

Middleburg, June 24, 1880.

J. CRUSE, Editor & Proprietor.

FOR PRESIDENT

GEN. JAMES A. GARFIELD, of Ohio.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT

GEN. CHESTER A. ARTHUR, of New York.

JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT

HENRY GREENE, of Northampton Co.

FOR AUDITOR GENERAL

JOHN A. LEMON, of Blair County.

COUNTY TICKET.

FOR COMMISSIONER

Hon. HORATIO G. FISHER, of Huntingdon.

FOR SENATOR

Hon. JOHN B. PACKER, of Northumberland. (Subject to decision of Senatorial District Conference.)

FOR ASSEMBLY

L. N. MYERS, of Middleburg.

FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR

GEORGE B. BENFER, of Jackson.

In political life, General Garfield is bold, manly and outspoken. Personally, he is generous, warm-hearted and genial.

General Garfield was nominated by the people, and the people will show what they are going to do about it.

Senator Singleton, of Mississippi, says: "Garfield is the very strongest man the Republicans could have chosen. You are right, senator."

If the Democrats had run the Chicago convention they would have nominated somebody else. But they didn't, and now they are mad.

A Blair county Democrat said to the Altoona Tribune: "If the Democrats think Garfield's nomination a weak one, they will find themselves very much mistaken."

New York Tribune: "The Independents are all satisfied; there is not a break in the Republican party anywhere. This is the secret of the Democratic gymnastics."

Governor Foster, of Ohio, one of General Garfield's most intimate friends, says: "I regard Garfield as one of the ablest and most practical of the advocates of a protective tariff."

Somewhat or other, the Democrats seem to have lost faith in the virtue of a campaign of calumny, and the party journals are actually warning the managers not to underestimate the strength of General Garfield.

Up to Saturday 397 enumerators in Philadelphia had finished their work, which footed up 766,244. Several hundred are yet to report, and it is thought the population will reach a million.

The Democratic organs are already charging that Garfield is a "salary grabber." The records show that he covered his $5,000 extra salary into the Treasury. They will have to start a better lie than that, if they want it to stick.

As Abraham Lincoln was a man of the people, so General Garfield is a man of the people. He is not a man of mushroom growth. He is not come up too rapidly. He is the sort of growth that has deep, far-reaching roots.—Pittsburg Chronicle.

The Greenback National Convention, which met in Chicago last week, placed the following ticket in nomination, viz: For President—Gen. Jas. B. Weaver, of Iowa.

Vice President—B. J. Chambers, of Texas.

Senator Conkling says that next to Grant, he considers Garfield the best possible candidate, and one whose nomination assures victory. He says that New York State will give the ticket a majority of at least fifty thousand over the United Democracy, though he doubts if the Democratic factions can be united.

William Alexander Montgomery Grier, of Hazleton, Luzerne county, Pa., has the proud distinction of naming Gen. Garfield for the Presidency. Mr. Grier voted for Garfield on the second ballot, and stuck to him to the end. He was occasionally reinforced by his colleague from the same district, when Garfield would score two votes, until the break on the 34th ballot.

Oregon leads the Garfield and Arthur column of 1880. From away off in that northwestern corner of the great republic comes the news of a Democratic rout in the election which took place on Monday. The Republicans have elected three judges of the supreme court, have, in all probability, carried a majority of the legislature, and have chosen Mr. M. C. George to the Forty-seventh congress. The average majorities are from eight hundred to a thousand. Mr. George is the first member elected to the next congress, and will take the seat of Mr. Whitaker (Democrat), who now represents the state. The Democrats have carried the state ever since 1876, and now the Republicans have been victorious over both Democratic and Greenback tickets. The present governor, who is a Democrat, holds over until 1882, and there is no United States senator to be elected until that year; but Monday's triumph scores the three electoral votes of Oregon for Garfield and Arthur in November next.

General Garfield is a self made man, and he made a good job of it.

That good old man Tilden has plugged up the barrel. Now there will be trouble.

People who have lost their wits within a few years past will come to their senses this year.

An oil fire at Titusville, Pa., last week, destroyed about forty buildings and 350,000 barrels of oil.

France exports to Europe $149,000,000 worth of manufactured articles in excess of what England exports.

A track of 50,000 acres on the Northern Pacific railroad has been bought for a colony from Belfast, Ireland.

A vast deal of wire has been sunk under water, 97,000 miles of submarine telegraph being now in operation.

Two Tioga county cows locked horns the other day, and the owner had to saw a horn off before they could be separated.

Garfield can preach, pray, fight, legislate or enforce a law, just as the needs of the country demand the service.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

A woman of pretty face, plain manners and fair education is a convict in the Virginia penitentiary, and was sentenced for horse stealing.

The New York Sun has a long article entitled "In the Mountains of the Moon." Since the Chicago nominations were made the Sun has been decidedly moony.

On Tuesday General Barzizoli was re-elected senator from Rhode Island by the legislature of that state. His reelection is a well merited compliment.

When lightning strikes in New Mexico it never does any damage. The reason is that there isn't anything in the territory that is worth enough to sustain damage.

The biggest snake story of the season is pronounced by the Wheeling Leader to be that of the man who once saw a box constrictor swallow a New Jersey mosquito.

A gentleman in Paris has don'ted against a cabman who was engaged to carry him to a burial at the cemetery, but who accompanied the wrong funeral procession.

Between 1875 and 1879 Lord Falmonth's turf winnings were $633, 935. He never better, yet he has retired from the turf possible thinking that such good fortune could not last long.

The Hon. John Cosens, who was one of the stoniest three hundred and five who adhered to General Grant's fortunes to the end, concurs thoroughly in the prevailing judgment that General Garfield is, after all, the strongest candidate the convention could have nominated.

General Robert Tombs, of Georgia, was recently asked if he would sell fifty bushels of fine wheat for distribution among the farmers of his state. The general refused to sell for such a purpose; but said: "If that is what you want with it I will give you one hundred bushels."

The Democratic papers are hard to please. They said Lincoln was a baboon and that Grant was a butcher and other bad things, and that Hayes is a mill-sop; and now they are commencing to find fault with Garfield. Will they never be satisfied with the President we give them?

It is a singular fact that Hon. Jas. B. Weaver, whom the Greenbackers nominated as their candidate for President at Chicago, is an Ohio man, having been born at Dayton. And he is the same man who has been making himself so ridiculous in congress during the past session by introducing and advocating bills for flooding the country with depreciated currency, and for making a public distribution of the money in the treasury. Mr. Weaver is an ardent Democrat. He is well placed at the head of a ticket which Kenney and De La Matry helped to make. But how did it come about that the Greenbackers had nothing to bestow upon B. F. Butler, their guide, philosopher and friend in other days? They did not even give a complimentary nomination to Hendrick B. Wright, who has worked so hard to preserve it, and who has sought to have a bill passed giving every poor man $500 and a mile. There is apparently no such thing as gratitude among Greenbackers.
