wrong has been committed for which the ordinary processes of the law seem to afford no adequate remedy. The public conscience is protesting against the triumphs of chicanery and fraud. While there is perfect toleration for all shades of political opinion in Maine, there is no toleration for rascality and double-dealing. A man who steals an office is held in no higher repute than a man who steals money. The patriotic people of Maine will take no part in the inauguration of a governor who has obtained the office by trickery and fraud. Should the crime be fully consummated they possibly may feel constrained to recognize one de facto State authorities, but it will be under protest. Nothing will satisfy the masses of the people but justice. They have no toleration for petty trickery, whether it is practiced by traveling mountebanks on the street corners or by men in high official position. The contrast between the conditions of affairs at Albany and at Augusta strikingly illustrates the popular detestation for that which is wrong. No amount of hypocritical cant about the forms of law and the letter of the Constitution can save Governor Garcelon from the social and moral penalties which are visited those who are unfaithful to high public trusts.—Phila Press, Jan 3.

Then the tramp bet that within five minutes he would be in child's out of the best that the house afforded. He won, too, because he proved that he was a wandering son returned.

A shocking spectacle was witnessed at an interment at Kirkcaldy in Scotland a few days ago. Nearly all the mourners had become so intoxicated that one of them, when lowering the coffin into the grave, staggered forward and fell into the tomb. He became jammed between the descending corpse and the side of the grave, and was extricated with difficulty.

Mexican robbers are real hidalgos and always steal and murder like gentlemen, being especially polite to the ladies whose jewels they appropriate. A bandit chief, after shooting a gentleman dead because he refused to give up the keys to his house, addressed the agonized widow thus, with hat in hand: "Madame, we are gentlemen, and never could be guilty of rudeness to the fair. Pray accept this diamond as a memento of the deceased, and believe me your slave to command, compliments to your distressed orphans. Adieu!"

THE BEST REMEDY FOR
Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

Diseases of the pulmonary organs are so prevalent and fatal, that a safe and reliable remedy for them is invaluable to every community. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results, which enables physicians as well as invalids to use it with confidence. It is the most reliable remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs that science has produced. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt and certain relief, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it without difficulty. In the treatment of ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household, for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

The marvellous cures which AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has effected all over the world are a sufficient guaranty that it will continue to produce the best results. An impartial trial will convince the most sceptical of its wonderful curative powers, as well as of its superiority over all other preparations for pulmonary complaints.

Eminent physicians in all parts of the country, knowing its composition, recommend AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL to invalids, and prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proved its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.
